SENATE WARS ON PRESIDENT

STRAWN VISIONS STRONG REVIVAL FOR BUSINESS

Tells Impressions of Paris Visit.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Silas Strawn yesterday gave a notable group of Chicago business men and economists the latest tidings on depression from one of the world's great clearing houses of economic news and views. He closed his remarks with a cautious declaration that the light of hope is dawning in the business world.

"I see," he said, "signs—even now signs—that we are coming out of this depression. When the recovery will come no one seems able definitely to forecast. Certain it is that it can be brought about only by coöperating individual effort and not by governmental action.

Forecasts Brilliant Recovery.

"But when it does come it will be not only substantial but brilliant. In saying that I do not presume to speak as a prophet, but by the record.

"In the last 55 years we have had seven economic depressions, from all of which we have recovered and gone on to greater prosperity and a higher standard of living. From the present, as from the previous depressions, there will be an eventual and, I sincerely hope, a speedy recovery.

"Meanwhile let us be courageous and optimistic."

Back from Paris Meeting.

Mr. Strawn has just returned from the Paris sittings of the council of the International Chamber of Commerce, a body in which he represents the United States and which he described yesterday as "the only agency which brings together in friendly discussion and coöperative effort the foremost leaders of business and finance in forty-six countries." The council's December session in Paris was convened for intimate discussion of world economic conditions and to outline the program for the whole chamber's biennial meeting next May in Washington.

What many European financial leaders want the United States to do toward restoring world prosperity was imparted to Mr. Strawn during the council's sitting. Those wishes, and other views of international magnates, he in turn imparted to a hundred attentive listeners assembled for luncheon at the Palmer house by the Northwestern University Associates.

Sees Danger in Russia

On Russia Mr. Strawn was most apprehensive, on politicians he was withering, and on that prime wish of European financiers as expressed at Paris—the cancellation by the United States of war debts—he was grimly negative.

"The most ominous cloud," he said, "that overhangs the whole economic world today is soviet Russia with its dumping on world markets of large quantities of grain, raw materials and semi-finished products at prices less than the normal cost of production. The duration and extent of this factor in the world economic situation cannot be accurately measured.

Some Favor Credit Ban.

"Some of the speakers at the Paris conference advised the discontinuance of credits to the soviets, the argument being that the industrial countries, by selling to the soviets large quantities of machinery and by furnishing experts to erect the machinery and construct factories, are making Russia a strong competitor with countries which are on an unequal basis in the world markets because they employ neither forced labor nor labor on the wage basis of the soviets, which is far below that paid in capitalistic countries."

How to dispel "the most ominous cloud that overhangs the world" Mr. Strawn acknowledged that he did not know, "because," he added, "I believe it will be impossible to obtain any accord among business men of the different nations with respect to a trade or credit policy with Russia."

Hits Government in Business.

Coming closer home Mr. Strawn took up the menace of "the incursion of our government into the field of private enterprise." It was then that he became caustic about "politicians." To the very word he gave a morose inflection, and said:

"If we permit the politicians who are now—well, perhaps 'infesting' is too strong a word—but who are occupying offices in forty-eight states, and who are in congress, to continue the exploitation of their nostrums, I am here to tell you that soon or late we shall find ourselves in the state England is today.

"Government steadily is intruding not only into private enterprise but also into private affairs. Is there too

Horlick Kin Sues Lawyer for $250,000

Dr. John Streeter Sidley of Racine, Wis., filed suit for $250,000 damages in the Circuit court yesterday against William Perkins Bull, K. C., of London and Toronto, and the Harrison Secret Service agency, 140 South Dearborn street. Only the praecipe of the suit was filed by the law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, representing Dr. Sidley.

Attorney J. Frederick Reeve of the law firm said the declaration in the suit, to be filed today, will charge that Dr. Sidley's health has been broken as the result of constant shadowing by operatives of the Harrison agency, employed by Bull.

Dr. Sidley, according to the attorney, does not know the motive for the shadowing.

Married Daughter of Horlick.

On June 30, 1909, Dr. Sidley, then a practicing physician in Denver, Colo., was married to Miss Mabelle Horlick, daughter of William H. Horlick, founder of the Horlick Malted Milk company of Racine. Subsequently he became a chemist with the company and later was made treasurer.

Three years ago Mrs. Sidley filed suit for divorce, charging her husband with cruel and inhuman conduct. The case is still pending. At about the same time Dr. Sidley resigned his position with the Horlick company.

A son, William, now 18 years old, chose to remain with his father following the separation, Attorney Reeve said. They have been living in a downtown apartment building in Racine, while Mrs. Sidley has made her home in an apartment in an outlying section of the city.

Shadowing Is Started.

Shortly after the separation of Dr. Sidley and his wife the physician noted that he was under the constant surveillance of detectives, the attorney said. The attorney said that whenever Dr. Sidley would sit down in a hotel lobby a detective would be seated within ten feet.

The detectives never did or said anything, according to the attorney, and Dr. Sidley has no idea why he is being watched. The suit was filed late yesterday, the attorney said, when it was learned that Bull was in the city. Positive evidence that Bull is the one who employed the detectives has been obtained, Attorney Reeve said.

Mr. Horlick and his two sons, A. J. and William Jr., are at present in New York, it was learned last night. Mrs. Sidley was said to be in Chicago.

From a close friend of Dr. Sidley it was revealed that the physician and Bull were at one time friendly and that Bull had visited at Dr. Sidley's home shortly before Mrs. Sidley filed her divorce suit.

A possible motive for the shadowing was given by Dr. Sidley's friend. He said that Mrs. Sidley has been anxious to obtain the custody of the son since her separation from her husband and that the detectives might have been employed to watch the activities of the father and son.

It was also said that Bull has acted as Mrs. Sidley's adviser and that he has made frequent trips to Chicago in the last few years.

Bull resides in Toronto and is senior partner in the law firm of Bull, Holliss & Wilson. He was founder of the Perkins Bull hospital for Canadian officers at Putney Heath, carried on throughout the world war. He is also known as a travel lecturer.

$225,000 QUESTION 12,500 WORDS LONG AND ANSWER IS 'YES'

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Attorney Frank H. Stewart asked a witness in Middlesex court today a question that covered 36 typewritten pages and contained 12,500 words and concluded by demanding of the witness: "Answer yes or no."

The answer was "Yes," and meant that Attorney John P. Wright, the witness, believed $225,000 was a reasonble charge for the work the late James M. Hallawell did as executor for the Arthur Astor Carey estate. The heirs claimed the $250,000 fee charged by Hallowell was exorbitant.

NABS EX-CONVICT AFTER HE ROBS, BINDS AUTOIST

As Barney Hayden, 1263 Pratt boulevard, vice president and treasurer of the Hayden Finance company, 4753 Broadway, stopped his automobile for a stop light at Sherwin avenue and Sheridan road last night, a gunman opened a door of the car and got in. After following orders to drive east to the lake, Hayden was ordered to get out, after which he was bound and gagged. The robber took $35 from Hayden's pocket and drove off in the car, leaving his victim lying on the beach.

A few minutes later Policeman John Flannagan of the south park force stopped a driver attempting to pass a stop light at Michigan avenue and Monroe street. A search revealed a revolver. At the detective bureau the ownership of the car was traced to Hayden and the robber was identified as Howard Fort, 24 years old, 7823 Colfax avenue. He had been recently paroled from Pontiac reformatory.

Kiwanis Punch in Lake Forest Has Its Flavor

The ladies' night social given at the Deerpath inn Thursday night by the Kiwanis club of Lake Forest was the talk of the town yesterday.

Kiwanians attended with their wives and guests. The dinner was sumptuous; the orchestral renderings harmonic, the atmosphere socially invigorating. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. William M. Gourley, 406 East Westminster avenue, Lake Forest, accompanying their member host, James Anderson, engineer. Mr. Gourley is a lumberman. His wife is a member of the W. C. T. U. During the recent senatorial campaign she stumped the state for Lottie Holman O'Neill, Volsteadian crusader.

Here Is Reason Why.

It really was a pleasant evening, that is, until frappes were served. It was then—but pause, for here is why the Kiwanis ladies' night social was the talk of the town yesterday.

Mrs. Gourley lifted her glass to her lips. She tasted. She set it down. She beckoned to Dr. A. J. Rissinger.

"Dr. Rissinger," Mrs. Gourley is quoted, "they're serving liquor here."

"At the Kiwanis club?" returned the doctor in surprise.

"That's what it is," reaffirmed Mrs. Gourley.

The Evidence Is Destroyed.

Dr. Rissinger shook his head dubiously. He had never heard of liquor having been served at a Kiwanis event, he said. At Mrs. Gourley's invitation, the physician tasted the frappe. "No liquor in this frappe," he pronounced. Whatever designs there might have been to retain the drink as evidence were destroyed at this point, for quite by accident the glass slipped from the sampler's hands, spoiling both container and contents. Mrs. Gourley still unconvinced—or rather convinced—made known her suspicions to Dr. Clifford P. McCullough. He, too, denied liquor was being served.

Anyway, the incident ended abruptly. Mrs. Gourley and her husband left the party without further ado. It was reported last night that some prankster had playfully mixed several drops of alcoholic concoction in the frappe served to Mrs. Gourley. At least that was the talk of the town last night.

3 CHICAGOANS DIE IN MIAMI AIR ACCIDENT

Plane Crashes at Scene of Races.

Three Chicagoans were killed and a fourth was critically injured yesterday when the airplane in which they were leaving the scene of the All-American air races at Miami, Fla., pitched to the ground near the race course. The engine of the plane was buried deep into the marshland and the plane itself was demolished. The dead:

Robert C. Smalley, vice president and sales manager of the Stinson-Illinois company and well known as a pilot here.

James W. Riddle, 23 years old, pilot of the plane, whose address was given as 105 West Adams street.

Dr. Harry A. Ware, 51 years old, a physician with offices at 43 East Ohio street.

The injured man is Dr. D. A. Smalley, 4 West Ontario street, a cousin of Robert Smalley. Both legs, both arms, and his back were broken, and internal injuries are feared.

Pilot Smalley and his friends left Chicago shortly after Christmas on their flight to Florida, Smalley's home, where he inspected airports with a view to establishing a branch of the Stinson Aircraft corporation there. They flew from St. Petersburg to Miami Thursday.

Start Trip from Field.

After attending the air meet they were starting on their return flight in the cabin monoplane, but were forbidden to leave the municipal airport by Operations Manager Ray Washburn until after the races were concluded. The plane was not entered in the racing events. Later, when the ship took off, Pilot Riddle headed for No. 2 pylon, five miles away from the grand stands, and was in the act of turning sharply around the marker when the ship crashed.

The radio operator stationed at the pylon flashed word of the crash to the judges' stand, and then left his key to help extricate the men from the wreckage. The three men were dead before ambulances arrived. The crash occurred in view of the spectators, but few saw the accident, and there was little excitement among the crowd of 7,500 race fans.

The radio operator expressed the opinion that the plane's wheels had caught in a telephone wire as the ship roared around the pylon, throwing it out of control.

Doctor Aviation Enthusiast.

Robert Smalley formerly was employed by the Curtiss-Wright flying service and lived here at the Medinah Athletic club. Dr. Ware was an aviation enthusiast, having flown frequently during the war, when he was attached to the medical corps. He was a bachelor. He was a friend of Dr. Smalley. The latter is a dentist.

Little could be learned of Riddle here. At the office of the Stinson company he was not known. Some pilots thought that the name had been incorrectly given and that the dead pilot might be Jimmy Riddell, former copilot on the Transcontinental Air Transport line. He had been appointed superintendent of the waterfront airport at St. Petersburg and was to have started his duties there Monday, according to dispatches.

2 DIPLOMATS MAY QUIT POSTS AFTER BRAWL OVER GIRL

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Two diplomats, one French and the other Peruvian, are expected to relinquish their posts here as the result of a rough and tumble fight at a New Year's Eve ball involving members of the diplomatic corps, who were a little the worse for champagne.

Several foreign diplomats, after a party at the Brazilian legation, went to a charity ball at the Strangers' club. The French chargé d'affaires, Louis Bouchaix, seeing a pretty American girl dancing with a young Bolivian, attempted to cut in on the couple.

The Bolivian demanded an apology and, when none was forthcoming, he struck the diplomat in the face, challenging him to a duel. Bouchaix answered that, being a chevalier of the legion of honor, he could not accept a duel challenge from a "Bolivian Indian." A new fight started. George Baily, the Peruvian chargé d'affaires, aided his colleague, while another Bolivian joined his countryman. A foreign office inquiry and an apology by the diplomats to the dance hosts has failed to quiet the serio-comic scandal.

Art Collector Killed as Old Gun Explodes

Preston M. Nolan, authority on real estate and bank appraisals, was killed last night when an old revolver, one of a score or more in his collection of curios, was discharged accidentally in his apartment at 5712 Kenmore avenue.

Although not a hunter, Mr. Nolan's hobby was the collection of old guns. He possessed also a treasure of oil paintings, fine linens, rugs and books, especially volumes with rare and costly hand tooled bindings.

He took pleasure in showing his treasures to his friends, and last night a dozen friends had been invited to dinner in the Nolan home.

First of Guests Arrive.

Leon Germain, 2320 Forest View avenue, Evanston, plant superintendent for the American Telephone company, and Mrs. Germain were the first to arrive. They were ushered into Mr. Nolan's library while Mrs. Nolan was busy supervising the preparation of dinner.

First Nolan showed them his collection of rifles, old muzzle loading cap and ball weapons into which the powder is poured from a horn, then the flintlocks and the old civil war type Springfields. From these Nolan and the Germains moved across the room to a chest filled with pistols, from the earliest type to the latest rapid-firing weapons.

Finally they came to one of the older Colt revolvers, a huge single action weapon, with a short rod attached for use in driving out discharged cartridges.

Starts to Unload Gun.

"But are you sure it isn't loaded?" objected Mrs. Germain as Nolan offered her the gun for examination.

"They are all loaded," Mr. Nolan replied. "I keep the cartridges in them so that they won't get mixed up or lost, but I'll unload it for you."

The revolver, he explained, was an original model engraved with the name of Col. Samuel Colt, New York. Then, pressing the muzzle against his breast he started working the ejector rod. It would not move readily, so he applied greater force.

There was a roar as the gun was discharged. The bullet passed through Mr. Nolan's heart and came out his back, barely missing Mrs. Germain who was standing behind him.

Death Is Instantaneous.

Dr. E. P. Carroll, 1200 Thorndale avenue, was summoned but Mr. Nolan had died instantly. The other guests were told of the tragedy as they arrived a few minutes later. All had departed before the police arrived.

Mr. Nolan was 55 years old. He was first employed by the Wabash railroad. In 1901 and 1902 he was auditor of Indiana banks. He came to Chicago in 1903 as chief appraiser for Peabody, Houghteling & Co., remaining in that capacity until 1907. Since that time he has operated independently as Preston M. Nolan & Co.

He was known among his friends as a humorist as well as the author of several works on financial topics. One of his latest works was "Business First." Others included "Pertinent and Impertinent," "Appraising for Banks," and "Nolanisms," a book of epigrams.

Cave-In Traps 20 Workers in San Francisco Tunnel

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Twenty workmen were trapped by a cave-in at the east entrance of the Hetch Hetchy Coast Range tunnel at Camp Mitchell tonight. An air pipe was forced through the slide by rescue workers, who reported the imprisoned men probably would be released. None was reported hurt by the slide and the men had sufficient air, rescue leaders said.

CALLED ON TO RETURN POWER NOMINATIONS

Action Unparalleled in U. S. History.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—By a vote of 44 to 37, the senate today gave the affront direct to President Hoover. It demanded that he return the nominations of the three members of the federal power commission which the senate confirmed immediately before the Christmas recess.

It did so on the assumption, expressed openly on the floor, that the administration, from the President down, was overly friendly to and controlled by the influence of the "power trust."

The President, it was understood, has determined to defy the senate's demand. And it is understood further that he is in a mood to enter into a new battle for supremacy and back up his position with another statement attacking his opponents in congress.

Should the President stand firm the senate either will have to yield or take steps to impeach the three commissioners in question—Chairman George Otis Smith of Maine, Claude L. Draper of Wyoming, and Marcel Garsaud of Louisiana.

An Unprecedented Step.

The senate's action, taken after five days of sometimes ponderous and often bitter debate, is the most direct attack it has yet made on President Hoover, and is unprecedented in American history. It is the outcome of the smouldering resentment which has been evident since congress reconvened, and which has broken into flame at every controversial issue.

Disagreement with the administration's attitude on relief during the economic depression has kept the fight alive.

During the few days of debate on the power issue the vital appropriation bills, which must be got through if an extra session is to be avoided, were at a standstill.

The vote came after an all day session which had lengthened into the evening. It found, as usual, the radical Republican bloc—the most vehement of the President's opponents—all lined up solidly against him, the place of the absent Senator Schall of Minnesota being filled by Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.], the President's long time political enemy.

Five Democrats, three representing states from which two of the commissioners came, sided with the administration.

How Present Row Started.

The three commissioners under fire, together with Frank R. McNinch of North Carolina and Ralph Williamson of Washington, were voted approval as members of the newly constituted power commission by the senate on Dec. 19 and 20.

On Dec. 23, without waiting for Williamson and McNinch to be sworn in, Dr. Smith, who is a former director of the geological survey, met with Garsaud and Draper and all three voted not to reemploy F. E. Bonner, executive secretary of the commission; William V. King, chief accountant, and Charles A. Russell, solicitor.

The ousting of King and Russell, who were considered enemies of the power interests and friendly to popular rights in water power ownership and operation, was met by a storm of protest in the senate. The criticism was loudest from the radical bloc.

Having voted for confirmation, Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, radical Democrat, was able to move for reconsideration of the nominations and to request the President to return them to the senate.

Five Days of Forensics.

For five days the senate devoted itself almost exclusively to the question of the power commission. With the triple issue of the rights of the senate, the sanctity of the constitution, and the power trust on the carpet the senators gave full reign to their desire to be heard.

Senator Walsh led the forces favoring the three commissioners' recall, and he was followed by a dozen others, among them Senators Wheeler [Dem., Mont.], Bratton [Dem., N. M.], George [Dem., Ga.], Robinson [Dem., Ark.], Connally [Dem., Tex.], such Republican insurgents as Senators Borah, Brookhart, and Frazier, and by Senator Johnson.

On the other side, supporting the validity of the confirmations and opposing the senate's right to consider them, the leader was Senator Guy D. Goff [Rep., W. Va.]. Others were Senators Hale [Rep., Me.], Hastings [Rep., Del.], Jones [Rep., Wash.], Cousens [Rep., Mich], and Broussard [Dem., La.].

Hoover Openly Attacked.

From the anti-administration speakers came many attack on President Hoover. Senator Wheeler charged that he had shown himself under the domination of the power trust, as did Senator Clarence C. Dill [Dem., Wash.] in a speech today.

"We know that every time the power question comes up we find the administration, from the President down, almost unanimously on the side of the power trust," Senator Dill declared. "At no time has the President, nor have members of his cabinet, raised their voices against the grasping power trust. But we shall find out now whether he will stand on constitutional grounds and refuse to return the nominations. The American people are entitled to know how their President stands on this issue."

Senator Dill brought in the Norris-Lucas quarrel, which was started by the investigations of the Nye committee, and asserted that though Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican national committee, had testified that he had no power interests, his biography in "Who's Who" listed him as chairman of the board of the Fort Worth Power and Light company.

He Includes "Radio Trust."

"The power trust," he continued, "is connected directly with the radio trust. They are all tied together. Through its associated companies, the radio trust has got hold of most of the desirable broadcasting channels and is fast dominating the field of radio communication. The people are entitled to know where their President stands on this issue."

As he went on he gave point to the observations that have been made concerning the five days' debate—that this was material for the 1932 campaign, when the power issue will be to the fore, and that it is but the beginning of more to come when the Muscle Shoals resolution emerges from conference.

"We know where the President stands on Muscle Shoals," Senator Dill asserted. "After having invested millions and millions of dollars of the people's money, he wants the power sold at the switchboard, so that the Alabama Power company, one of the members of the power trust, will be able to resell it to the people at its own rate.

Challenges the President.

"I want the American people to find out where Mr. Hoover stands on power. Is government power to be distributed to the people of the south without profiteering, or will Mr. Hoover veto such a measure? His friends say he will veto it, and they ought to know. He has never done anything except to handicap those who are trying to have the power generated by a plant built with the people's money sold to the people at non-profiteering rates."

King and Russell were faithful public servants, Senator Borah declared. "It was no surprise to me when they were dismissed," he continued. "As far as our vote is concerned, I do not hold that we can reconsider the nominations without the coöperation of the President; I am casting my vote on the proposition that another department of the government is just as anxious as we are to see justice done."

Johnson Gives Views.

Senator Johnson declared that he was not worried about the rules or rights of the senate; that it was not a question of rules or of law.

"Having learned what we didn't know before about these men, that they stood on the side of the power trust and against the people," he asserted, "there is only one question which we have to decide, and it does not matter that the President will probably cling to his appointees. The question is where we stand on the power issue, and if the vote amounts to nothing more than an expression of our views on this question, we ought to register them."

From Senator Couzens, who ranks as independent of any influence save his own views, came the most vigorous defense given the President.

"This matter has nothing to do with the policy of the federal government concerning the power trust," he declared. "The commissioners used wretched judgment in ousting Russel and King, but I am not willing to recall them for this one act. Nor am I willing to say they are tools of the power trust.

He Fears No Man.

"I will take no second place in opposing the power trust, or the President, if I see fit, or in my abhorrence of corruption. But I am not willing to let any one say that those who vote against this motion are tools of the power trust, or that the President should be accused of being a tool of the power trust. I hope the President will insist on the commissioners remaining in office."

Every indication is that the President will so insist, and there may be precipitated another of those historic controversies in which the executive and the senate have clashed over their constitutional rights concerning appointments.

The senate had the right to confirm the nominations and to withhold them from the President until, under its rules, two days on which there were executive sessions had passed. It disregarded its prerogative and notified the President immediately after the confirmations.

It was this action which took the commissioners out of its hands and permitted them to take the oath, and it is this fact which gives the President the power to defy the senate's demand, since the commissioners are safely in office.

It was this situation also which called forth the lengthy speeches in the senate, where all the mazes of constitutionality were gone into in order that a record might be made should this become a test case.

For two days administration supporters, through Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], assistant majority leader, had sought vainly again and again to obtain an agreement to limit debate. It was not until this afternoon that the anti-administration senators would agree to a limitation and to a vote before midnight. The limitation went on at 5 o'clock and the vote followed two hours later.

Six votes in all were taken, but the roll was called only on the first, that of Dr. Smith, at whom the radical-Democratic coalition was particularly incensed. Identical votes were cast on whether his nomination should be reconsidered and whether the President should be asked to return the nomination. The votes on the other two commisrioners were viva voce.

WHO'S WHO IN NEW CONFLICT BETWEEN PRESIDENT, SENATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—The three members of the federal power commission confirmation of whose nominations was reconsidered by the senate today are:

Dr. George Otis Smith, chairman; Marcel Garsaud, and Claude L. Draper.

Dr. Smith against whom the senate action was particularly named is a native of Maine. Following his graduation from Colby college in 1893 he engaged in geological work in the west and in New England. He entered the United States geological survey in 1896 and in 1907 became its head, and served in that office until his recent appointment, with the exception of one year as a member of the federal coal commission. He is a trustee of Colby college and the University of Chicago, a member of several learned societies and the holder of several honorary university degrees.

During his examination by the senate interstate commerce committee, he incurred the displeasure of those on the progressive side of the power issue by expressing, so they declared, opinions favoring private as against municipal ownership. During a past election in Maine, in which the issue was whether or not power should be transmitted beyond the state borders, he wrote a series of articles in which he supported such transmission of power. His critics in the senate termed this an attitude favoring the power trust.

Garsaud comes from New Orleans, La., where he has been a practicing engineer. During the war he served as a lieutenant colonel of engineers. From 1924 to 1926 he served as a member of the New Orleans levee board and was later made general manager of the New Orleans board of port commissioners.

It was charged by his senate opponents that he owed this latter appointment to the intervention of a power trust official, then serving on the board. Garsaud later went to Tulane university to perform investigations in power and engineering and the assertion was made that this same power official was a member of the university board of trustees.

Draper was a member of the Wyoming state utilities commission, having served there for the last 16 years. He was considered by President Hoover as a candidate for the interstate power commission, but was not appointed. Later he was given the power commission appointment.

The officials ousted by the three commissioners — Frank E. Bonner, executive secretary; Charles A. Russell, solicitor, and William V. King, chief accountant—served under the commission as it formerly was constituted, with the secretaries of the interior, war, and agriculture as commissioners.

That there was friction between Bonner, on one side, and Russell and King, on the other, was established. Bonner, it was charged, favored the power trust. He had advocated the relinquishment of government power sites. Russell and King were active in exposing alleged stock watering by power companies and were applauded in the senate as friends of the people.

According to a department of justice construction of the act creating the commission, all positions were automatically vacated. The ousting of the three officials consisted of not reappointing them. Bonner already had announced that he would resign.

640,000 BRITISH WORKERS FACING LOSS OF JOBS

Peace Parley in Coal Industry Fails.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 9.—An unexpected hitch in the negotiations to settle the south Wales coal mine dispute today resulted in a breakdown of the conference at Cardiff and tonight Great Britain faces the possibility of 640,000 workers being thrown into idleness in two of its greatest industries—coal and cotton. In the coal industry 140,000 men are affected and in the cotton industry 500,000 men.

The coal mine negotiations broke down on the question of interpreting the basis for the proposed new agreement which was reached in London on Wednesday. The proposed agreement provided that if the conciliation board disagreed on a reduction of wages, if any, the matter should be decided by the chairman of the board. The miners interpreted this to mean that the chairman should have power to decide wage reductions only on the basis of two hours less work each week.

Government May Take Mines.

The mine owners insisted that he be allowed to take all conditions into consideration. The issue resulted in a deadlock, and tonight William Graham, president of the board of trade, arranged for both owners' and miners' representatives to meet him in London Monday in an endeavor to solve the problem.

It is understood tonight that the government has actually contemplated the possibility of taking over control of the south Wales mines under the emergency powers act. The government has gone so far as to obtain legal advice concerning the question, but this advice has been antagonistic to the possibility of such action under the existing circumstances.

Cotton Mills to Close Jan. 17.

Meanwhile the situation in the Lancashire cotton industry grew more acute. Confirming last Tuesday's decision, the central organizations of the two chief sections of employers—the Master Spinners' federation and the Spinners and Manufacturers' association—by special resolution today decided to close all their mills throughout Lancashire on Saturday, Jan. 17, unless the dispute at Burnley, where 4,500 weavers at nine mills went on strike last week, is settled.

This would mean a general lockout in the cotton industry, affecting primarily 200,000 weavers and ultimately 500,000 operatives, including those in the spinning mills, which would be quickly paralyzed with the weavers not working.

Fight New Loom System.

The dispute in the cotton industry is over the owners' demand that each weaver operate eight looms instead of four, as at present. Despite an offer of $10 a week increase in pay, the weavers contend that if the new looms system becomes general a loss of wages in comparison with the old system will finally result. The employers maintain that the conflict is not over the merits of the eight loom system, which they declare is possible and practicable.

"We are, rather," one employer said, "up against the determination of part of the operatives to resist, as far as possible, any chance that the new system may, in its initiation, detrimentally affect the operatives, although only for a time. That is an attitude which cannot be maintained if the industry is to exist."

Von Hindenburg Intervenes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—The danger of a strike or lockout of 300,000 miners in the Ruhr district was minimized today when President von Hindenburg signed an emergency decree empowering the arbitrator to end the wage dispute with the aid of two neutral experts. The arbitrator will decide tomorrow what cut in wages shall be enforced. The mine owners have demanded an 8 per cent wage cut, while the miners offered to accept a 4 per cent cut.

1930 FREAK YEAR AS WEATHER MAN VIEWS IT

Chicago's freak weather for 1930 shattered several records with its climatic variations, according to a review given out last night by C. A. Donnel, principal government meteorologist here.

The year was warm and dry beyond precedent, with a mean temperature of 1.9 degrees above normal. The year's precipitation was only 23.34 inches, the least in 60 years of official record. From April 1 to Sept. 30 the deficiency of rainfall was about 40 per cent. On the other hand, Chicago experienced an unusual snowfall, due to the March storm, amounting to 42.1 inches, or almost 10 inches above normal.

January was cold and wet, with zero or lower on seven days. February was mild and dry, the third mildest February on record. In March was registered a temperature of 73 degrees, the highest for so early in the season, and was more notably marked because of the snow and wind storm of March 25-26. April, May, and June were warmer and drier than usual. July recorded readings of 90 degrees or higher on 10 days, with a maximum of 101. August was the fifth consecutive dry month. September brought the first frost, October the first killing frost. November was milder than usual. So was December, with a decided deficiency.

The week-end forecast for Chicago and vicinity is mostly cloudy, probably some rain, and not much change in temperature.

WIFE RESCUES HUSBAND FROM FLAMING AUTO

Raymond Feddeler, 25 years old, of Palatine, was saved from death yesterday by his wife, Fay. Feddeler failed to notice the railroad tracks at Park avenue, in Mundelein, and drove his automobile into the side of a moving freight train.

The car turned over and the gasoline tank burst into flames. Mrs. Feddeler crawled from the wrecked machine. Then she returned to the flaming car and dragged her unconscious husband to safety. Both were scorched by the fire and taken to the Cordell Memorial hospital in Libertyville by Mundelein firemen. Both will recover.

One death yesterday in Cook county raised the 1931 toll to 42.

Joseph Antonella, 30 years old, 2556 North Harlem avenue, died at the county hospital of injuries received Jan. 4 when he was struck by an automobile at Harlem avenue and Altgeld street. The driver of the car was Norman Olson, 3507 Pontiac street.

The inquest into the deaths of three persons who were killed early yesterday morning when their automobile was struck by an Aurora and Elgin electric train at a grade crossing in Oak Park was continued yesterday until Jan. 21 to await the outcome of injuries received by two other persons in the car.

The dead were Miss Lucretia Jacobs, 27 years old, and Miss Elizabeth Daniels, 25 years old, both of 3600 Pine Grove avenue, and Michael Gordon, manager of the Roosevelt hotel, 1152 South Wabash avenue. The injured are Frank Lawrence, 1648 Merrimac avenue, the driver, and his wife, Beulah.

The accident happened at the Harlem avenue crossing of the Garfield Park elevated.

FALL FROM PORCH FATAL.

John Traberg, 60 years old, 747 North Clark street, was fatally hurt last night when he fell over the railing of the rear porch to the ground.

NYE AGAIN WILL TRY TO BAR DAVIS FROM SENATE, HE DECLARES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Senator James J. Davis [Rep., Pa.] again must defend his right to his seat. Senator Gerald P. Nye [Rep., N. D.], chairman of the senate campaign funds investigating committee, announced today his intention of offering a resolution next week to declare Senator Davis' seat vacant. Senator Nye said that a final report of his committee would show that upwards of $1,300,000 was expended in behalf of the ticket on which Senator Davis was running in the Pennsylvania primaries last spring.

While a considerable part of the money was used for Francis Shunk Brown, unsuccessful candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, and others supported by the Vare organization, Senator Nye said that in view of the precedent set in the Vare case it was proper to consider that Senator Davis was a beneficiary of the entire amount. William S. Vare was denied a seat in the senate because of excessive expenditures for the entire ticket on which he was running.

Senator Nye failed in an attempt to prevent Senator Davis from taking the oath at the beginning of the present session of congress. A resolution which he offered at that time to refer the Davis credentials to his committee for further investigation was defeated by a vote of 27 to 58. The general impression is that Senator Nye will not get far in his new move against the Pennsylvania senator.

much kissing in railroad stations? Let's pass a law against it. Let's stop somebody from doing something. That is not government. That is the demagoguery of politicians."

Only ostensibly, the speaker said, is the vast mass of current congressional activity "designed for the cure of existing economic evils," and then he came down hard on the words, "It is in reality intended to aggrandize the proponents of it. We should awaken to the realization that we are not only drifting but are being precipitated toward the precipice to which, in the opinion of Sir Ernest Benn, absurd laws have brought England.

A Warning on Lawmaking.

"Unless this tendency to attempt to relieve all of our social evils by legislation is courageously met, I warn you it will be a day of eternal remorse when we, in the latter days of our lives, or, perhaps, our children, come to realize that we have drifted into the same social condition as that which obtains in some other countries of the world."

Mr. Strawn's comment on the enthusiasm at the December Paris conference for the cancellation by the United States of eleven billion dollars' worth of war debts was extremely pungent and brought approving nods and laughter from the Chicago magnates of industry and finance.

"I told my foreign friends in the council," he said, "that I was ever very receptive to arguments and that I realized that there was some force in their principal argument that with some debtors forgiveness of a debt engenders gratitude. But I also told them that I tought it was politically impossible to persuade our citizens that the world's good will, much as we would like it, was worth eleven billion dollars, and that the delivery of a world's good will was an indefinite undertaking, while the assumption of eleven billion dollars' worth of debts was quite definite."

Massmeeting Lays Plans for 'Hunger March' Jan. 12

At a massmeeting of 4,000 members of the Trade Union Unity league and Friends of the Soviet Union held last night in the Coliseum, a so-called "hunger march" called for Jan. 12 and to conclude at the city hall was approved. A committee will wait upon the city council and demand $75,000,000 for unemployment relief.

Several speeches called upon the listeners to "arise and fight, to follow the example of Russia." A detail of policemen stood around the entrance but no trouble arose with the exception of a stench bomb tossed at the beginning. The principal speaker was William Z. Foster.

CHINA ACCUSES EUROPE OF BEING DOPE SMUGGLER

Says Powers Refuse to Help Stamp Out Opium.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 9.—The Chinese government today issued a declaration pertaining to the opium and narcotic situation, in which it said:

"It is quite hopeless for the Chinese government to give relief or to succeed in the task of suppressing opium and other narcotics as long as the interested powers are not prepared to make a sacrifice in helping to eliminate the official opium bureaus in their far eastern colonies."

The statement declared that with the exception of the American administration—the Philippines—practically all the European colonial administrations in the far east derive a large part of their revenues from the opium business. The colonies referred to include the British Straits settlements, the Malay states, Hongkong, the Dutch East Indies, French Indo-China, Portuguese Madura, and Japanese Formosa.

China Plans Control System.

The report reviews China's efforts in suppressing opium and other narcotics, and says the government will shortly inaugurate a system of national control whereby the amounts imported will be placed on a quota basis, with all pharmacies handling drugs being strictly registered and inspected.

The Chinese government charges the European nations with responsibility for wholesale attempts at smuggling narcotics, particularly cocaine and morphine, into China. It states that last year the Chinese customs seized 5,000 ounces of cocaine, 10,000 ounces of morphine, 3,000 ounces of heroin, and 10,000 hypodermic needles. It also states that these attempted importations of narcotics to China originated in Japan, Austria, Germany, Italy, Switzerland, Russia, Hungary, France, and Great Britain.

Turkey Bids for Opium Business.

GENEVA, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Turkey today made a bid for a share in the world's legitimate opium business by offering to enter the Geneva narcotics convention if the other signatory manufacturers would concede her "a fair quota" of the international trade in stupefying drugs.

The offer was voiced by Chevkat Fouat Bey, speaking before the league of nations advisory committee on opium. He gave figures on Turkey's exports to European countries, and said that on every shipment his government notified the consulate of the destination country. While admitting fraud sometimes was effected and regulations evaded, he denied Turkey was the center of illicit traffic.

"It is an unwarranted and arbitrary act to seek to exclude Turkey from the world's legitimate market," Chevkat Fouat Bey said, referring to a recent London conference of narcotic manufacturing states, which denied Turkey a quota on the ground that she was manufacturing for the illicit trade.

Cites Humanitarian Spirit.

He asserted it was the Turkish government's humanitarian spirit which impelled it to desire to coöperate with league agencies in suppressing illicit traffic.

The committee will reply tomorrow or later to Turkey's proposal.

The anti-opium experts were encouraged by the spirit shown at the opening of the meeting, in which for the first time sat representatives of several countries which are not manufacturers of narcotics. Among these were Costro Leal of Mexico, Julio Casares of Spain, Augusto de Vascancellos of Portugal, who was elected chairman; and Alfredo da Castro of Uruguay. J. K. Caldwell of the state department sits as an observer for the United States.

FARMERS SEEK OUSTER OF MILK PRICE ARBITER

BY PAUL POTTER.

Nearly a thousand Lake county, Ill., dairy farmers, incensed at the sharp reduction in prices paid for the milk they sell to Chicago dealers, yesterday voted in a meeting at Grayslake in favor of removing Dr. Clyde L. King, who has been the milk price arbiter here since 1929.

The massmeeting, which threatened to become a riot, was attended by members of the Pure Milk association, the organization of farmers which markets the milk produced by 18,230 dairymen who supply Chicago and 16 nearby cities. It was the fourth of a series of county-wide gatherings this week in which farmers have suggested striking, reducing their officers' salaries, and other measures since the price paid to them for milk was cut three-fourths of a cent a quart.

"Farmers' Situation Serious."

"Farmers who supply Chicago's milk face a serious situation, in which their organization, which followed the milk strike of 1928, may be lost," declared D. N. Geyer, secretary of the Pure Milk association. He asserted that "milk dealers here in the last year had been forced to carry increasing burdensome surpluses as a result of mounting milk production and declining consumption."

"We farmers are getting less than 5 cents a quart of what the consumers pay," said Roy C. Davis of Round Lake, "and have to carry a herd and maintain a farm. The wagon driver, who gets $50 a week, is getting about 4 cents without a nickel of investment."

H. A. Pfister, farmer chairman of the meeting, averted several heated controversies between the officers and members in the crowded opera house where the meeting took place. O. I. Rockenbach, president, and Charles Wray, secretary of the county organization, declared after the meeting, however, that the farmers would shoulder the reduced prices, even though it would mean that most of them would be forced to continue producing at a loss.

Reduction Forced, He Says.

The farmers were told by Mr. Geyer that "the pressure from dealers, the press, and other sources to reduce Chicago's milk prices in line with cuts in every other large city could not be held off longer." He placed the monthly loss at $300,000 for farmers in the 20 counties affected.

Although the retail price change as announced reduced the price of quarts one cent, without affecting pints, Mr. Geyer asserted that most dealers had had to reduce pints from 8 to 7 cents, and that wholesale prices to hotels, restaurants, and stores had been cut proportionately.

The farmers in Kane county have indicated that a fight against the policies of the management of the Pure Milk association is inevitable at the annual meeting here on March 31. In meetings held at Silver Lake and Big Foot this week threats of a milk strike were voted down after spirited arguments.

SUICIDE VERDICT RETURNED.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of suicide while despondent over unemployment at an inquest into the death of Frank L. Scisson, 68 years old, who was found dead Thursday in his room at 330 North Dearborn street.

Science Now Reads Babies' Future in Motion Pictures

New York, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The first year of a baby's life, when scientifically recorded with a motion picture camera, foreshadows his later life. The picture method which hints the future was exhibited publicly for the first time tonight.

The films were developed at Yale university and were explained in a communication from Arnold Gesell, director of the clinic of child development, at a lecture sponsored by the Psychological Corporation at the New York Academy of Medicine.

Then They Do Their Stuff.

Beginning at the age of two months, Mr. Gesell said, the babies are placed once a month in a hemispherical photographic dome where they cannot see the observers or the motion picture cameras. Little red cubes, balls, strings, and bells intrigue them into doing their human development stuff for the movies.

"The studies at Yale show that individual differences in capacity, emotional characteristics, personality traits and body type declare themselves early. These differences are comparable in kind and degree to those observed later in life.

"Many of the differences are due to innate or constitutional factors, and are not the direct result of experience or conditioning. The extreme views of behaviorisms with regard to infant conditioning are not borne out by careful experimental observations of individual infants and of identical twins."

Used for Observation.

Yale also has a nursery equipped much like the photographic laboratory. It is used both for observation and guidance of young children and guidance of parents perplexed about their children's behavior.

"Society," said Dr. Gesell, "must use all possible methods to improve the health and alertness of the human mind, which needs the strength to carry the culture that it creates. Ample protection can come only through increased knowledge of the nature and the laws of human growth, and this knowledge is coming through modern science."

STATE DEFEATS FIRST MOVE FOR LINGLE SLAYER

Judge Holds Up Hearing on Habeas Plea.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

Efforts to force the hand of the state in the prosecution of Leo V. Brothers, accused of the murder of Alfred Lingle, were frustrated yesterday by Judge Philip J. Finnegan, acting chief justice of the Criminal court. Habeas corpus proceedings were brought on behalf of Brothers, and the attorneys who filed the writ insisted that the prisoner be produced in court at once.

Judge Finnegan cut short their arguments and ordered that the writ be made returnable next Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

State Ready for Trial.

By that time, it was indicated by State's Attorney Swanson's assistants, Brothers will have been indicted by the grand jury and ordered held without bail.

Charles F. Rathbun, special assistant state's attorney, and Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, who are in charge of the Lingle investigation and who accomplished the capture of Brothers, made it plain yesterday that they have no disposition to delay the trial of their prisoner.

"We expect to press for an immediate trial," Mr. Rathbun said. "Nevertheless, we intend to proceed in an orderly manner."

Present Habeas Petition.

The habeas corpus petition was presented by Attorney Tyrrell Krum, who filed both as counsel and as petitioner. He was accompanied to Judge Finnegan's court by his partners, Louis Piquett and Robert Ward.

When the petition was filed Assistant State's Attorneys William E. Ritthouse and Q. J. Chott, the latter habeas corpus expert of the state's attorney's office, were notified, and they went at once before Judge Finnegan.

Attorney Krum explained the purpose of the writ, and then stated: "Inasmuch as the state's attorney has made a statement that he is going to keep this relator without any action being taken until somebody else takes action, I ask that the writ be issued and made returnable at once."

Prosecutor Questions Move.

Mr. Rittenhouse asked Krum if he had spoken to Brothers. Attorney Chott objected, and Prosecutor Chott then said:

"As your honor knows, it has been the practice of attorneys in the past that petitions for habeas corpus writs are unauthorized."

Judge Finnegan then intervened.

"Mr. Krum, have you talked to Brothers?" he asked.

The lawyer admitted he had not.

"Who asked you to file this petition?" Judge Finnegan inquired.

"His mother authorized me, and here is my authority," Krum replied, as he handed two telegrams to the judge, addressed to Krum and signed by Mrs. Jessie Jessen, 18 Marshall boulevard, Webster Groves, Mo., mother of Brothers.

Two Telegrams Quoted.

The first telegram, received at 12:51 a. m. yesterday, read as follows:

"Your name has been give me as a prospective attorney to represent my son in the Lingle case. Would appreciate you getting in touch with me. It is understood this inquiry involves no obligation from any one concerned and only demanding justice for my son and hope you can help. Wire collect."

The second message, received at 2:08 a. m. yesterday, said:

"Following my telephone talk with you, I hereby give you authority to represent my son, Leo Brothers, and do anything necessary in his defense. I hereby give you authority to file habeas corpus proceedings at once. Wire collect."

Chott Makes Objection.

Prosecutor Chott, objecting to making the writ returnable immediately, said:

"It is only within the last day or two that the authorities have been able to obtain evidence to justify the detention of this man. The state's attorney will present evidence to the grand jury without unnecessary delay.

"In a case of this importance the state's attorney should be given every chance. The state should not be forced to expose its witnesses at any hearing. We ask your honor to give the grand jury the chance to hear the testimony.

"This is not a bailable offense at any rate, so why the rush?"

Judge Cuts Off Argument.

Judge Finnegan asked how much time the state desired, and Mr. Chott asked for a delay until Tuesday. Attorney Piquett in a loud voice began to speech, and got to the point of mentioning Brothers' constitutional rights when Judge Finnegan cut him off sharply.

"Just a minute," the judge said. "I'm not hard of hearing. This writ is returnable on Wednesday, Jan. 14, at 10 o'clock."

"How about Brothers' attorneys being able to talk to him?" Krum asked. "Will your honor enter an order at this time?"

"The only order that will be entered in this case," replied the judge, "will be that the writ is returnable on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock." He then left the bench.

Meanwhile Brothers remained in the court place selected by Prosecutor Chott and Investigator Roche.

BOARD REFUSES REASSESSMENT OF PERSONALTY

The present state tax commission will not order a reassessment of personal property taxes, according to an announcement yesterday by William J. Malone, chairman of the state tax commission, who gave his resignation several days ago to Gov. Emmerson to become effective next Monday.

The Association of Real Estate Taxpayers asked a reassessment of the personal property for the tax year of 1930 on which taxes are due April 1. The commission declined to grant that request, but indicated that it would consider a reassessment for 1930 and [illegible]

JURY DIGS INTO PROMOTION TESTS OF POLICE FORCE

Orders an Inquiry on Examinations.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Bernard Mielwicki, Bruno Lempa, and Walt Lempa, burglary, sentenced to 1 year each in Pontiac reformatory; Jasper Darcy, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Phillip Finnegan.

The special grand jury investigating conditions in the police department uncovered several unusual situations in reference to the method of holding promotional examinations, it was reported yesterday afternoon, and as a result ordered Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller and his staff to investigate certain facts by next Tuesday, when the jury will meet again.

James Osborne, secretary of the civil service commission, it is reported, divulged the facts which interested the jurors from the records of the commission. His records show that in a police promotional examination two years ago about 76 men received grades of 100 per cent each for efficiency. In the same examination more than 70 per cent of the candidates received marks of less than 70 per cent for efficiency.

Controls Candidate's Standing.

It was explained to the jurors that the efficiency mark in most cases controls the ultimate standing of a candidate for promotion. If a candidate's general average is low a high efficiency rating can bring him toward the top of the list.

If the candidate's general examination mark is high a low efficiency mark can send him far down on their list, the jurors were told.

Thomas J. Houston, former president of the commission, was questioned on this subject at length by the jurors, but he pointed out that the efficiency mark is given by the commissioner of police without consultation with the commissioners.

How Questions Are Prepared.

Houston was also quizzed about the reported sale in advance of the questions to be given candidates for promotion. Under his régime, he said, this was impossible. He told the jurors that on one occasion he went to his office at 7 o'clock the morning of the day of a scheduled examination and prepared the questions with one stenographer being present. The examination had to be held up an hour or more, he testified, because the questions were prepared the same day.

The witness said he had heard of supposed lists of questions being bought by candidates, but that they were fraudulent lists. He said that in one case—a fire department examination—several persons were arrested and fined for selling lists of questions.

Lay It All to Ames.

Commissioners Edward Denemark and Bishop Archibald Carey said that under the present régime of Carlos Ames they have nothing to do but hold the hearing of charges made against civil service employes. The examinations are entirely in the president's hands, they said. Bishop Garey has been waiting trial for months on charges of accepting graft for promised promotions.

Nate De Lue, assistant business manager of the board of education, whose name appeared on a check found in Jack Zuta's strong box, was the only other witness of the day. He was asked how it happened that he was the possessor of a regular police department sergeant's star. He said the star was given him years ago by Gen. John J. Garrity when the latter was commissioner. He said it was a friendly act.

BOY HIT BY STRAY SHOT AS POLICE FIRE ON AUTO

Walter Jazdyk, 13 years old, 4635 South Francisco avenue, was perhaps fatally wounded in front of his home last night when he was struck by a stray bullet fired by a New City police flivver squad which was pursuing three youths in an automobile. Walter was taken to the Holy Cross hospital.

Not knowing that one of their bullets had struck the boy, Policemen Michael Gadski and Raymond Lamb of the flivver squad continued the chase and caught the youths in a blind alley near 47th and Mozart streets. At the police station, where they are held, they gave their names as Martin Hozian, 23 years old, 1642 West 21st place, owner of the car; Henry Belski, 19 years old, 1645 West 21st place; and Carl Cassidy, 20 years old, 1632 West 21st place. They were not armed. Police said they had been disturbing the peace with a siren on their car.

AID 35,000 NEEDY WITH FUNDS OF RELIEF CAMPAIGN

Thirty-five thousand needy families are now being cared for with funds collected by Gov. Emmerson's commission on unemployment relief and the number is increasing at the rate of 700 families a day, Philip R. Clarke, chairman of the committee in charge of raising a $5,000,000 relief fund, said last night. A total of $3,477,445 has been collected by the commission. Contributions yesterday totaled $33,308. Of the amount now collected $1,000,000 has been set aside for the relief of needy families, $300,000 for the maintenance of shelters throughout the city, and $516,000 to provide work for men who are heads of families.

HELD AS SLAYER ON CLEW FROM FINGERNAILS

Specks of dry blood under the finger nails of Jack Antrim, 29 years old, a barber, prompted a coroner's jury yesterday to recommend that he be held to the grand jury on a charge of slaying Mary Judkins, 20 years old, who was found strangled to death in his apartment at 624½ York place, on Dec. 22.

Immediately after the slaying Coroner Bundesen called Dr. Clarence Muehlberger of the Northwestern University crime detection laboratory into the case. Antrim's nails were scraped, and the result was announced yesterday. Miss Judkins' arm, it was said, bore bruises inflicted before the strangulation.

HIJACK $100,000 CHICKENS; 6 MEN TAKEN PRISONER

Farmer Victim of Robbers Causes Arrests.

Six men were held in $10,000 bonds each in Wheaton last night on charges of hijacking more than 50 trucks loaded with chickens, ducks, and turkeys. In addition to the hijacked trucks the theft of large quantities of fowls from farms is charged, bringing the total of the poultry stolen to $100,000. Nearly all of the trucks are still missing and police said these would add between $25,000 and $35,000 more to the total losses.

The men were captured in a series of raids beginning on Dec. 23, when a farmer from Brooklyn, Ia., who was hitch-hiking his way homeward after losing his truck loaded with 27 crates of chickens on the western outskirts of Chicago, recognized the truck when he saw it parked in a farmyard on North avenue, near Wolf road.

Six Prisoners Held.

The prisoners are Charles Spaniel, 20 years old, 102 North 20th avenue; Joe Moreno, 107 20th avenue; Tony Bonovolonto, 40 years old, 1009 25th avenue, and Joseph Moreno, 14th avenue, all of Melrose Park, and Louis Longday, 54 years old, North avenue and Wolf road, and Len Ghrist, 37 years old, a poultry dealer of Villa Park.

The farmer who brought about their capture is Clyde Irvin, who, with his partner, Theral Crider, was hijacked at North avenue and Glen Ellyn road on the night of Dec. 22 while on the way to market in Chicago.

After the robbery they were taken to St. Charles and finally made their way to Chicago, where they met a neighbor, who was also here to market some produce. He agreed to take them home in his truck.

Sees His Stolen Truck.

When the neighbor's truck reached Longday's place at North avenue and Wolf road Irvin saw his truck standing behind the house. Irvin and Crider hurried on to Elmhurst and called the office of State's Attorney W. C. Reed of Du Page county.

Reed called Allen A. Myers, his chief investigator, who immediately organized a raid, in which Spaniel, the Mareno brothers and Longday were captured, along with a Negro woman and two boys who were found to be charges of the Juvenile court.

In the pocket of one of the men was found a check for $366.71 signed by a company at the Fulton Market, Chicago, to whom the men had sold the latest load of chickens. This company, police explained, was not aware that the chickens were stolen.

The men in custody are said by police to have been the "distributors" for the ring, while the three Melrose Park men who did the actual hijacking are still being sought.

THRONGS HONOR FIDDLER-WIT ON 90TH BIRTHDAY

Crowds packed into the village hall at Sandwich last night to help J. M. Hummel, known as the wit, poet, and fiddler of the Fox River valley, celebrate his 90th birthday. It was a surprise party which the villagers have been arranging for the last month. Prominent residents of the Fox River valley were present.

There were speeches, a luncheon, and a dance, with fiddling by the guest of honor. The doors of the auditorium were opened at 7:30 and the hall was filled immediately, leaving little room for the late arrivals.

Mr. Hummel, who said he was in excellent health, has lived in Sandwich for nearly 60 years. At various times he has been called upon to stump the state for the Republican party and even now he fills dates as an entertainer.

CALLS DOWN 2 WOMEN FLYERS AFTER 122 HOURS

Manager Says They Flew Too Low.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Edna May Cooper and Bobbie Trout, new women world endurance flyers, landed at Metropolitan airport here at 5:20 o'clock this afternoon after having been continuously in the air 122 hours and 50 minutes.

James Martin, sponsor of the flight, said he had ordered the girls to descend. He explained that citizens of Inglewood, near the airport, were circulating petitions protesting against low flying and he believed the department of commerce would object to the girls flying as low as they found necessary.

Shortly after noon observers noticed signs of trouble with the women's motor and the ground crew prepared to handle a landing when smoke from their exhaust indicated their 170 horse power Challenger engine was beginning to show the strain of continuous usage. Martin, however, insisted he did not call the flyers down because of motor trouble.

The girls made their flight in a Curtiss-Robin single motored cabin monoplane. The previous women's record, which they superseded, was held by Miss Trout and Elinor Smith. It was for 42 hours and 16 minutes.

Miss Trout and Miss Cooper were given medical attention after they grounded. Miss Cooper, former film actress, still was suffering effects of gasoline burns. Miss Trout had a sprained neck and both were declared suffering from colds, chill, fatigue and nervous exhaustion, which, however, the attendant said, would be cleared up after a few days of rest.

COURT REBUKES BRITON; BROKE 1677 BLUE LAW

Brother Testifies He Did Not Go to Church.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Leonard Bramwell Cox, Manchester town councillor, kept his own counsel—under observation—in his home last Sunday, and accordingly he was haled before his justices today and admonished for his failure to attend to his devotions after the manner prescribed by law.

A member of a body fighting the ancient English blue law shadowed the councilor all last Sabbath and found that he denied himself any form of "divine services."

The charge against Councillor Cox was:

"That on Jan. 4, that being the Lord's day commonly called Sunday, did unlawfully fail to exercise himself thereon in the duties of piety and true religion, publicly or privately, contrary to section one of the Sunday observance act of 1677."

Brother Fights Old Law.

Mr. Cox is a member of the Manchester town council and watch committee. One of his two prosecutors was his own brother, R. H. Cox, and both prosecutors are members of the Manchester Sunday Games and Freedom league which is active in an attack against the ancient law under which movies and other entertainments are forbidden in Manchester on a Sunday.

The brother of Councillor Cox appeared at the latter's home last Sunday morning and announced his intention of remaining there all day. He observed that the town official did not bend a knee in devotion and the summons was thereupon issued in due conformity with the law.

"Councillor Cox should have publicly rendered thanks to God by prayer and supplication. That is the definition of piety and true religion given in the act of parliament," Prosecutor Blackhouse asserted.

Brother Cox testified that he maintained a vigilant watch over his restive brother, who argued that "religion is reflected in every day life."

Denies Law's Right to Be.

The accused pleaded guilty, claiming "no civil court has a right to interpret the law of God for any man. I hope this case will bring notice to thousands that they are liable to be summoned every week if they do not attend places of worship."

The magistrates held that the offense had been committed, but refrained from binding Councillor Cox over to attend church next Sunday.

This is only one of a number of test cases which the Freedom league promises to bring to court in its fight against the Sunday observance act.

BANDIT ASKED FOR DOPE; HE'LL BE SURPRISED!

Long Beach, Cal., Jan. 9.—(AP)—E. A. Renfro, manager of a pharmacy, was alone in his laboratory today. He looked up to see a man standing in the doorway, holding a gun on him.

Extending a paper sack, the gunman ordered: "Fill up this sack with hop and be quick about it."

Renfro reached into his narcotics cabinet and put sixty tubes of strychnine into the sack. The strychnine was worth $4.68. The bandit escaped by the rear stairway.

THEATER PARTY HELD UP; BANDITS TRAPPED ON JOB

A flivver squad from the Hyde Park police station drove up to the automobile of Louis Weinberg Jr., 24 years old, of 5115 Drexel avenue, early this morning and the policemen were about to reprimand the driver for faulty lighting on his car when they noted a Negro at the wheel and another in the rear seat, both holding revolvers. The Negroes had just held up Weinberg and a theater party with him. The Negro at the wheel fled amid a fusillade of bullets and escaped. The other bandit surrendered to Officers Charles Enos and William Geighan. He gave his name as Clarence Babtist, 26, with no address.

The other victims of the bandits were Miss Jeanette Salomon, 20 years old, 1340 East 48th street; James Freudenthal, 5012 Woodlawn avenue; Robert Heinsimer, 514 Cornell avenue, and Harold Schloss, 25, of the Madison Park hotel, 51st and Dorchester avenue. They were robbed of their money and jewelry. They were returning from a loop theater. The party stopped at 5514 Blackstone avenue to leave Miss Rose Rothchild, 18, a co-ed at the University of Chicago, at her home. As Weinberg returned to the car the two bandits appeared.

ENDS LIFE AFTER QUARREL.

Harry Lyons, 48 years old, 3541 Carroll avenue, a clerk, committed suicide last night by swallowing poison after a quarrel at his home with his wife, Margaret.

SNOW AND FRESHETS, LOW TEMPERATURES, LOT OF CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Snow in the southern California uplands, together with freshets below the snow line, today closed several highways, as winter reached down from the north.

Frost warnings were broadcast all over the orchard and truck farming regions, with local frost predicted tonight in Los Angeles. The temperature sank below the thirties in a number of towns.

The main road to Ensenada, Mex., was closed by washouts. Warning was issued to all motorists not to attempt the trip to Bakersfield, Fresno, Sacramento or Oakland via the San Joaquin valley ridge route, unless skid chains were used. One to eight inches of snow covered this highway leading north.

LYLE IGNORES CRITICS OF HIS WAR ON GANGS

Albert Throws City Hall Taint at Opponents.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Judge Lyle's record as a foe of the gangsters was attacked by the Deneen forces at two noon meetings yesterday. At a luncheon at the Hamilton club Ald. Arthur A. Albert, Deneen mayoralty entry, was the speaker and at a ward meeting at the Boston Oyster house both he and Jacob D. Allen, Deneen manager, asserted that the judge could not be credited with the jailing of a single public enemy.

Judge Lyle's attention was called to these speeches later in the day but he said that he would not engage in "a controversy of that character" and would not be diverted from his plan of campaign for the mayoralty.

Attacks Lyle First.

Ald. Albert's general line of attack on his opponents was to charge that all of them, Judge Lyle, Charles V. Barrett, and Mayor Thompson have all been the beneficiaries of "Thompsonism" that he is the only almost pure anti-Thompson candidate. Lyle was the first attacked.

"Judge Lyle," Albert said, "has been a supporter of the Thompson political machine for many years. At the primary election last April he received the support of the Thompson machine and was nominated for reelection as a judge of the Municipal court. In November he again received the support of the Thompson organization and was reelected."

Albert said Barrett had been a supporter of the city hall organization and its policies and with its support was reelected to the board of review.

"They are now making all sorts of gestures," said Albert, "in an effort to divest themselves of their connections with the city hall organization, either for the purpose of nominating themselves or with a view to dividing the anti-Thompson votes so as to bring about the renomination of Thompson and continue in power their political machine."

Albert Claims Credit.

Coming to the crime question, Albert asked why Judge Lyle had refused to try "Mike de Pike" Heitler and Joe Saltis, two public enemies arraigned before him, who did not ask for changes of venue.

He said that "the truth about the crime situation," was that his resolution for a city council investigation resulted in the resignations of Capt. William H. Russell as commissioner of police and Capt. John Stege as chief of detectives and the appointment of First Deputy Alcock as acting commissioner.

At the Boston Oyster house, where there was a luncheon of the 49th Deneen ward organization, Allen preceded Ald. Albert and spoke of Judge Lyle as a "wolf in sheep's clothing."

"Not one public enemy has been put in jail," he said. "Not one major criminal has been put in jail."

"One of the candidates who says he is the arch enemy of the arch criminals," said Ald. Albert, "offered us his candidacy as a Christmas present on Christmas day. We'll take Lyle and Barrett and Thompson and drive them all to political oblivion."

Commenting on his youth, Albert said that many great men died before they had reached his age—32—and added:

"It isn't my fault I wasn't born 40 years ago."

New Support for Lyle.

These appearances were officially known as Ald. Albert's first campaign speeches and by many were considered the opening of the campaign. Thompson and Barrett have not begun their public appearances yet and Judge Lyle is speaking only before organizations which have asked him to discuss the crime problem. His opening campaign speech is being planned for some large central meeting place such as Orchestra hall.

Judge Lyle received a visit at his Hotel La Salle headquarters yesterday from a Seventh ward delegation led by Committeeman Charles L. Gerds who rejected a fat slice of city hall patronage offered to him for his support of Thompson. The group included former Assessor Charles Ringer who is head of the Republican Ward club, and Arthur Mattson, its secretary. Resolutions adopted by the club were presented to the candidate.

Lyle headquarters made public a letter from Louis M. Harvey of Ottawa, president of the Illinois Hotel association.

"The World's Fair in Chicago," he wrote, "can be made a huge success if the people will elect you and give you the opportunity to drive out professional criminals, their political allies and pay roll grafters."

It was rumored last night that Thompson had slipped back into Chicago as quietly as he slipped out for Mount Clemens, Mich., last Sunday.

U. S. TO NAME CONGRESSMAN IN JOB SCANDAL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—(AP)—The justice department was preparing today its case against the Indiana member of congress charged by the postoffice department with accepting money from four postmasters for their appointments.

George R. Jeffrey, United States attorney at Indianapolis, was called to the capital.

Justice department officials stuck to their refusal to make public the name of the member of the house involved until formal action is taken. The four postmasters, summarily dismissed by Postmaster General Brown, lived in the district of Representative Rowbottom, Republican, who was defeated in the November elections.

The case against the unnamed Indiana representative came as a result of information given the postoffice department by Senators Watson and Robinson, both Indiana Republicans.

COAST DEFENSE BY LAND AND AIR PUT UP TO ARMY

Row Ends; Navy Gets Freedom of Action.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Full responsibility for both land and air defense of the coast lines of the United States and all outlying possessions is placed squarely on the army under the terms of the new army-navy air policy agreement completed yesterday under White House pressure. The plan, which ends, at least for the present, the long controversy between the army and navy over which should be charged with aerial coastal defense operations, assures the fleet "absolute freedom of action without any responsibility for coast defense."

The solution of the problem of finding a satisfactory line of demarcation between the missions to be performed by the army and the navy air services in coastal defense was reached at a series of conferences between Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the army, and Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations.

Finally They Agree.

Impetus was given to their deliberations by the knowledge that President Hoover was tired of the long dispute and desired an early agreement. The facts on which the President acted were dug up by the two services and officials of the bureau of efficiency.

"The naval air force will be based on the fleet and move with it as an important element in solving the primary missions confronting the fleet," the war department announced today. The army air forces will be land based and employed as an essential element to the army in the performance of its mission to defend the coasts both at home and in our overseas possessions."

President Takes Hand.

The coast air defense functions controversy reached a crisis three months ago when the army charged that the navy was exceeding its legal rights in maintaining tactical—that is, fighting—planes at Cocosolo, Panama, and Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. It charged that the navy had no right to maintain land based planes, asserting that this function of coast defense should be borne by the army. In effect the war department argued that the navy should stay at sea and leave land fighting, both in the air and on the surface of the earth, to the army.

When the navy accepted the right to land based planes in possessions and advanced the argument that perhaps, after all, the national interests might be best served if the navy was given a larger part in coastal defense President Hoover took a hand. His first step was to order the bureau of efficiency to investigate overlapping in coast defense work by the army at Cocosolo and Pearl Harbor.

CITY TO CUT PAY OF IT'S OFFICIALS IN LEGISLATURE

City officials and employés who also are members of the general assembly will not be paid by the city for the time during which they are serving the state at Springfield. This policy was announced yesterday by City Controller Schmidt, who acted on the recommendation of Corporation Counsel Ettelson. In an opinion sent to Schmidt, Ettelson declared it a "reprehensible" practice for men who hold nonelective city positions to draw two salaries.

Those affected by the decision and their annual city salaries are City Sealer Daniel Serritella, Capone lieutenant, $5,000; James Curran, superintendent of the Bridewell, $5,000; Peter Kielminski, assistant superintendent of the Bridewell, $3,140; John Lee, deputy bailiff of the Municipal court, $4,000, and Charles Kois, an inspector for the board of local improvements, $2,200.

The pay of a legislator is $3,500 for the two year term with $50 for incidental expenses.

Rally on Jan. 21

Enthusiasm was manifest yesterday at 700 North Michigan avenue, headquarters of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, as plans got under way for the public massmeeting to be held in the Drake hotel ballroom on the evening of Jan. 21. Thirty-two ward and suburban chairmen of the organization in Chicago were addressed by Mrs. Stanley Field, Mrs. George Brennan, and Mrs. Joseph Cudahy.

The women will direct their efforts toward making the massmeeting the most striking demonstration thus far of growing sentiment against the eighteenth amendment, their leaders said. Mrs. Charles Sabin of New York, founder and president of the national organization, will be the main speaker at the rally. There will be no solicitation of funds, the speakers at yesterday's meeting said, the object being to draw together all those whose sentiments are against the dry laws, to sketch the progress of the opposition movement and outline its future.

The national executive committee of the organization will hold its quarterly meeting here on the afternoon preceding the massmeeting.

CRIME EXACTS DAILY TRIBUTE, RANDOLPH SAYS

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—"Organized crime is the real enemy of organized society, and organized society is daily paying the tribute which enables organized crime to prosper," said Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, in the Yale News today in writing of the Chicago crime wave.

"The Wickersham commission to the contrary notwithstanding," he added, "beer and booze are furnishing the sinews of war to a criminal organization which is nation-wide. If the graybeards don't know it, every undergraduate knows that booze at ten dollars a bottle, alcohol at twelve a gallon, and beer at sixty dollars a barrel provide an enormous revenue to the criminal gangs that purvey it to the recalcitrant millions who won't regard the eighteenth amendment as a noble experiment.

"It is this revenue that provides the criminal with the best and fastest means of transportation and communication, machine guns at one thousand dollars per gun, dynamite bombs at three hundred dollars per bomb, a trail of corruption of city, county, state, and federal officials all the way across the country, the best and most unscrupulous legal brains for defense, cash bail bonds at fifty thousand dollars per bond, murders cheap at any price, special privilege, and political power.

"The most discouraging aspect of the present war against organized crime is that the bootlegger has been given a romantic glamour. His armored automobile, his bodyguards, his lavish entertainments, his summer homes, his town houses, his charities, his affability, even his facial blemishes, becomes a credit to him, and the average American sap buys his cut booze or his needled beer and thinks he isn't such a bad fellow after all. The sap is kidding himself.

"We have built a Frankenstein that will destroy us unless we rise up and destroy it or at least emasculate it. If we were able to cut these sinews of war tomorrow, and did so, we would have a new and collateral problem on our hands. The criminal gangs would not immediately disintegrate. Men who found it easy to prey upon society will not quit and become useful citizens overnight."

RAID STILL; MAN ARRESTED.

Prohibition agents yesterday raided a 200 gallon still in the home of Angelo Zordin, 219 Lorenz avenue, Lansing, and seized 75 gallons of alcohol and 15,000 gallons of mash. Zordin was arrested.

URGE MORE TIME FOR CAR LINES TO ADOPT FRANCHISE

Committee, Simpson Approve Plan.

An extension until May 22 of the time in which the surface and elevated lines may accept the new transit franchise, which provides for their consolidation, was recommended to the city council yesterday by its committee on local transportation.

In a report to the committee, Halsey, Stuart & Co., the reorganization manager, said that because of litigation in the federal court and proceedings before the Illinois commerce commission the acceptance of the ordinance cannot be had without an extension of time to at least May 22. The speed that can be made from now on, the report said, depends on court procedure.

Simpson Urges Extension.

The time extension also was urged by James Simpson, chairman of the citizens' committee. He said he believed it would be impossible to accomplish the acceptance before May 22, but by setting the limitation the city would be in a position to demand a report from the companies as to their activities toward acceptance.

In the report on the financial details of the merger, Halsey, Stuart & Co. said there have been no objections raised since the publication of the plan was started. The report said the company expects to declare the financial setup operative after Jan. 28, by which time it will have been published for the required thirty days.

The council committee reviewed a report of the transit lines which showed that $7,140,000 has been expended on extensions since the passage of the ordinance last summer.

Question Platform Item.

Questions were raised by the aldermen on an item of $565,000 which had been used for the extension of elevated platforms to permit the operation of eight car trains.

The necessity of this expenditure at this time was explained by Attorney Walter L. Fisher. He said the work is essential to avoid congestion when the new ordinance, providing for universal transfers, goes into effect.

Attorneys for the newly formed property owners' committee on subway assessments yesterday were preparing for a court fight against the financing of the State street subway by special assessment. They contend that the subway is a part of a general transportation system rather than a local improvement.

Broker's Wife Asks for Divorce; Names Woman

In an amended bill filed yesterday with Superior Judge John J. Sullivan Mrs. Olga Elizabeth Easter, 4410 Dover street, asks for a divorce from Warren Turman Easter, vice president of H. O. Stone & Co., brokers. Mrs. Easter's original bill, filed last April, was for separate maintenance. The new bill charges adultery and names a Miss Betty Johnson Finkley, 30 years old. Through the law firm of Socrates & Davis, Mrs. Easter alleges that her husband and Miss Finkley were found together last summer in a raid on an apartment at 1456 Fargo avenue. Mrs. Easter asks $500 a month allimony and the custody of a 9 year old daughter, Susan.

LAW CONSERVES OLD MAN'S CASH, LETS HIM STARVE

Also Has House, but Is Dying in Poverty.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Jacob Pfeiffer, 79 years old, 4948 Gunnison avenue, is the possessor of a house and two lots, with a half interest in a $2,300 fund. But his physician says he is starving because of official red tape, while the city of Chicago, Cook county and the state deny responsibility for him.

Pfeiffer's estate has a conservator, but he himself has not. Therefore, while the Kaspar American State bank, appointed by the Probate court, guards the funds intrusted to its care on his behalf, Pfeiffer lies under the heap of old clothes in his unheated home, growing weaker day by day, his senile brain unable to comprehend much of anything.

Lays Death to Starvation.

Seven months ago his sister-in-law, Miss Diana Schreiner, was removed from the same room in which he now lies to the Belmont hospital, where she was alleged to have died because of lack of food. Physicians performed an autopsy and announced her weath was due to tuberculosis of the kidneys. Nevertheless, Dr. S. O. Mayerson, who was called in to see her the day before she died and who had her removed to the hospital, maintains that lack of food was the direct cause of her death, and that Pfeiffer is in danger of the same fate.

Otto Ring, attorney for the Kaspar bank, was consulted yesterday about the situation and declared he could do nothing beyond the efforts he had already made on behalf of the bank.

"It isn't the function of the bank to take care of the old man," the lawyer explained. "Those funds were placed in the bank's care and the only thing the bank can do legally is to see that the money is kept safely. I went to the Irving Park police, asking them to do something about the case. They told me it was none of their business and advised me to go to the county officers. I did.

A Record of Insanity.

"The county officers told me Pfeiffer had been in Kankakee as insane and that his stepson, Joseph Shea, had him paroled from there—which made it the business of the state to handle him. But the state officials seem to have washed their hands of it when they paroled the old man, and declare it's the county's business. There you are."

Dr. Mayerson also appealed to the Irving Park police, with the same result.

Joseph Shea, the 37 year old stepson and Pfeiffer's only companion, gives the sick man what little care he receives. Shea himself looks half starved. He is the son of Pfeiffer's second wife, from whom the property and cash came to Pfeiffer on her death three years ago. He has not had a job for months and his available funds gave out last July, he said yesterday. To keep himself warm in the fireless room he wears his cap and heavy sweater coat.

Has Home for Life.

Under the provisions of his mother's will, Pfeiffer was to retain a life interest in the home, which they had occupied for twenty years. On his death it is to go to Shea, who also has a half interest in the $2,300 cash.

The Probate court ordered Shea to pay his stepfather $25 per month rent. But Shea lost his job and has not obtained another. He has sold various articles, he said, to procure the meager meals he and Pfeiffer have been eating for several months.

Dr. Mayerson declares that Pfeiffer's days are numbered, and adds: "I've done all I can."

Wife Asks a Separation; Sues Woman for $25,000

John White, 54 years old, head of the Mastercraft Products company, 623 Briar place, was sued for separate maintenance in the Superior court yesterday by Mrs. Mary White, 822 East 46th street. At the same time Mrs. White filed suit for $25,000 damages, charging alienation of affections against Miss Frieda M. Kuellmer, 30 years old, who is named in the separation bill. The Whites were married on Feb. 28, 1893. They have three grown children.

NAME RECEIVER FOR CLOSED BANK AS QUIZ GOES ON

Owners See Chance to Inspect Boxes.

Appointment of James C. White as receiver for the closed Lawrence Avenue National bank was announced last night by A. P. Leyburn, chief national bank examiner for this district. The appointment was made by the controller of the currency in Washington, and Mr. Leyburn had not learned whether the receiver is a Chicago man.

The receiver is expected to take charge immediately and the appointment was welcomed by holders of safe deposit boxes in the bank, about thirty of which were looted of some $70,000 in a purported holdup on New Year's day. The box renters wish to examine their safe deposits as soon as possible and this may be done when the receiver assumes charge.

Find Irregularities in Books.

The bank has been closed under orders of the bank examiners since Jan. 1 and since then federal investigators have discovereed irregularities in the books going back, they say, for more than three years. The amount of the alleged abstractions has not been ascertained but one investigator declared it would be $100,000 or more.

In addition to the alleged peculations and the $70,000 safe deposit box loss, at least $10,000 was stolen in cash when the bank was looted. John E. Malloy, assistant cashier of the bank, has been charged with embezzling the $10,000 despite his story of a holdup and kidnaping. He is scheduled for a hearing before United State Commissioner Walker today.

Delay Case Before Jury.

Presentation of evidence in the case to the grand jury was delayed yesterday by the pressure of other business and Assistant United States Attorney Owen A. West said he would seek a continuance before the commissioner.

The evidence of irregularities in the bank's books is said to point directly toward Malloy and ledger sheets accessible to him were found missing as far back as Dec. 4, investigators said. The missing sheets account in part for the delay caused the examiners in arriving at an estimate of the loss.

GANGSTERS RUSH TO DODGE TRIAL IN LYLE'S COURT

Nine members of Edward ["Spike"] O'Donnell's beer running gang, who were arrested in a raid on New Year's eve on an apartment at 7845 South Ashland avenue, wanted none of Judge John H. Lyle's Felony court justice yesterday when their cases were called for trial. They asked changes of venue and jury trials and the judge granted the motions.

Three of the group, George Larson, Raymond Kane, and Thomas Larkin, were charged with carrying concealed weapons, vagrancy and disorderly conduct. The police found revolvers and cartridges in the apartment. Edward McDonald, Joseph Calnsky, James O'Brien, Thomas Green, John Adams and Thomas Shaw were charged only with disorderly conduct.

Daniel M. Agoa, 4847 West Van Buren street, was held to the grand jury under $10,000 bonds by Judge Lyle. It is charged that Agoa accepted money on the promise to exert political influence to have Sarah Goldstein, a shoplifter, paroled from the Bridewell.

HIBBEN SILENT ON GOSSIP OF HIS 1932 RETIREMENT

Princeton, N. J., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Although Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton university, declined either to confirm or deny reports of his probable retirement at the close of the college year in 1932, alumni of the university are anticipating the event and are considering various prospective successors, it was learned today.

"It is all very upsetting and embarrassing all around," Dr. Hibben commented tonight when asked for a statement. "It is much too far off to discuss. At this time it seems to me as rather interfering with the whole life of the university. I have my work to do here and I cannot comment further."

He said that the possibility of his retiring to accept the nomination next year as Republican candidate for governor of New Jersey also was too indefinite to comment upon.

BISHOP'S NIECE TELLS STORY OF VICE FRAMEUP

Waved to Husband; Sent to Prison.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Additional detail of the police vice trap racket were disclosed today at the Seabury-Kressel investigation. A graphic story of how little respectability counts when a woman goes to court was told by the niece of a bishop through a French interpreter.

No home is safe from the greed of the vice raiding cops in this town and references of the highest quality are but so much chaff in the lesser courts, according to the almost incredible testimony given thus far by scores of victims. A wife takes a chance when she waves bood-by from the window to her husband and a smile at a stranger is certain proof of corrupted morals.

It was Magistrate Jesse Sibermann, slim, gray haired and cynical faced judge who served for years in women's court, who occupied the spot light this afternoon.

A French Wife's Story.

The magistrate was called on the stand by Isidor J. Kressel to explain in particular the case of Mrs. Rosa Helen Ricchebuono, a round eyed French housewife of unquestionable respectability, whom he sent to jail on a trumped up prostitution charge. He said today he would do it again under similar circumstances.

The tactics used by the police in framing innocent women were told simply by Mrs. Ricchebuono.

"It was about 8 o'clock last July 31," the woman testified, "and I had just finished taking a bath and washing some clothes. My husband had gone to his business. There was no one in the room, so I opened the door of my apartment. I returned to the kitchen to put out the wash. I heard some one come in and close the door. I thought it might be my husband.

Stranger in the Room.

"It was a strange man and I asked him what he wanted. 'You know what I want, you called to me,' he said.

"I said, 'I never saw you in my life, get out.'

"He said, 'Is it money you want?'

"I said, 'No, I'm not that kind of a woman. Get out or I will call a policeman.'

"He laughed and twisted my wrist and put his hand over my mouth to gag me. I became wild and fought him. Two big men came in the door and chased the neighbors away and the man made he dress and get into a private car. They said I had waved to them from the bathroom window. I remember waving every day to my husband.

"At the police station they asked me my name and I told them.

"'You are a wop,' one policeman said, but I told them I was a Canadian. Then they put me in a cell and I slept on a board that night. There was no bed nor mattress."

Two Days Without Bail.

The woman said she was placed under $500 bail which her husband was unable to obtain until two days after her arraignment. The husband testified he had to put up fifty shares of stock worth $1,800 to obtain his wife's release.

Magistrate Sibermann was asked why he had ignored character witnesses' testimony in the case when it came before him. He insisted he had judged the case on "surrounding conditions."

There was only one witness against Mrs. Ricchebuono at her trial. He was a plain clothes man named Walter Ambrose, and he testified the woman had waved to him from a window. In spite of character witnesses and direct contradiction of the policeman's story, the magistrate sentenced the woman to two days in the workhouse.

Governor May Take Hand.

The possibility of a sweeping five borough inquiry into the disposition of vice cases became imminent with a report from Albany that Gov. Roosevelt was considering such a move.

Mayor James J. Walker met with the crime prevention commission and decided to name a vice commission of seven prominent citizens. They will be selected from a long list to be supplied the mayor.

While Mr. Kressel was digging into the vice racket a major shakeup struck consternation into the police department. Eight deputy inspectors and nine captains were ordered transferred by Police Commissioner Mulroney, "for the good of the service."

Meanwhile ex-Magistrate George E. Brand was being tried on the charge of having bought his job for $10,000, and at police headquarters Chile Mapocha Aguna, stool pigeon and master woman framer, was being cross-examined in the departmental trial of five suspended members of the vice squad.

RECORD OF BIDS TELLS STORY OF VIADUCT PROFITS

Wolfe's Office Shows $150,000 Excess.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

New information was found yesterday indicating that Commissioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe knew, or could have known, that in awarding the Wabash avenue viaduct contract, he was opening the door to excess profits. Wolfe's defense, when summoned by aldermen to explain the excess profit, was lack of information.

Commissioner Wolfe gave the contract to the Ketler-Elliott company, at its price of $529,329. He rejected the bid of the E. J. Albrecht company, who offered to do the job for $514,120. The commissioner accepted the Ketler-Elliott bid of $10 a cubic foot for sinking caissons below a depth of 75 feet. He rejected the Albrecht company's bid of $2 a cubic foot for the same work, with the result that the city has been made liable for a claim of $150,000 to $175,000 in excess profits.

Story Told by Bids.

Part of the information showing that the $10 price is excessive came from Commissioner Wolfe's own office. It is supplied by the viaduct bids themselves, on which Commissioner Wolfe awarded the contract.

There were 11 bidders on this job, who submitted two sets of prices on two alternative concrete specifications. In contrast with the Ketler-Elliott bid of $10 a foot, the prices of the five lowest bidders for caisson work below a depth of 75 feet were as follows:

Bidder	First Price	Second Price
Ketler-Elliott Co.	$10.00	$10.00
Gt. Lakes Const. Co.	1.49	1.54
Herlihy-Midcontinent Co.	1.75	1.70
E. J. Albrecht Co.	2.00	1.90
Gt. Lakes Dredge & D. Co.	2.50	2.60
C. E. Carson & Co.	2.75	2.70

The average of the five low bidders is $2.08 a cubic foot, as compared with $10 at which the contract was awarded. All of these low bidders on the deep caisson work have had experience in digging caissons in Chicago soil.

One of these five, the Herlihy Midcontinent company, dug all of the caissons for Wacker drive, which is just across the river from the Wabash avenue viaduct. In Wacker drive there are perhaps 10 times as many caissons as in the Wabash avenue viaduct. The Midcontinent bid indicates it could make a satisfactory profit in digging the caissons for an average of $1.72½ a foot. At Midcontinent's price, there was an excess profit of $166,328 for the $10 price in the deep caisson work.

Another Example Taken.

Another of the five low bidders on the deep caissons was the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company, whose responsibility has been established over a long series of years. Commissioner Wolfe gave them the job of straightening the river and later commended their work. This corporation's bid informed the commissioner that it would sink the caissons for a quarter of the $10 price at which he awarded the contract. At the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock price the excess profit on the viaduct was about $150,000.

Records of the south parks commission on the cost of the caissons supporting the viaducts over the Illinois Central tracks north of Roosevelt road show that these caissons went down to a depth of 53 feet and the cost was $2.13 a foot.

The cost of the south parks caissons is said to have been high because the contractor had to work between the railroad tracks with more than 500 fast electric trains speeding by daily.

"That Wabash avenue contract presents another reason why taxes are high," commented Ald. John A. Massen yesterday.

FORECAST NEW STATE BODY TO RULE AVIATION

That intrastate aviation will in the future be under the control of the Illinois commerce commission was forecast yesterday in the annual report of that body. Should this be done, the report says, a department for the regulation of air service will be established.

During the last year 3,900 orders were entered by the commission. In addition to 1,703 formal petitions filed, 30,312 informal cases were considered. The number of hearings was 2,449. The commission authorized the issuance of $264,447,640 in securities and $227,587 in fees were collected.

The report criticised the encroachment of the interstate commerce commission in intrastate affairs. "We find an increasing menace in the steady encroachment of the interstate commerce commission," it said.

St. Louis Industrial Club Asks Hoover to Urge Beer

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 9.—(AP)—The Industrial club of St. Louis has forwarded to President Hoover a resolution urging him to advocate an amendment to the Volstead act to legalize manufacture and sale of "nonintoxicating" beer. Samuel W. Fordyce, president of the club, announced tonight.

HERBERT IS GIVEN PERMANENT RATING AS DRY CHIEF HERE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Col. J. F. J. Herbert, who has been acting prohibition administrator at Chicago since prohibition enforcement was taken over by the department of justice, has been given a permanent commission by Prohibition Director Amos W. Woodcock. All other acting deputy administrators in the Chicago district have also been placed on a permanent status.

The prohibition director praised Col. Herbert as a "fearless investigator of the type needed at Chicago," and said he was one of the administrators paid the maximum salary of $7,000 annually.

Director Woodcock stated that the whole dry organization with the exception of about 100 persons is now on a civil service status. He added that he is placing the service on an efficiency rating basis and that in the future promotions will be based on these ratings, length of service, school reports and exceptional service rendered.

Since his administration began 31,087 arrests have been made by Mr. Woodcock's men, his monthly report disclosed today.

FEDERAL JUDGE ORDERS CAPONE TO COURT JAN. 19

Alphonse Capone must appear in court on Jan. 19 or forfeit his $5,000 bond in a contempt case, Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson ruled yesterday. Defense Attorneys William F. Waugh and Benjamin P. Epstein filed a petition to quash the information in which Capone is charged with contempt and Jan. 19 was set as the date for arguments.

The government prosecutors, Jacob Grossman and Daniel Anderson, said they were ready for immediate arguments on the petition but the defense attorneys asked for more time. The court granted the continuance and said: "Bring the defendant with you."

The contempt charge grows out of Capone's refusal to obey a summons to appear before the federal grand jury two years ago when the government wished to question him in connection with Chicago Heights bootlegging. He was in Florida and offered illness as an excuse, although he was reported at various race tracks and gambling places.

COUPLE ROBBED IN GARAGE.

Two armed men yesterday held up Mr. and Mrs. William McDonald, 9422 South Laflin avenue, in their garage and obtained a ring valued at $1,000 but fled without other loot when Mrs. McDonald screamed.

CITIZENS CHARGE RAIL BLOCKADE OF 103D STREET

Wolfe Is Asked Why He Permits Extra Tracks.

Residents of the far south side, at a meeting in Pullman last night, charged that the Nickel Plate railroad had illegally seized a section of 103d street and was blockading the thoroughfare. The railroad, it was asserted, had laid a number of tracks across the street without permission, merely to strengthen its claim to the land which is desired for a switch yard.

Speakers asked why Commissioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe had permitted the railroad to lay extra tracks across the street.

"Ten or twelve or more tracks have been laid by the Nickel Plate railroad in 103d street without authority of the city," said H. H. Haylett, director of the Great South Side Chamber of Commerce. "Commissioner Wolfe should bear the responsibility for permitting the encroachment. He is responsible for the failure to remove those tracks.

"103d Street Will Be Opened."

"It is certain that 103d street will be opened. It will either go over the tracks on a viaduct or under the tracks in a subway, and the city will probably be compelled to pay half the cost of the structure decided upon by the Illinois commerce commission.

"If a subway or viaduct is provided for only the two tracks for which the railroad has semblance of authority, the estimated cost will be about $200,000.

"If, however, the commission rules that the subway or viaduct must go under or over twelve or fourteen tracks, the cost will probably be about $1,000,000 to $1,400,000 and the burden upon the people will be five to seven times what it would have been if the commissioner of public works had removed the tracks which were sneaked across the viaduct.

Cites Wabash Viaduct Case.

"Commissioner Wolfe claimed he knew nothing about the extra work on the Wabash avenue viaduct caissons at $10 a cubic foot while the low bidder on the job offered to do the work at $2. In this case, too, the commissioner has made the cost five times as much as it should have been.

"I do not charge Commissioner Wolfe with deliberate neglect of official duty or with efficiency, but it is his duty to prevent the theft of city streets."

Peter Foote, secretary of the Stony Island Avenue Improvement club, declared that the extra tracks in some instances extend only across the street and are not connected with the main tracks or switch tracks.

"The railroad has succeeded in holding up the opening of 103d street for eight years, despite the unanimous wish of the public," Mr. Foote said.

Rowan Describes Situation.

Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] was another speaker. He pointed out that the opening of 103d street will connect the Pullman district, containing a population of 60,000, with the east side and South Chicago districts, where 65,000 persons are employed.

"The street is the first east and west thoroughfare which can be opened north of 130th street because of the conditions produced by Lake Calumet," Ald. Rowan said. "There is no street open between 95th street and 130th street, a distance of four miles and three blocks. It is no wonder that the people of this section are up in arms against the plans of the railroad."

Another speaker, Elmer G. Olson, pointed out that with 103d street unopened there was a considerable fire hazard in the district.

"In the event of a general alarm on the east side of South Chicago, where millions of dollars are invested in industrial properties, it is necessary to call for help from the Pullman-Roseland-Burnside district," he said. "It is now necessary for fire companies to go north to 95th street or south to 130th street to answer such an alarm."

SPAIN'S AIR CORPS ABOLISHED; ARMY TO TAKE IT OVER

Officers Stripped of Their Uniforms.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Jan. 9.—If anybody in Spain is in doubt as to whether Alfonso XIII. is still the king, it is not the politically minded flyers of what as late as yesterday was the royal aviation corps. They cannot even recognize themselves in the mirror today after the clubbing given them by their royal master in payment for their behavior in the revolt that failed two weeks ago.

This is almost literally true, for the decree abolishing the corps actually strips them of their uniforms. What uniforms! An elegant high waisted tunic of spruce green, whipcord patch pocketed breeches, black Sam Brown belts, golden wings and decorations all over the breast make up the ensemble, topped off with a cocky overseas cap with a golden tassel dangling over the eye.

Corps Seases to Exist.

The aviators found that all of their worst apprehensions and more had been realized when they read the royal decree in the official gazette today. Their corps ceases to exist as an entity, ranking with the army and navy as a separate branch of the nation's armed forces. It now becomes only a stepchild of the army.

Gone are all the special prerogatives that made the 500 officers of the aviation corps the envy of their comrades. They were pampered, had luxurious barracks and could buy their own materials.

For a month there will be no aviation in Spain and during that period the officers will learn what is to be their fate and arrange to buy themselves new uniforms like the rest of the army.

Lose Offices of Command.

When the month is up they will be reorganized under a department of the ministry of war, with no pretentions whatever to autonomy. It is expressly stipulated that all their higher offices will be filled with men taken from other branches of the service.

The airmen who do not like this can either retire or be transferred back to whatever branch of the service they came from when the corps was organized in 1926.

Mix Denies Wife's Charges; Judge Rebukes Admirers

Natchez, Miss., Jan. 9.—(AP)—With girls pushing and shoving in the courtroom to get a look, Tom Mix, film star, today denied on the stand charges made by his former wife and by counsel for Zach T. Miller, producer of the 101 Ranch shows. Miller is suing the actor for $50,000 damages on charges of breach of contract.

Mix said he was not a drunkard, had not occupied an apartment in a Chicago hotel with a woman circus performer, had paid his family bills, and was not attempting to conceal his assets.

"I have never been under the influence of liquor," he testified.

"Now, don't you know what being under the influence of liquor means?" Miller's lawyer asked.

"A man is not under the influence of liquor until he has to hold on to the grass to keep from falling down," Mix replied.

As to Grocery Bill Charge.

Answering his former wife's charge that "Tom never paid a grocery bill in his life," the actor said he had paid between $50,000 and $70,000 "to the support of his second wife, Mrs. Olive Stokes Mix and their daughter, Ruth, since their separation in 1913."

His second wife had testified she found Mix in a Chicago hotel with Miss Mabel Ward of Chicago, a circus performer, but the latter later testified Mix was assisting her in preparing a new circus act and merely happened to be staying at the same hotel.

She said she was present when Mix and his son-in-law, Gilmore, engaged in a fist fight in Mix's villa in Los Angeles. Counsel wrangled over attempts to offer evidence of Mix's financial worth, but the judge ruled it out.

Counsel Rebuked.

Attorneys engaged in verbal tilts that verged on physical encounters, but Chancellor R. W. Cutrer threatened to put in jail John M. Kelly of New York, Mix's lawyer, and C. F. Engle of Natchez, one of Miller's attorneys, accusing them of "playing to the gallery."

When spectators broke into applause as Mix entered the courtroom, dressed in tan riding clothes and high heeled boots, the judge threatened to run them out of the courtroom.

Arguments were concluded tonight. Chancellor Cutrer said he would hand down a decision Jan. 19.

Clara Bow Files Answer to Daisy De Voe's Suit

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Clara Bow, film star, filed an answer today to a suit for $3,250 brought by Daisy De Voe, her former secretary, in which she denied owing the sum and asked recovery of $30,000 which she said she advanced to Miss De Voe.

SUES PARENTS OF HER DIVORCED MATE FOR $50,000

Suit for $50,000 damages, charging alienation of affections, was filed in the Superior court yesterday by Mrs. Ida Dell, 22 years old, of 3716 Greenview avenue, against George Del Vecchio, retired manufacturer of Wilmette, and his wife, Mrs. Catherine Del Vecchio. The bill alleges that Mr. and Mrs. Del Vecchio lured their son, Earl Dell, away from Mrs. Dell, his former wife.

The Dells were married in October, 1927. Last September Mrs. Dell divorced her husband on grounds of cruelty and was awarded the custody of their daughter, Erline, 2 years old. Mrs. Dell, through her attorney, Floyd Kenley, alleges that Dell was induced to leave her under threats of being disinherited by his parents. The bill says that Mr. Del Vecchio owns property worth $1,000,000.

LAWMAKERS ASK WHO IS TO MAKE TENNESSEE QUIZ

Home State Investigators or Outside Ones?

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Who is to make the all important investigation into state financial affairs which may bring disgrace to some men and change the face of politics in Tennessee

Can Tennessee lawyers and auditors be trusted to bring out the facts pitilessly?

These were the questions left for week-end conferences in the capitol and all over the state as the legislature adjourned at the end of its first week's session today until Monday after the senate had adopted unanimously the resolution authorizing the investigation and directing that it include "firms and corporations" which have had dealings with the state. The committee is ordered to make an ad interim report by March 1. It is expected to select lawyers and auditors and get to work next week.

Most Amendments Lose.

Administration and "Shelbyite" senators joined hands today to vote down all amendments that were not conceded as proper by the speaker of the senate, Scott Fitzhugh, who took the floor to defend his resolution against any radical changes. This was accomplished, but not without raising the cry of "railroading" from a weak opposition, and, incidentally, this little exchange of courtesies:

Senator John Brown of Memphis, speaker pro tem., to Senator Charles Cornelius of Nashville, who was objecting to "band wagon tactics:"

"I just want to say that the speech of the senator confirms my opinion of him, which has been advertised elsewhere, that he is a kind of a jackass."

Senator Cornelius to Senator Brown: "I return the compliment; you are a bully."

Nothing Else Happens.

The slender, spectacled Nashville lawyer advanced toward the speaker's desk and the tall, black haired Memphis politician looked at him threateningly. But nothing else happened.

E. H. Crump, boss of the Memphis delegation, who has been eminently successful in organizing the legislature and is planning an extension of influence, looked pained and astonished. He was standing in the crowd back of the senatorial desk. Mr. Brown said later he had not intended any railroading and he let everybody talk all they wanted to, whether they were in order or not. But he did not care when some one moved to expunge these remarks from the records.

"It don't make any difference," he drawled.

It made no practical difference, for every roll call on amendments which were not welcomed by the speaker found only 8 in opposition with Senator Cornelius.

Positions Appear Changed.

The Nashville senator, who has been an anti-administration man, calling for this investigation into the political connections of Caldwell & Co. with state officers, was maneuvered into the position of seeming to delay the investigation. The governor's friends were the ones who wanted it, it appeared. Senator Cornelius wants "teeth" for the investigation and has introduced laws to prepare for them, making the inquiry something on the order of a senatorial quiz in Washington, with jail waiting for those who refuse to answer. As matters now stand Gov. Henry H. Horton's administration holds the balance of power.

One of the amendments which caused the most debate was that calling for an outside firm of auditors to take charge of the investigation. On this point the new senator from Chattanooga, John A. Chambliss, made an address which challenged attention and led to the report that he might be chosen on the investigation committee, possibly as chairman. He is an independent. He has just returned from a session of governmental experts at Cleveland and reported that Ohio, when it wanted an independent survey, had gone to a Chicago firm.

Favors Outside Experts.

"Can you imagine that proud city of Cleveland going to Chicago for help?" he asked. "Yet Mississippi has just had an investigation and it, too, went to Chicago. What we need here is an analysis; we need political engineering. I do not believe we have an organization in the state that is qualified or whose motives would not be impugned."

He said he had received a letter from the United States Chamber of Commerce recommending eight firms of auditors. Three of these are Chicago firms, Griffenhagen & Associates, Ltd., the Pace company, and the Lloyd-Thomas company.

Speaker Fitzhugh came to the defense of Tennessee auditors.

"Has the time come in Tennessee when we indict all members of that honorable profession?" he asked. "If this is fair it is also fair to exclude Tennessee lawyers. Where are we drifting? Has the day come when a committee of this assembly cannot be trusted?"

INVOLVE ENVOY OF COSTA RICA TO U. S. IN REVOLT

Jailed Rebel Bares a New Conspiracy.

BY BEN ZWEIG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Jan. 9.—José J. Soto, San José attorney, held in jail here for his share in the abortive revolt staged on Dec. 29 at Grecia, a little town forty miles from the capital, confessed today that the attempt to overthrow the government of President Cleto Gonzalez Viquez was precipitated in an effort to forestall another revolt. He said the other plot became known to him and his associate leader, Ernesto Martin, also an attorney, who is the only member of the party not yet captured.

This other plot, Soto claims, was being hatched by Manuel Castro Quesada, Costa Rican minister to Washington, and Gen. Jorge Volio, a former priest who was a candidate for the presidency in 1924. Señor Quesada is at present in San José on a vacation.

Believed Time Was Ripe.

The Grecia plotters, knowing of this second plot, thought that discontent with the Viquez administration was so general that their outbreak would be supported by a general uprising. They laid their plans to take the police stations at Grecia, Alajuela, and Heredia and then move on to the capital.

But, although they overpowered the authorities at Grecia owing to the suddenness of their attack, the population soon recovered from its surprise and they were forced to flee, only to be captured the next morning.

Soto said tonight that he did not regard the attempt as a failure and that he considered further disturbances likely at an early date. He added that Martin will issue a manifesto to the people in which he will further enlighten the republic on what has been going on behind the scenery and the plotting that has been going on in high places to take advantage of the government's embarrassments.

State Heavily in Debt.

The state has had to suspend its highways building program owing to lack of funds and its indebtedness of $373,000 to the local banks. Between 2,500 and 3,000 workers were let out on Dec. 31. Government employés have in many instances failed to receive their salaries and there is talk of a decrease of 15 per cent in the pay roll, even if the local banks put up the $126,000 the treasury requires to clear up immediate necessities.

There are no garrisons of soldiers in any of the small towns of the republic and a very small guard in San José, for the entire army of the country consists of only 500 men. Most of these are only military bandsmen and scattered throughout the republic.

SENTENCES MAN ON VICE CHARGE MADE BY GIRL

Charged with pandering, Leo Fillo, 34 years old, former University of Minnesota student, was sentenced to one year in the Bridewell and fined $300 by Judge Samuel Heller in the Morals court yesterday.

The penalty was imposed after Phyllis Carpenter, 20 years old, who lives with her mother at 1629 West Adams street, had told her story. She testified Fillo threatened to kill her unless she accompanied him to a vice flat in Madison street.

Fillo denied the accusations and declared he had never seen Miss Carpenter before. After he had been sentenced, a woman who identified herself as Mrs. Marjorie Fillo, stepped to the bar. She said Fillo had deserted her and her two children in Superior, Wis., six years ago.

Women Give $22,500 for Salvation Army Work

A check for $22,500 was turned over to Commissioner W. A. McIntyre of the Salvation Army yesterday by Mrs. C. K. Corsant, president of the Salvation Army women's board, and Mrs. Norval H. Pierce, treasurer. The amount represented special gifts contributed by the women's division to be used for carrying on relief work in the Women's and Children's hospital, 5040 North Crawford avenue; Women's Emergency lodge, 1230 West Adams street, and the Army Fresh Air camp. The check also made a total of $80,000 raised by the women's division, who seek $79,000 to maintain the three institutions.

HINT GOVERNOR MAY LOSE GRIP ON LEGISLATURE

Chicago Lawmakers See Trouble Ahead.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Prospects that Gov. Emmerson will lose control of the legislature, which convened Wednesday and recessed for a week, was a fruitful topic yesterday among Cook county lawmakers. The governor's proposal to limit Cook county's representation in the general assembly instead of redistricting the state according to the mandate of the constitution has run into a wall of opposition.

Leaders declare Mr. Emmerson starts the second half of his term with strong possibilities of an antagonistic assembly. Last session he had it under control, and this week the administration forces quelled the threatened break in the Republican caucus on speakership, which had an anti-Emmerson basis, but when the session gets well under way the members look for plenty of fireworks and battling.

Five Votes Will Decide.

In the house this time the Democrats are more strongly entrenched than in years. There are 81 Republicans and 72 Democrats. On administration measures on which the Democrats might maintain party lines intact, five votes from the Republican side would mean a majority.

Republicans are discussing the matter of a floor leader. Support is said to be rolling up for Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago, who is rated as one of the ablest debaters on the majority side of the house.

Roger F. Little of Champaign was floor leader last time. The argument raised against Mr. Schnackenberg is that downstaters do not want both the speaker and the floor manager to come from Cook county. Another point raised is that Mr. Schnackenberg is somewhat too independent to be quite satisfactory to the Emmerson administration.

Point to Democrat Strength.

The strong battery of leaders on the Democratic side, however, leads the Schnackenberg men to argue that the Republicans need their ablest men out in front this time.

Democratic chiefs yesterday pointed to half a dozen figures on the Democratic side who are exceedingly able seamen. Michael L. Igeo, national committeeman and minority leader, has at his back, among others, Thomas J. O'Grady and Thomas J. O'Brien of Chicago, Truman A. Snell of Carlinville, Arthur Roe of Vandalia, and John P. Devine, any one of whom in the past has been quite competent to take care of himself in floor debate. The Democrats declare they have the strongest house delegation in years.

Politics of 1932 Involved.

Governorship politics of 1932 are expected to be involved in the session. In addition, leaders theorize that the anti-Emmerson groups which have been complaining that Small appointees have been kept in office while Emmerson battlers are, so to speak, in the army of the politically unemployed, may have a few monkey wrenches to throw.

Party regularity, it is pointed out, does not apply so much on legislation as it does in party caucuses to pick the speaker, and a monkey wrench, too, has sometimes proved a handy tool to knock jobs off the Christmas tree. It begins to look like a lively winter at Springfield.

Tax Changes an Issue.

Besides reapportionment, on which Cook county members expect to get support from members from other growing industrial sections which are in the same boat as Chicago on "taxation without representation," and repeal of the Illinois prohibition law in conformity with the two to one November referendum, revenue reform is among the leading items.

Minority Leader Igoe says this will be one of the most complicated and engrossing issues of the session. Among other proposals, Mr. Igoe is drafting a bill dealing with the state gasoline tax and automobile licenses.

The tentative idea it embodies is that, unless the gas tax is changed, the auto license law might be revised to limit the state to $1 from each license, the rest to be turned back to the counties where collected, for use in the general fund. Mr. Igoe estimates that such a bill would give Cook county about $7,000,000. "It would ease the tax burden on real estate," he says, "and it would not impair the road program appreciably."

SEEK STATE HIGHWAY POLICE FORCE OF 300 ON ILLINOIS ROADS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—An appropriation to increase the Illinois state highway police force to its full statutory strength of 300 men will be one of the administration bills before the 57th general assembly. Chief Walter L. Moody now has 272 men under his command and wishes the twenty-eight additional, besides allowances for a telephone communication system and new equipment.

Bank robberies occurring all over the state in the last few months have emphasized the need of quick communication, Chief Moody believes. At present, a makeshift plane is working whereby division leaders of the force can generally reach the patrolmen by calling drug stores or filling stations in their districts, but this is unsatisfactory at best.

The details of the new systems have not been worked out, nor has the sponsor of the appropriation request been decided upon. This may fall to Senator Henry M. Dunlap of Savoy, called "father" of the state police bill. The sum will be taken from the highway maintenance fund which, for the last biennium, was $8,200,000.

Chief Moody is now planning a series of conferences with downstate sheriffs late this month, when efforts will be made to coördinate the county forces with the state police in preventing bank robberies and catching criminals.

DISPUTE KELLY'S STAND ON AVENUE TRAFFIC LIGHTS

Plan Would Speed Autos, Is Claim.

Traffic experts of the Chicago Motor club take issue with the recent statement of President E. J. Kelly of the south park board in which he expressed doubt as to the practicability of a proposed system of progressive traffic control lights on Michigan avenue between Oak and 22d streets. The proposed system would replace the present lights, which are now under three separate controls, the Lincoln park board, the city, and the south parks board.

These experts say progressive lights would expedite the flow of traffic, and they base their opinion on studies of Michigan avenue traffic and on the experiences other cities have had with the proposed system.

Cites Street in Cleveland.

"Take Carnegie avenue in Cleveland," said H. M. Brown, general manager of the motor club, in discussing the subject. "The average speed of automobiles has been increased from 12.25 miles an hour under the synchronized lights to 23.4 miles an hour under progressive lights. These lights operate over a distance of three miles and under conditions quite similar to those on Michigan avenue.

"Then progressive lights have been installed on streets in the business district with the result that the speed of traffic has been increased 40 per cent. Around 120,000 vehibles enter and leave this district daily.

Make Survey of Time.

"We have a progressive system on Broadway where a speed of twenty-five miles an hour can be maintained despite street cars and slow moving heavy vehicles. Better time can be made on Broadway between Wilson and Devon than on Sheridan road over the same distance. Under progressive lights it is possible to go through the loop at a speed of from 11 to 14 miles an hour. Formerly the average speed was from 4 to 6 miles an hour.

A survey shows that the trip between Van Buren and Lake streets on State street during the afternoon rush period can be made in 3 minutes and 35 seconds. The same trip on Michigan avenue at the same time requires 3 minutes and 47 seconds and condition on Michigan avenue are more favorable to automobile traffic than on State street.

SCHOOL BUDGET FIGURES AGAIN KEPT IN DARK

Hemingway Refuses to Be Interviewed.

James A. Hemingway, chairman of the school board finance committee, suddenly adjourned yesterday's budget meeting in the middle of the afternoon, scurried for an elevator, and disappeared before he could be interviewed. For the second consecutive day he spent the noon recess in the locked meeting room over a box lunch.

Mr. Hemingway adopted the box lunch when annoyed by those who wished to learn how the committee is planning the expenditure of more than $95,000,000 in public funds. No one has been admitted to the meetings except members of the board and department heads who were summoned during the five days the budget has been under consideration.

Expect Completion Monday.

While the trustees have from time to time stated that, "nothing of importance is being done," Harry H. Brackett, auditor, said that completion of the work by the committee was expected Monday morning. He announced that the public would have its first glimpse of the revised draft at a public meeting on Monday afternoon.

The announcement of the open meeting aroused interest because of the expected appearance of William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, and Prof. Nelson Henry of the University of Chicago, chairman of the superintendent's advisory council on the budget, to champion a $587,000 educational expansion program.

Ask More on Teaching Staff.

While the finance committee is reported to have recommended additions to the preliminary draft of the budget of more than $300,000 in other departments, it has expressed serious doubts as to whether money could be found for use by the educational department. One of the items asked for the latter department is the hiring of 200 new teachers in the elementary schools to relieve a condition of too many pupils per teacher which is said to exist.

To support his expressed contention that the trustees are more interested in the creation of patronage jobs in the departments of maintenance and operation of the school plant than they are in polishing the educational machinery for the benefit of the children, Prof. Henry yesterday issued figures which showed that Chicago schools spend less on strictly educational work than other cities.

"New York," Prof. Henry said, "devotes 77 per cent of its yearly school appropriation for strictly educational purposes. Chicago spends 68 per cent. It is plain that our trustees don't give a rap for the educational department and don't want interference in their efforts to carry out the city hall patronage program."

Comparison with Other Cities.

Figures from the records of the National Educational association comparing the percentage of Chicago's school appropriation devoted to each of its several departments with average percentages from 10 other cities over 500,000 population, are as follows:

	Chicago, pct.	Average from 10 cities, pct.
Administrative	3.8	3.5
Educational	67.2	77.3
Coördinated activities	.5	2.6
Plant operation	12.8	9.0
Plant maintenance	9.4	4.5
Fixed charges	2.9	3.1

The finance committee will not meet today, but will convene for a morning session, expected to be the last, on Monday.

INDIANANS PLAN STATE BUILDING AT LOW PRICES

Many New Bills Deal with Taxation.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—By taking advantage of current low prices of material and low wages the state of Indiana may make extensive improvements to state institutions and still keep its biennial budget below the $55,000,000 total of two years ago. Such a program was approved here today by the state budget committee as it worked on a fiscal report for the state legislature when it resumes sessions Monday.

The bulk of the approximately eight hundred bills expected to be introduced at the session have to do with taxation. Varied plans for reducing taxes, particularly on real estate, are being advanced, and it is the problem of the budget committee to care for state educational, charitable, and penal institutions with their ever increasing populations and at the same time lower the general state tax rate if possible.

New Hospitals Planned.

Gov. Harry G. Leslie's administration plans to build a sixth state hospital for the insane instead of enlarging so drastically existent institutions. Another hospital will be built at Upland, near Marion. A new dormitory for women patients is to be built at Logansport. Authorities are considering using a tract of 160 acres recently given by Isiah Miller for a state tuberculosis hospital as a site for a new hospital for the insane.

The state reformatory at Pendleton will be enlarged some and at least $170,000 is proposed for construction of an additional cellhouse and solitary confinement quarters at the state prison at Michigan City. The new cell block would house 300 prisoners. Now only 500 of the 2,300 prisoners are quartered in cells.

Control Is Divided.

Because control of the legislature this time is divided, Democrats ruling the house and Republicans the senate, the number of bills enacted into laws in the next eight weeks is expected to be small. Senate Republicans are threatened with a split over the state highway commission which has been a center of political strife since the commission's creation shortly after the war.

One of the proposed tax measures is sponsored by Representative William J. Black, Democrat, of Anderson. He estimates it would produce nearly $2,600,000 annually which he would use for free public school books. He asks a 5 cent tax on each pound of malt, a 10 per cent tax on cigarets and other tobacco and a tax as yet unspecified on each square foot of exhibition space.

Sales Tax Proposed.

Another measure proposes a levy of 1 per cent on all retail sales in Indiana. The state income tax proposal is supported regardless of party by the strong farm bloc in this legislature.

WOMAN HUNTED AS WITNESS IN STRANGLE DEATH

Mrs. Edward Erickson, 6007 Roscoe street, was being sought by police last night as a witness in the supposed murder of Mrs. Margaret Jean Stevens, 35 year old widow, found strangled to death on Thursday in her disordered apartment at 3233 Warren avenue.

Capt. Patrick Collins, commander of the Fillmore police district, said he learned that Mrs. Erickson, wife of a cab driver, had expressed opposition to the contemplated marriage of her father, George Nellsen, elderly factory superintendent of Crown Point, to Mrs. Stevens.

Meanwhile the Fillmore police held Charles Etter, 30 years old, 4418 South Park way, a mulatto reputed to have been friendly with the slain woman and partly identified by witnesses as having been seen leaving her apartment the night previous to the finding of the body. The police had reports that Etter had on several occasions beaten Mrs. Stevens and threatened her with worse harm if she married Nellsen.

RUSSIA DIGS FOR 5½ BILLIONS TO BALANCE BUDGET

Total Expenditures Call for 15 Billions.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Jan. 9.—Eleven billion rubles, about five and a half billion dollars, are needed to balance the Russian budget this year, according to the deputy commissar of finance, Teumin. He expects the greater portion to be raised through "quantitative attainments" of the state's undertakings.

A unified tax for the turnover, which supplants 48 former taxes, will give the government about four and a half billion dollars. The largest portion will come from industries managed by the supreme council of national economy and coöperative organizations, which are supplying the population with food and other necessities.

Peasant and Income Taxes.

From direct taxes Commissar Teumin states that he expects to realize about $2,850,000,000, of which $1,750,000,000 will be realized from the peasants through produce tax, income tax, and dues to the coöperatives for various forms of insurance.

A new interior loan will be floated providing an additional $625,000,000. Deposits in the state's savings bank are expected to add another $200,000,000.

The total budget amounts to about 15,150,000,000, and 70 per cent of it will be used to expand and rehabilitate industry, 18 per cent for social and cultural measures, and 12 per cent will go to the army.

Will Invest in Industries.

The budget contemplates investing five and a half billion rubles in new industries.

The deputy commissar of finance confidently expects the various government organizations to fulfill their duty by raising their scheduled amounts. The savings banks must see that every employed worker opens an account. The finance commissariat promises that every employed worker will purchase bonds and that the coöperatives must enlarge their memberships in order to increase the amount in dues collected.

These dues in Moscow and Leningrad amount to between $50 and $10 per member. They are paid for the privilege of buying goods. Reduced prices in the stores for social feeding—communal restaurants and rations—he admits were not included in the plan, which is not yet perfected because of the necessity of raising the five and a half billion dollars to cover these planned expenditures.

Will Be Paid by Script.

While Commissar of Finance Grinko recently promised that this year's budget would be covered without any additional inflation, and as the commissariat has provided a plan for deflating the ruble, there is nothing mentioned by Deputy Commissar Teumin about currency inflation.

The latest decree from the central committee of the communist party deals with this problem through ordering an organization of communal shops. Workers of all undertakings employing more than 5,000 and including munition factories employing less will receive goods on the payment of script which will be issued at the factory. Hereafter employés of the institutions will be paid partly in script and partly in rubles. Should the scheme be successful it will be extended to all branches of soviet industry.

COVERED WAGON MAKER OF '49 TO REACH 102 TODAY

W. E. Church of Aurora, one time maker of the "covered wagons" which pioneers drove to California in '49, and believed to be the oldest member of the Odd Fellows lodge, will observe his 102d birthday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. S. Leath, 808 Garfield avenue, Aurora, today.

Church was injured several months ago when he slipped on a rug and since then has been forced to use a cane. Up to the time of his injury, however, he delighted in traveling alone about the state.

Two years ago he attended an Odd Fellows' lodge meeting at Monmouth, where he was presented a "diamond jewel" in honor of 75 years of membership, and last August he went alone to an Old Settlers' picnic at Brinfield near Peoria, where he lived when he first came to Illinois at the age of 12.

Throughout his life he has been a staunch advocate of temperance, but as equally firmly opposed to prohibition. He says the young folks of today are "just as good" as they were in past generations, but are too frivolous and inclined to fast living.

Church Fire Destroys Valuable Art Works

Destruction of valuable paintings, sacred vessels and altars was revealed in an examination of the ruins of the Santa Maria Addolorata Catholic church at 907 West Grand avenue, which was wrecked by fire early yesterday morning. The damage to the building and contents was estimated at $150,000. The Rev. Father Hugo Cavichi listed among the valuable articles destroyed a dozen large canvases by John M. Cangelosi, a master of church painting, worth $15,000; a large white altar, hand carved and decorated with Sienna marble, valued at $5,000, and numerous vestments and sacred vessels. The fire is supposed to have started spontaneously in some oily rags.

ROB TWO COUPLES IN AUTOS.

Samuel Steinberg, 5006 North Lawndale avenue, his wife, and Mrs. Harry Chapman, 5200 North Kedzie avenue, and Jerome Schwerr, 5150 North Avers avenue, all riding in Steinberg's auto, were held up early yesterday at Canal and Lake streets. The robbers obtained $800 in jewelry and $105 cash.

THE FARMERS' REAL FRIEND.

The Farm Bureau federation, Chairman Legge of the farm board, and Mr. Hyde, the secretary of agriculture, are united in demanding further regulation of the Chicago Board of Trade and other farm marketing agencies. Their views, it appears, have been incorporated in the Capper-Dickinson bill. They want the secretary of agriculture to have the right to veto any rules and regulations of the board. They want, also, to limit further the right to buy and sell grain for speculative purposes. They want the government to keep a firm control of all trading by licensing traders. Any traders whose judgments of market conditions differed from those of Washington officialdom could thus be removed from the market.

It must be apparent to any observer, in or out of congress, that the government's manipulation of the wheat market in recent months has done the farmers little good and has done the taxpayers great harm. Mr. Legge points with pride to the fact that wheat in Chicago is selling for something like 20 cents above the world market, but the disparity was not achieved until the farmers had sold all but a fraction of their grain. The taxpayers now have the wheat and, if the next crop in this country is anything like normal, the taxpayers with whose money the farm board is speculating will take a terrific beating. The efforts of the farm board to bring about a reduction of winter wheat acreage were a virtual failure, and that failure is likely to be repeated when the farmers put in their spring wheat. Average yields next summer must result in an aggravation of the present unhealthy situation caused by unsold surpluses. Either the farm board must unload its tremendous supplies on the market at that time, with consequent unprecedented price depressions, or it must buy up still more wheat, assuring still heavier losses when the eventual liquidation comes.

It is idle to pretend that the Board of Trade is the villain in the piece. It would be as sensible to pretend that the temperature today is controlled by the thermometer on top of the federal building rather than by the sun and the wind. The thermometer can only register the temperature. All the Board of Trade can do is to register the counterplay of supply and demand. If this measuring device were not located in Chicago or in some other city in the United States it would have to be established in Liverpool, Winnipeg, Hamburg, or some other place, where, without hampering restrictions, anybody, anywhere, could buy wheat when he thought it was cheap, sell it when he thought it was too high, and where handlers and processers could insure themselves against loss from price changes.

All that Mr. Legge and Mr. Hyde can achieve, even if they succeed in destroying the Board of Trade, is to drive an international market out of the United States. They cannot prevent supply and demand from fixing prices; they cannot rescue themselves from the tight corner into which the ill advised market operations have driven them. No other market in the world is likely to perform the services now performed for farmers in Chicago as cheaply, as swiftly or as reliably until it, too, has had years of accumulated experience.

For nearly a decade before the industrial and financial collapse of 1929 agriculture was depressed in a nation in which most other industries were relatively prosperous. The outlook, meanwhile, has changed. Farm prices today are down, but they are no more deflated than the prices of other commodities. The farmer is no longer regarded as the nation's stepchild; indeed, with a roof over his head and something to eat in the cellar, he is relatively fortunate. There is certain to be growing opposition to the appropriation of any more money taken from the cities for speculation by the government in farm products. Under the circumstances it is in the farmer's interest to maintain the Board of Trade as a going concern. When the government gets out of the market, as it may be expected to do before many months under pressure from the voters and taxpayers, the farmers will be particularly in need of buying power to ease the shock. That can come only from the private operators in the grain trade. And it is these private operators whom the politicians are doing their best to remove from the scene.

A RESPITE FOR WATER FOWL.

Bob Becker says that eastern bird authorities suggest the advisability of a closed season on water fowl next year. Drainage, drought and the increasing number of hunters have counted heavily against ducks and geese, and the water fowl will need favoring conditions to make up for it. Fortunately the majority of hunters are neither irresponsible nor inconsiderate. They have been organized and they have a regard not only for the other fellow but for another generation. They are inclined to preserve the sport they enjoy.

Whatever measures are required for the conservation of water fowl, if conditions are now unfavorable, will probably be proposed and supported by the sportsmen themselves. It is their game and not that of the man who does not hunt. Probably they'll let next fall go by without shooting. They may ask for a closed season. It will be regulation at the initiative of the persons most interested in getting the best results, a bit of novelty, for a change, in regulation.

CHICAGO AND THE RAILROAD CONSOLIDATION.

In one respect, at least, Chicago can look forward with confidence to a consolidation of the eastern railroads into four systems. When fourteen carriers have been replaced by four the terminal problem in Chicago should be greatly simplified. Roundabout and poorly planned entrances to the city can be eliminated. Negotiations with the railroads for modern terminals and electrification should then be far more fruitful than in the past. If the consolidations announced by Mr. Hoover are effected Chicago will have only five principals to deal with: the four carriers involved in the plan and the Grand Trunk Western, the Canadian National railway's arm into Chicago.

From another point of view the consolidation might not prove so advantageous. Originally, the rates westward from the Atlantic seaboard were based on the existence of one set of carriers which hauled freight to the Ohio river at Pittsburgh or to the lakes at Buffalo. There the cars were turned over to other railroads which ran as far west as Chicago, Peoria, or St. Louis. The consolidation of the lines east and west of Buffalo and Pittsburgh made Chicago a crucial point in the making of rates. Jobbers and wholesalers in this territory found it possible to compete on fairly even terms with eastern rivals.

Now, if the Pennsylvania and the Wabash are united, the Pennsylvania will reach into Kansas City and Omaha just as the purchase of the Alton has already carried the Baltimore and Ohio into Kansas City. The extension westward of these railroads may be expected to lead to the making of new low rates to encourage long-haul business from one end of the line to the other. A tendency in this direction has already been shown by the commerce commission in the eastern class rate case to the disadvantage of Chicago. Suppose, for example, that jute sacks are required in Omaha and obtainable in either Chicago or Philadelphia. After consolidation the Pennsylvania railroad might be expected to work out a rate basis sufficiently low to permit the Philadelphia manufacturer to deliver his bags in Omaha in the face of competition from Chicago. The Pennsylvania, to be sure, would have its line from Chicago to Omaha, but the route would be indirect, via St. Louis, and in any event the longer haul would prove tempting.

Manufacturers on the Atlantic seaboard already enjoy a rate advantage over this territory in the Pacific coast markets because of the Panama canal. To that advantage the consolidation might well add an improved competitive position in the Mississippi valley itself. In view of that possibility the acquiescence of this section in the consolidation plan might well be conditioned on the granting of relief to the central states in their rates to the Pacific coast.

It is significant that other sections of the country can get this so-called four section relief. Only the other day the commerce commission authorized drastic rate reductions to southern and gulf ports intended to place them in competition with the North Atlantic ports in export trade. Our section has a better claim to its former markets on the Pacific than the southern ports have to acquire export business which they never had. But our appeals have been ignored while theirs have been granted.

AMENDING THE CONSTITUTION.

The decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals against Judge William Clark's theory that the 18th amendment was not lawfully ratified will not surprise most lawyers. It should not obscure the underlying thought of the Clark opinion, which is that changes in the fundamental law of the land ought not to be adopted save by the people directly or by agencies appointed by them for the sole and special purpose of considering them. Judge Clark has done a service to the nation and to wise constitutional principle by protesting against ratification by state legislatures, the plan habitually imposed by congress. This plan is authorized by the amending clause of the constitution, in article V., but so is the method of ratification by constitutional conventions, and we hope the discussion raised by Judge Clark will induce future congresses to adopt the better alternative, even though Judge Clark's theory of the invalidity of ratification by legislatures is not upheld by the Supreme court, as it probably will not be.

The better resort would be an amendment of the amending clause to eliminate the method of ratification by legislatures, but until that is done congress ought to recognize that ratification by convention is the better method and exercise its present discretion in its favor.

Editorial of the Day

THE PASSING OF THE OLD FASHIONED WINTER.

[Minneapolis Tribune.]

What has become of our old fashioned winters? The present mild winter in the northwest gives point to the query. The answer is that they are gone forever. And few there will be to regret it.

The most objectionable feature of the old fashioned winter was not its deep snows or its long sustained sub zero temperatures. It was the forced isolation it brought through a tieup of transportation, especially in the rural districts.

Deep snows and long continued cold will come again, but the possibility of transportation tieups like those of 40 and 50 years ago is not great.

Forty years ago a back country farmer did not like to subject his horses to the labor of breaking trail through drifts unless it was necessary. Today the back country farmer owns an automobile. He is not averse to shoveling snow, blazing detours, or joining his neighbors in an effort to open out a trail to the "big road." The state keeps that open at some expense, and marshals an impressive array of equipment for the task. The motive power of the railroads and their mechanical devices for handling snow are now rather well standardized in the light of past experience. The railroad is ready to move, when the winter storm begins to minimize its effects. Its snow fighting crews go into service, fully manned, with the first sign of a blizzard, and remain on the job until normal conditions are restored. In urban areas there is always ready an army of men to operate equipment clearing streets and sidewalks at the earliest possible moment they may be effectively employed.

The machine has conquered old fashioned winter and considerably reduced the domain in which it once held sway. Life is better as a result, and the handicaps of cold and storm are less irksome.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE.

ONE of the principal causes of high blood pressure is worry and other emotional disturbances. Right on top of that statement we pile another. It is that more people worry about high blood pressure than anything else, unless it be hard times, low prices, and the condition of the stock market. Sometimes a little knowledge is a source of anxiety.

For such needs the remedy is frequently—more knowledge. The fault is with the quantity. There are a few things about blood pressure other than how to take it, and it is well that the people should know them. One of them is that in some cases the blood pressure can be reduced, that it fluctuates, and can be made to fluctuate more.

In others, it cannot be made to change materially; and that the significance of the two types differ. Further, he makes use of a test for differentiating the types, a test which any physician can apply. It consists of the following simple procedures:

The blood pressure is taken in the usual way. Then the patient crushes a pearl of amyl nitrate in a handkerchief, holds this to his nose and mouth, and takes four or five deep breaths. Within a minute his face flushes, the skin becomes moist, and he becomes somewhat dizzy.

At once, when these symptoms appear, the physician takes the blood pressure. He had everything all set for a pressure test when the patient inhaled the fumes. The effects of the drug persist long enough for the physician to repeat his test once or twice while the subject is under it. The test is safe and it leaves no after effects.

If there is much difference between the before and after blood pressures the physician concludes that the high blood pressure is due in part to muscle contraction of the blood vessel walls. If there is little or no difference the high pressure is the result of scar tissue changes in those walls. In the one case proper treatment will lower the pressure materially. In the other, treatment does not materially alter it.

EFFECTS OF NICOTINE.

L. E. M. writes: What effect on the human body has nicotine?

REPLY:

Nicotine is the most powerful element in tobacco. Among the effects of acute milder poisoning are nausea, dizziness, vomiting. However, a user of tobacco soon becomes habituated to the drug. Among the chronic effects on those habituated persons who take overdoses are: Nervousness, tobacco blindness, tobacco heart, and possibly arteriosclerosis or atheroma. The literature as to the blood vessel conditions is contradictory.

INEXPENSIVE FLEA FORMULA.

W. G. S. writes: Please print an inexpensive formula for eliminating fleas from a dog.

REPLY:

Flaked naphthalene, dusted in the hair, will drive them off, but they will return unless you clear up the breeding places and keep your dog away from bad company. Fleas lay their eggs in dusty places. The larvae stay in such places until the flea matures. Dusty cellars, dusty floors and dusty carpets are favorite breeding places.

HYSTERIA A FORM OF NERVOUSNESS.

J. E. D. writes: What is emotional nervousness? Does it lead to paralysis? Is there any cure for it?

REPLY:

I have an idea that you mean to ask about hysteria. Hysteria is a form of nervousness in which the emotions play an outstanding part. Hysterics are apt to develop symptoms of any disorder, including paralysis. Training cures hysteria. Some cases are easily cured.

DISTRESS WARRANT.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A tenant pays rent regularly for eight years, then loses his job and now owes over $200. The landlord waited because of past steady payment. 1. Can the landlord hold tenant's furniture, such as a radio, piano, etc.? 2. How can he go about it? D. D. K.

1. Yes, subject to exemption of $400 worth to the head of the family.

2. One course is to levy a distress warrant; another is to take judgment on the lease and proceed by execution and sale. In either case it would probably be advisable for the landlord to employ an attorney.

CANCELED BOOK ORDER.

Evanston, Ill., Jan. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Without my knowledge my wife signed a contract to purchase a set of books for $87, by small monthly payments. She paid $3 down. The day after the contract was signed I wrote canceling the order, but I received no answer to my letter. When the books arrived two weeks later we refused to accept them. A few days ago I received a letter from the people stating that I had no jurisdiction in the matter, as the books had been ordered by my wife. 1. Am I legally liable for these books? 2. In case of garnishment, what portion of my salary as head of a family would be exempt? C. B. C.

1. If the original transaction was merely an order which was not to become binding on the seller until accepted or confirmed by him, you were entitled to cancel at any time before the dispatching of such acceptance or confirmation. Otherwise it is binding on you unless you have some defense, such as minority or fraud.

2. Fifteen dollars a week.

WHY GEORGES COULDN'T FIGHT THE BANDITS.

The New York papers are ragging Georges Carpentier, who was held up by four wicked gangsters and robbed while he was riding in an auto with Lita Grey Chaplin. There are various rude and uncharitable parties down in Gotham who seem to think that because Georges is a prize fighter he should have seized two or three of the bandits and cracked their heads together. Not at all. The very fact that Georges was a professional prize fighter is the very reason he couldn't smash any of the four bad boys on the snoot. Georges' press agent had not been notified that the encounter was going to take place and had sent out no advance copy to the newspapers. What kind of prize fighter is it that would think of fighting without some advance publicity? Georges' manager was not on hand. There had been no tickets sold to the event. Georges had not been photographed slamming the punching bag in his training quarters and no newspaper had front-paged the fact that he ate only snails, crêpe suzette, and tripe à la mode du Caen for breakfast while he was in training. The New York boxing commission had not declared Georges' title forfeited and nobody had come forward with a story of a plot to poison him just before he stepped into the ring. Considering these facts you see that, of course, Georges could not fight the bandits. The w. k. Manly Art of Self-Defense requires the attendance of a crowd of from ten thousand to a hundred thousand at from five dollars per head to fifty dollars ringside. That is a fight. Anything else would be a low brawl. Y'understand?

. . . AND SLEEP AN EXTRA WINK WHEN YOU ARE OLD!

(On rereading Omar Khayyam.)

Be quick! . . . Almost before the story's told
That you exist, grim "Finis!" is enscrolled:
Love!—Live! Let not one moment slip away,
And sleep an extra wink when you are old!

Come!—Laugh and revel in the Cabaret,
Scale balconies, fight duels and be gay;
Too soon the fire-winged couriers of Dawn
Sweep from the East to rout the stars at bay:

Too soon our cries are stifled in a yawn—
Resplendent dreams for sterner things we pawn,
The Drums of Destiny that beat and rolled
Grow distant, fade, and suddenly . . . are gone!

Strike! Strike! Before youth's roaring fires grow cold,
Forge out your future—gather in your gold!
All that life holds you hold within your sway:
The world is yours if you will but take hold!

Leap from the audience into the play—
Thrill with your deeds, and fill your little day
With such rich splendor you will fan to fire
The dreams of those who earthbound can but pray.

Kindle in futile hearts a new desire,
A new and precious hope! In them inspire
The courage to resist the poor rôle Fate
Would have them play—and write their own satire!

Nor waste one moment on that scoundrel Hate,
But from the start take joyous Love to mate;
Within your arms a thousand loves enfold—
But hurry, friend, for it is getting . . . late.

Ah, let the ranting graybeards storm and scold:
They would that they again were young and bold!
Drink deep of all life's pleasures while you may
And sleep an extra wink when you are old!

SHERRY KING.

ZARO AGRA, the Turkish boy who came to America to prove that it was because he had never taken a drink that he had lived to be 156 years old, discovers that instead of making money in our great and glorious country here he is six thousand dollars in debt instead. Never drank anything but water, and now in his 156th year he is deep in debt. Tck, tck, tck! Isn't it terrible! Water just drags a man down and down and down! Oh, how horrible, horrible!

KING ALFONSO of Spain is pictured in the papers as at last getting into action; he's fired the whole royal air corps. That's the first time we ever heard of Alfonso doing anything besides shooting grouse and making cup cake when the queen has a bridge party.

JUST A QUIET LITTLE HUNCH TO CAL.

Cal Coolidge got reckless in his column yesterday and used one four syllable and one six syllable word—"obligations" and "responsibilities." Which, knowing Cal and also knowing that he gets two bucks a word, strikes us as reckless extravagance. Lissen, Cal! For "obligations" (two bucks) you could have said: "The duties imposed by law, promise or contract, by the relations of society, or by courtesy, kindness, and so forth" (20 words, forty bucks). And for "responsibilities" you should have written: "The state of being responsible, accountable, answerable, as for a trust, debt, or obligation" (14 words, twenty-eight bucks). The fact is, Cal, you ought to let us write your column for you now and then and we'd show you how to make a lot more money than you do.

LAGNIAPPE.

THE ARMY AND NAVY down in Cuba have been called out and some more rioting has occurred, but the American tourists in Havana won't take the boat back home until Sloppy Joe's is closed up.

DOWN IN WASHINGTON the administration, house, and the senate are still at loggerheads over the fifteen million dollar food relief bill. It must be interesting to the people who need the food to read the debates on the subject. But maybe some of them would be willing to trade the debates for a fat ham sandwich on rye bread. R. K. L.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 10, 1915.

RIO DE JANEIRO.—Reports reaching here say that the German battle cruiser Von der Tann, which was reported recently as leaving Helgoland to reinforce the German squadron of Admiral von Spee, has been sunk with all on board, 910 men, in a battle with the British battle cruiser Invincible. The reports say that the battle took place off Pernambuco, and that the Invincible was unhurt.

PETROGRAD. — The Germans massed great forces in Poland for a final attempt to take Warsaw. Fighting has been resumed along the Vistula. German Field Marshal von Hindenburg's forces have again taken the offensive and the German commanders are sacrificing thousands of men in an endeavor to win through the outer Russian positions. The heavy reinforcements are composed of troops withdrawn from the firing line in France and Belgium.

BERLIN.—Meager official reports are that the French advance into Alsace has been checked. The French advance at Burnhaupt-le-Haut, whereby they took three lines of German trenches, proved to be a trap. They were mined and were blown up. The Germans then charged and drove the French back to their old position.

CHICAGO.—Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo was the speaker at the dinner of the Commercial club at the Blackstone hotel last night and explained to the business men the urgent reasons why the United States needs a ship purchase bill such as is pending before the present congress. He also came to the defense of the federal reserve act and the government war risk bureau.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 10, 1901.

WASHINGTON.—In spite of almost unanimous testimony of officers of the army that the canteen or post exchange is in the interest of real temperance, the senate by the unexpected vote of 34 to 15 agreed to the house amendment totally abolishing the sale of liquors in the army. When the amendment was first adopted by the house the members themselves admitted that their action was a piece of political buncombe to please the Woman's Christian Temperance union, which was then holding its annual convention here, and they expected the senate to defeat it.

PRETORIA.—The Imperial Light Horse suffered severely in a battle between Gen. Babington's command and a Boer force near Zandfontein. The British advanced in close formation up a hill on which scouts had reported that they had found no signs of the enemy. The Boers, however, were lying in the grass and opened fire when the British were within fifty yards of them. Later the Boers were driven from their position.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 10, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A very emphatic denial is given of the generally accepted rumor that the appointment by President Hayes of Gen. Goff to be secretary of the navy was in pursuance of an understanding with President Elect Garfield that Goff was to be retained during the life of the new administration. It is stated that Gen. Garfield was not consulted in the matter and has no interest in it. The appointment is said to have been made by President Hayes in recognition of Goff's support in the convention.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Controller Knox issued figures showing that there are 650 private banks in sixteen principal cities in the country, with an aggregate capital of $43,090,170, and aggregate deposits of $62,070,850. About 70 per cent of the banks are located in New York.

DUBLIN.—A land meeting which was to have been held near Tralee was prohibited. A large crowd, however, assembled. Four hundred troops were on the ground. Thousands of laborers soon will be starving unless care is taken to supply their necessities, it is pointed out. The pope in Rome is reported to be greatly concerned over the strife in Ireland and he is said to have sent fresh instructions to some of the Irish bishops with a view to promoting the reestablishment of order.

PAT ROCHE'S WORK.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Pat Roche and members of the Lingle murder investigation should be awarded the highest honors for the most wonderful detective work ever exhibited in the city of Chicago. Pat Roche deserves every honor that may be awarded him. I have watched every move he has made ever since I have known him of the team, Roche and Converse, the federal aces. Pat Roche is a genius at his work and Chicago should reward him for the wonderful work he has done.

WE DO.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—This morning I noticed that my wife was apparently very much interested in something in THE TRIBUNE so I kept still and waited. Presently she heaved a big sigh and burst out with: "Well, that's better than the best detective fiction I ever read."

"What is, my dear?"

"Why, that story of the capture of Lingle's killer. My, those men are smart. And it's so well told." If I were an editor, I'd like that.

THE WINTER OF '76.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—Read an article about spring being here, and that the oldest timers cannot remember a winter like this. In the year of 1876, the first day of January, I went out and made New Year's calls dressed in a summer suit. I lived at that time at 105 Bremer street, now Milton avenue. We had sunshine and no ice in the Chicago river, nor any ice for the children to skate on. The old Irish ladies were sitting out on the front porch smoking their clay pipes on Bremer street. A vessel came into Chicago loaded with ice from Sheboygan and Manitowoc, Wis., in the month of February. We left Chicago on April 1 with the schooner U. S. Grant, Capt. William Henry Decker, master, and I was mate. We went to Wolf river after a load of ice for the Piper Brewing company. Wolf river is called Algorna now.

A NEW DOLE.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—An article in today's TRIBUNE narrates that Hermann Dietrich, German finance minister, advances the proposal that unemployment dole be paid to industry, with a view to providing work for Germany's huge army of the unemployed. Herr Dietrich's suggestion seems a sure and speedy way in which prosperity can be reestablished without creating a race of parasites, as it is an indisputable fact that a man's moral fiber is weakened when he can live on society without any personal effort to provide for his or his family's needs.

THE FAMILY, MR. GRUNDY, ET AL.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—"During 1930 divorce decrees in Cook county [Ill.] totaled 10,100. In addition there are close to 6,000 divorce cases pending. Marriages performed in 1930 numbered 37,113 as compared to 42,509 in 1929. At the present rate, marriage and divorce will be equal in 1948."—CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

During the year 1918, while Woodrow Wilson prosperity was at its highest peak, there were 326 marriages performed in the little town of Vancouver, Wash. In 1922, during the panic there, but 18 marriage licenses were issued and 24 divorces granted—so it will be seen that there is a connection here between family and the economic conditions in society.

Where is the fellow now that a few years ago was shouting from the house tops that the new Russian system would eventually destroy home ties? Not that I am trying to rush into print in defense of the new Russian system of economics, for in fact I am not in favor of that system. But this does not blind me to the fact that our system, too, is at fault.

President Hoover said something about not being converted to the theory of divine origin of panics, or something like that. For every evil there is a cause. The cause here is that we have not enough cash money with which to carry on the business properly. That is one of the many causes. One of the others is fluctuating prices in basic raw materials, farm products in particular; and the remedy is governmental price fixing and forbidding, as Russia now does, imports of things that we do not need.

Too much profit and interest go out of the Mississippi. Perhaps a good plan would be to drive a wedge up the Mississippi river and split the nation in half and institute a western currency system and a tariff wall on the east bank of the river. NORRIS AND THE PARTY STRING.

Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., Jan. 4.—May I answer John C. Dignam, Chicago, re to Senator Norris?

I, too, have admired the Nebraskan although I have not always seen eye to eye with him. I, too, after having supported Republican candidates for the presidency throughout a long lifetime, followed my conscience and voted for Alfred E. Smith.

But there our conscientious scruples diverge. I am now, according to my conscience, a Democrat, or at most an independent. This is a government by parties and not by blocs, as is the European practice. It must be so or we can not function. Senator Norris admits that his conscience urged him to run as an independent in the last primary race. He would no doubt have been reelected just the same, as an independent would have no party obligations. Men who, as Mr. Dignam says, "are bigger than their party," have no honest business running for office under a party banner.

'HOW TO GET U. S. BACK AT WORK'—BY LA FOLLETTE

Congress Told Remedy for Present Depression.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—From Senator Robert M. La Follette, Wisconsin's insurgent Republican, congress learned today what it ought to do to meet the present depression and unemployment.

It must see that the Caraway amendment adding $15,000,000 for food loans to the drought relief bill is passed.

It must pass some measure like the Wood bill which would appropriate 20 million dollars from the federal government to the states, on a matching basis, to meet the increased relief expenditures by the states this year as compared with last.

It must provide a much enlarged public building program.

It must assume leadership in the "economic evolution" which must be brought about if future depressions of even greater magnitude are to be prevented. Mergers, such as that of the eastern railroads, are no solution, since economies are achieved at the expense of labor.

Says Crisis Is Minimized.

"President Hoover and the leaders of the administration have refused to do these; they have minimized the crisis and neglected distress. Senate leaders have forgotten relief measures in a steering committee program made up of bills unworthy of attention at this time," he said.

The creed which "Young Bob" preached was backed up by employment statistics gathered in answer to questionnaires from 803 mayors and civic leaders.

Of the 803 answers received, 175 asked for direct federal relief; 41 wanted relief with certain qualifications; 46 were opposed to federal assistance; 14 declared no outside help was needed, and 39 expressed no opinion.

Give Wide Employment Figures.

The answers, said Senator La Follette, came from towns and cities with a total population of 16,024,511, and according to the department of labor report by which one person out of five is considered employed—that about 15.5 per cent of the normal working population entirely without employment. The figures, Senator La Follette explained, did not include large cities like New York and Chicago.

In Illinois, his figures showed, seventeen cities had 11.4 per cent of their workers wholly unemployed, not including Chicago, where he claimed 22 per cent of the working population are jobless. Twenty-two Indiana cities had 14.4 per cent unemployed, exclusive of Indianapolis, with 21 per cent unemployed. Twenty-one Wisconsin cities showed 13 per cent unemployed; seventeen Michigan cities, 9.9 per cent, exclusive of Detroit, with 13 per cent; Iowa, 11 cities, 9.1 per cent.

The returns from cities in other states ranged from as low as 6 per cent of unemployment to as high as 33.3 per cent in seven New York cities; 33 per cent in three South Carolina cities, and 19.1 per cent in four Louisiana cities.

Relief Program Inadequate.

To meet the situation, he asserted, the administration had supported a relief program which would give employment to not more than 120,000 men, while Col. Arthur Woods, chairman of the President's employment committee, had testified that between 1,000,000 and 5,000,000 persons were out of work.

"The administration wants to provide work instead of charity," he said, "but its program is so pitifully inadequate as to be tragic.

"The administration lacks either the will or the courage to meet the emergency."

There were tilts in the house today over the $45,000,000 drought relief appropriation. The administration leaders continued to stand pat in their opposition to the senate's amendment adding $15,000,000 for food loans. The bill was still held up by objections to sending it to conference by those favoring the senate amendment. Representative Will H. Wood [Rep., Ind.], chairman of the appropriations committee, charged in the house that communist agitators were back of the relief fund of farmers in England, Ark.

SNOW AND DUST STORM SWEEP ON CHINA; MANY DIE

SHANGHAI, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The worst sand and snow storm in many years swept down today from the Mongolian deserts, causing a large number of deaths and intense suffering in China from the south as the Yangtze valley.

Many beggars were frozen to death in Peiping in a temperature below zero as a furious dust storm followed a heavy snowfall.

Hankow, Hankow, and other Yangtze river cities reported heavy snow, and low temperatures caused numerous deaths. A freezing north wind brought snow to Shanghai.

WOMAN WITH $5,000 DIES OF STARVATION IN NEW YORK BREAD LINE

New York, Jan. 9.—[Special.]—A white haired woman who had stood in line with seventy other persons reached the side of Patrolman August Grom today as he was distributing baskets of food before a Brooklyn police station.

"Please," she faltered, "I can't eat vegetables. Won't you give me something else?"

Then she staggered and fell dead.

An ambulance surgeon said it was heart disease, aggravated by starvation.

Then Mrs. Anna Williams identified the woman as Miss Julia Coakley, 75, one of her lodgers. Mrs. Coakley, according to Mrs. Williams, had bank accounts totaling more than $5,000 and two wealthy nieces in Manhattan.

CHILDREN NEED CLOTHES, WIFE IS ILL; HE ASKS JOB

One of Many Appeals to Sally Joy Brown.

"Not having had steady employment for more than a year, and not having worked at all for two months, I have to ask for help at last from some one."

Thus wrote a plasterer and painter, who is the father of two children and whose wife is ill, in a letter to Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE'S bureau for the unemployed yesterday. It was one of many appeals that crowded Miss Brown's mail box, appeals for any kind of a job that might provide food for hungry mouths.

"I can drive almost any make of automobile or truck," continued the writer, Mr. H., who lives in South Paulina street. "I could drive for a private family and wait on tables and help around the home in general. But I am willing to accept any kind of work I can get.

Wife Ill; Children Need Clothes.

"My wife is in Texas, ordered there by the doctor. The two children, 7 and 3 years old, are here with me, and they are about out of shoes to wear, besides everything else. Will you please try to find me something to do? Just anything."

"That's a sample," said Sally, "of how badly the men need jobs. The jobs are increasing in number, but not in quality, although we are thankful to get, as this man said, almost any kind of job. We need all the jobs for men that can possibly be found or created. The lives of children and wives depend on them."

Among the jobs for men received by Sally and turned over to the Illinois Free Employment service at 116 North Dearborn street are:

D. K. in North Maplewood avenue, who wanted a man to install a doorbell.

The C. & S. company, North Wells street, a man for a shipping room. Salary $25 a week.

A. C., North Artesian avenue, a man to sort onions.

The A. Cleaners, West Chicago avenue, a man to distribute circulars.

Mrs. L. F., Kenmore avenue, a paper hanger.

Mrs. H. G., Wheaton, man and wife for housework. Salary $40 and board and room.

Offers Salary and Flat.

Mrs. J. A., East Chestnut street, elderly couple to manage a rooming house. Salary $60 a month and furnished apartment.

Mrs. D. M., 3909 Ellis avenue, man to wash all the windows of a four story building.

W. L. Manufacturing company, South Wells street, a leather case maker. Salary $24 a week or more.

The L. hotel in Dorchester avenue, two men to clean walls and hang wall paper.

The C. V. company, South Market street, two men to haul lumber.

If you know of a job, telephone to Sally Joy Brown at Superior 0100 immediately so that it may be turned over to some one of the unemployed at the Illinois Free Employment service.

BRITAIN MAY GIVE INDIA DOMINION RANK NEXT WEEK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 9.—It was announced today that Prime Minister MacDonald will probably make a statement of the government's Indian policy next Thursday.

It is learned that he probably will announce that India has now attained full dominion status, but that it cannot operate completely until after the transition period, during which India will gradually take over the services now performed for her by Great Britain. He will also outline the machinery for creating the new Indian government and for turning over the power to it.

All but one or two minor committees have now finished their work and the chairmen are busy drafting reports to be approved by the full committees early next week. The defense committee held its final meeting today. Chairman J. H. Thomas, dominions secretary, announced that the British government favored the creation of an Indian Sandhurst—a military academy for the education of officers—and the gradual replacement of European officers by Indians.

FORD INCREASES HIS PAY ROLL TO 75,000 MONDAY

Predicts Nearly Normal Employment Soon.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Ford Motor company's pay roll will be increased to 75,000 men next Monday, with an addition of about 60,000 employés to the present staff. News of the increase follows a statement by the company during its December shutdown that it was planned to resume near normal employment the middle of January.

Normal employment at the Rouge plant is 85,000 men. Only old employés will be called back. Sixty-five hundred men returned to work last Monday after suspension of operations for inventory.

Philadelphia Speeds Building.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 9.—(AP)—New municipal construction work to the amount of $41,539,559 is under way or about to be started, Mayor Mackey reported today to the Pennsylvania unemployment committee, appointed by Governor Elect Pinchot. The mayor also informed the committee that the bureau of building inspection had informed him that about $40,000,000 of private building construction would begin soon.

New York Aids 590,000.

New York, Jan. 9.—[Special.]—There are today 62,427 heads of needy native New York families out of work, according to figures made public by Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney. To date, he said, 3,213 checks for a total of $27,423 have been distributed through the police in emergency cases, 38,463 persons have received clothing, 5,044 men and 232 women have been provided with jobs and aid has been rendered in 590,634 cases.

A plan looking to the repatriation of $1,000 idle Latin-Americans in the United States is being considered by a relief committee composed of consuls general of various South American republics, it became known today.

Seek to Charter Vessels.

The scheme involves the raising of $2,000,000 or more in this country to finance the plan, the chartering of United States Shipping board vessels, and the use of unoccupied space in freighters as temporary dormitories. The committee also would seek to find employment for repatriates in the crews of ships bound for Latin America.

About 11,000 unemployed Latin-Americans have applied in New York alone for aid in getting home, according to A. F. di Valvasone, secretary of the committee. Another 20,000 scattered over the country are also jobless and seeking help to return to their own countries. Thus far 400 have been repatriated at reduced fares.

NINE BULLETS FROM TWO GUNS KILL HOODLUM

Pietro Porto, 50 years old, a racketeer of vague antecedents, was shot to death at 11 a. m. yesterday as he stepped from a barber shop at 941 Taylor street to a small sedan, parked at the curb. License plates on the sedan were traced to Pasquale Caruso, minor west side hoodlum, who was being sought last night.

Nine bullets, drilling Porto in the right shoulder, neck and jaw, killed him almost instantly. Six of the bullets, the police determined, came from a .38 caliber revolver and the others from a .25 caliber automatic, giving rise to the deduction that two killers shared the task of dispatching Porto.

Reading of Porto's death in a newspaper, his widow, Mrs. Marie Porto, 3812 South May street, telephoned the county morgue as claimant of his body. Capt. Matthew Zimmer, commander of the Maxwell district, had her held for questioning. He had learned previously that Porto had been arrested in Detroit ten years ago as a suspected counterfeiter, and in June, 1928, had been arrested in the same city in connection with the robbery of a newspaper pay roll there.

Iowan Wins $12,500 for Injury in Auto Accident

A jury in Superior Judge Kavanagh's court yesterday awarded damages of $12,500 to Abraham Chapman of Des Moines, Ia., for injuries received last July when he was struck by the automobile of Charles Jacobs Jr., 19 year old son of Charles Jacobs, millionaire lumberman of the Edgewater Beach hotel. Chapman was struck by Jacob's car while crossing Sheridan road at Berwy avenue.

GOOD FELLOWS PAY UP PLEDGES TO SPEED RELIEF

Confident Jobs Will Open in March.

More Good Fellows are foreseeing an early end to the unemployment that has created unusual demands upon charity this winter. They have mailed checks to the Good Fellow headquarters, in THE TRIBUNE offices at Dearborn and Madison streets, covering payments that had been pledged for March and April.

"I don't want to wait until spring to finish paying on my pledge," wrote a Wilmette woman. "From the way business conditions are improving and men are being put back to work all over the country, I'm sure the emergency will have ended by March. So I'm inclosing my check for $80, covering donations that I promised for January, February, March and April."

A Broker Sends $100.

A similar prediction was contained in a letter from a La Salle street broker accompanying a check for $100.

"Please spend this money in helping to support some family in January and February," he wrote. "If the family hasn't become self-supporting by March 1, the permanent charity organizations should be able to take care of them by spring when so many now receiving aid are back at work.

"January and February, with their severe weather, are the months when poverty causes its greatest suffering. I think my check will do the most good if it's used to provide necessities for some destitute family during these winter months."

From Oak Park Good Fellow.

"I'm not a regular subscriber to charity," read a letter from a Good Fellow in Oak Park. "I can't afford to help take care of the indigent who are always with us. But I can help out during the emergency that is with us this winter. I'm inclosing $10 to be used for food and clothing for the family of some jobless man who probably won't be able to find work until spring, when the seasonal impetus is given the general employment situation."

The Good Fellow department plans to spend all of its funds by March 1, so as to give a maximum of relief during the times of greatest need. Every penny will reach some destitute family whose worthiness has been investigated. THE TRIBUNE pays the expenses of administrating the fund.

There are still many cold and hungry families who need help. There's a coupon on this page for your convenience in doing your bit.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Money in circulation in this country increased $26,000,000 during 1930.

The circulation statement of the treasury showed today that on Dec. 31 $4,890,000,000 was going the rounds. A year previous it amounted to $4,864,000,000.

The holidays brought $230,000,000 additional into circulation. The amount on Nov. 30 totaled $4,660,000,000. The season increased the per capita circulation from $37.69 to $39.41 on Dec. 31.

Total money in the country on Dec. 31 was $8,713,137,582 which compared with $8,732,677,064 a year before. Of the total on Dec. 31 $4,592,871,268 was in gold coin or bullion. The treasury held $4,[illegible],328,[illegible], of which $3,517,997,329 was in gold coin or bullion.

Federal reserve banks and agents held $2,051,443,291, of which $706,335,471 was in gold coin or bullion.

Poor Weather Again Halts Flying Widow's Sea Hop

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Jan. 9.—(AP)—A strong southwest wind with heavy showers today prevented Mrs. Beryl Hart and Lieut. William S. Maclaren from hopping off for the Azores on the second leg of a "pay load" flight to Paris. The aviators arrived here in their plane, the Tradewind, on Wednesday from Norfolk, Va.

BANK IN BALTIMORE LOSES $15,000 TO SIX HEAVILY ARMED MEN

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Six men armed with pistols and an automatic gun held employés of the Commercial Savings bank at bay today, seized cash estimated to total $15,000 and fled in an automobile.

The robbers sped away in a maroon colored sedan, bearing Maryland license plates, and state police put special patrols on roads leading from the northwestern section of the city.

When the bandits entered the bank, one pointed the sub-machine gun at Isaac Rosen, a customer, and he fainted. While three men pointed revolvers at employés, the others seized all the cash in sight.

Robber Hides in Cashier's Home.

Sioux City, Ia., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—A lone bandit this forenoon robbed the First Trust and Savings bank of Moville, Ia., of $6,000. He had entered the home of Cashier D. B. Wilkins shortly after midnight and held both Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins prisoners until daylight, when he forced Wilkins to accompany him to the bank.

JOBLESS FORCE MEXICANS OFF INDIANA JOBS

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Between 50 and 60 Mexicans employed on a railroad construction job west of here agreed to quit work and leave the country tomorrow after more than 100 men and women who said they represented "starving workers of Vigo county" marched to two camps occupied by the workers late today and demanded that they go.

The Mexicans accepted the dictum without argument, but some of the marchers said the workers jeered at them and brandished shovels as they left. One of the delegation fired two shots in the air with a rifle and the Mexicans dived for cover.

Members of the jobless delegation said they would not return to the construction camp Saturday, but that they expected 1,000 men to return Monday.

Adam Keever, head engineer of the Big Four railroad, said the road had taken no stand in the matter, but would "get this ironed out Saturday."

ASKS HOOVER TO URGE BUYING TO GIVE PROSPERITY

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Julian Goldman, head of a group of 65 retail clothing stores in the United States, today urged President Hoover "to issue a proclamation to the people of our country asking for their coöperation to buy the things that they have stopped buying, for their own welfare, in order to get us on the way back to prosperity again."

Mr. Goldman spoke before members of the Rotary club here.

"The industrial situation," he said, "looks sick, the commodity markets look sick, but the sickest of all are the minds of the consumers who make up this great country. It is within their province to stop this depression immediately and give themselves not only the goods they need but secure for themselves their employment and help the problem of the unemployed if they will only begin to buy now."

Extension by merchants of credit to consumers was urged by the speaker.

GREAT NORTHERN AND NO. PACIFIC MERGER CRASHES

Both Refuse to Give Up Interest in Burlington.

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The prospective merger of the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern railways, which has seemed on the verge of completion several times during a stormy career of nearly 30 years, has once more been called off.

The heads of the two roads, and the stockholders' unification committee, jointly announced today that the merger application filed with the interstate commerce commission July 5, 1927, would be withdrawn, owing to inability to meet the terms under which the commission approved the application in February, 1930.

The stumbling block was the commission's stipulation that the two roads divest themselves of their joint control of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, over which the Northerns have access into Chicago. The commission's own consolidation plan published a year ago sets up an independent system on the basis of the Burlington.

Budd and Donnelley Statement.

A joint statement by Charles Donnelley and Ralph Budd, presidents respectively of the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern, said in part:

"The plan proposed by us met fully the condition of preserving ample competition; the plan as modified by the commission also met it; and were it not impracticable at this time to carry through the plan of assuring an independent Burlington system, we should have submitted to the commission reasons more convincing than ever why the unification of the Northern lines should be authorized.

"We have been reluctant to withdraw our application because it cannot be too strongly emphasized that the problem is one of deep concern not merely to the transportation industry, but to all business and agricultural interests as well as of the northwest."

Represents Second Setback.

This apparent hitch in rail consolidation plans has followed by only a few days the announcement from the White House that the eastern trunk line carriers had at last agreed upon a consolidation plan. Also, it represents a second setback to the interstate commerce commission's tentative plans of setting up new independent systems, for the eastern carriers agreement, if approved by the commission, will defeat the commission's plan to set up a system on the basis of the Wabash, now controlled by the Pennsylvania.

A unification of the two Northerns would result in a system of nearly 15,000 miles of line, and assets of a total book value, according to latest available statements, of approximately $1,700,000,000. The Burlington has additional mileage of more than 9,000 miles, and a book value of more than $700,000,000. A combination of the first two would make one of the largest systems in the country, and a combination of the three would make the country's largest system, excelling the Southern Pacific in trackage, and the Pennsylvania in book value of assets. The Northerns now hold all but 3 per cent of the Burlington stock.

Hoped for Satisfactory Plan.

The joint statement by the heads of the Northerns explained, "The applicants spent much time and study on possible ways of making an effective and acceptable segregation of the Burlington, with full protection of the stockholders of the Northern lines, and of vesting in the unified Northern lines control and operation of the Burlington between Twin Cities and Chicago.

"Until recently," the statement said, "we had hoped that a satisfactory plan of doing this could be worked out; but it has become apparent that under present conditions a segregation of the Burlington could not be carried out so as to promote the welfare of the carrier involved or appeal to their stockholders as being in their interest or in the public interest. A motion therefore will be made to dismiss the petition."

They urged, however, that "the rail situation in the northwest needs relief," adding that the "carriers have already made virtually all progress practicable in the direction of increased economy and efficiency. The only way to obtain still further substantial economy and efficiency is through railroad combinations which would not interfere with the preservation of ample rail competition."

The statement asserted there was much greater transcontinental rail competition between the great lakes and the Pacific coast through the northern tier of states than through the central or southern tiers, and that the unification of the Northerns still would leave more than exists in the lower tiers.

The announcement of the committee for unification, of which George F. Baker was chairman, made at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., briefly traced the developments in the plan and announced its withdrawal.

Artist Repeats Battle of Man for Survival

Rockwell Kent's Greenland Story Is Elemental.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"N by E," by Rockwell Kent [Brewer & Warren].

Rockwell Kent is best known as an artist. He is the master of the wood cut in America, and his drawings are in every collector's portfolios. In his line he is the foremost American. That he writes books as beautiful and as powerful as his wood cuts not so many people know. Too many people missed "Wilderness" in 1920. A few less missed "Voyaging" in 1924, and through the offices of the Literary Guild the unfortunate number who did not know Rockwell Kent as an author was radically reduced by their choice of "N by E" as their December book. [The public was certainly Rockwell Kent conscious in December, with the Literary Guild's choice and the Book of the Month club offering "Moby Dick" with his superb illustrations.]

ROCKWELL KENT.

"N by E" is the record of a trip which Rockwell Kent made to Greenland with two other men in a small boat. There was a vast storm, the boat was wrecked, and Rockwell Kent remained for several months in Greenland painting. Those are the facts recorded in the pages. What the book is, however, is something beyond that, something greater, a sort of exploration of man's relation to his own life and the lives of others. There is something cosmic about "N by E" without the author's making any point of writing anything more than a full diary.

There are pages of beauty so tense and lovely as only a poet can conceive. There are observations, casual as if they were nothing, but which have the full substance of inner as well as external observation. Sometimes Mr. Kent uses words as he would paint. He puts them together in designs which are a delight. His description of the storm which wrecked the expedition has a vigor and a power about it that the most skilled of novelists rarely achieve. That is because the author is a skilled and a practiced observer. He sees with an eye more deeply concentrated than most, an artist's eye.

He speaks, for instance, of a trudge for his life. And to him comes the strange idea, topped as he is by snow-clad mountains, wearily tramping through long grass matted with flowers, to gather a bouquet for his sweetheart [who could be no nearer than months—perhaps at that moment—death]. "And from that moment the gathering of those wild flowers becomes to me a fixed idea," he says, "a purpose to my being there more real and tangible, and strangely, more important than my journey's goal. So, as through those long, heartbreaking hours I plod on, I'll often leave my path to pick some bright new specimen and add it to my growing handful. O, there are lots of people who go through life like that—clutching bunches of wild flowers in their hands."

And later, about that journey to succor, which seemed endless, "and the foolish idea came to me that I with my burden was Christian. And that all this journey with its labors, roundabouts and hazards was contrived to try the faith and fortitude of man through me, his type and symbol." There is an inner sight and an inner interpretation of sights seen in those memorable words.

"See me as Adam," he wrote about the moments when the boat was being broken by the storm, "set full blown into that pandemonium of force, his world—of wind, storm, snow, rain, hail, lightning and thunder, earthquake and flood, hunger and cold, and the huge, terrifying presence of the unknown, using his little wit toward self-containedness against the too-much of immensity; and quietly—for Adam lived—doing the little first-at-hands one on another in their natural course, thinking but little and reflecting less Adam and Man; and me in that compacted miniature of man's universe, the cabin of the yacht Direction on the rocks of Greenland. We live less by imagination than despite it."

There is something heroic-size about such prose. Mr. Kent may well be designated as "artist, author" [as he is in "Who's Who"] instead of merely artist. Being an artist in the narrower sense of the word as well as in the broader has made "N by E" a beautiful volume to look at as well as into with the mind.

BRITISH SCHOOLS HIT BY TEACHER'S NOVEL; SHAW BOOSTS "ADS"

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—A book which has attracted a good deal of attention in London this season is "Unwillingly to School," written by a young woman who uses the pseudonym of Anne Allardice. The book is a picture of the life led by teachers in elementary schools in a west of England city, and it is so very candid that as the author is still engaged in the teaching profession her use of a pseudonym is most understandable.

G. B. SHAW.
[From drawing by Colin Gill.]

"Unwillingly to School" is not a perfect novel, but it is very good, very sincere, and very uncommon in theme. The heroine, a school teacher, has a series of not particularly congenial head mistresses. She also experiences all the drudgery of an elementary school teacher's life in surroundings which suggest all sorts of horrors.

Clearly, the English educational system is not yet ideal. Miss Allardice's heroine does not stay all the time at school, and at the end of the book, after amusing holiday experiences in Switzerland and elsewhere, she finds release by taking a post as assistant in a bookshop. But "Unwillingly to School" is good propaganda as well as an interesting novel, and if it is read (as I have no doubt it will be read) by some of the English education authorities, it will cause them to think hard. The author, as I have said, is still a teacher (she has not emulated her own heroine, and left the profession), and her next book will be, not another novel about teachers, but a story of the Mendip hills, with which picturesque district of the west of England she is well acquainted.

A short time ago Bernard Shaw, when invited to write an advertisement, said that he read with gusto, and made a point of collecting, the little brochures issued every few weeks by a London firm of provision dealers (they are now becoming a large general store), Messrs. Fortnum & Mason. Mr. Shaw is not alone in this habit, and I foresee a day when the brochures will be valuable collectors' items. They represent a particularly Anglo-American type of nonsense, the kind that is illustrated by "Alice in Wonderland," or, more simply, by certain of the old nursery rhymes, and, because they are so entertaining, they must be good advertisements.

Now, following upon Mr. Shaw's puff, a collection has been made of these brochures for those who have not been on Messrs. Fortnum & Mason's mailing list for the last few years. It is called "Let's Forget Business"; is written by H. Stuart Menzies, and is illustrated by W. W. Hendy. I should think the collection would be unique. I draw attention to the fact that the author's name is Scottish, and add that the tale that Scotsmen cannot see a joke is a Scottish joke. Scots have invented all the best stories at the expense of their own countrymen.

Journalists here are busy telling the world that Edgar Wallace wrote his new play in two days, but Mr. Wallace corrects the story. He says he is a rapid worker, but that the real work in planning the play may take months, while the real work of writing the play may very well be done after the play has been put into rehearsal. That is one of the advantages of being your own producer! At any rate, Mr. Wallace's play about Chicago, "On the Spot," is a great success in London, and looks as if it would last well into 1931.

Pleasant Stories of Simple Life Told in These Titles

Virginia Olcott's "Dino of the Golden Boxes" and Amy Palm's "Wanda and Greta at Bropy Farm" are both pleasant stories of the simple life of little children in other countries. The first is a story of Dino, a little Italian orphan who helped his older sister paint the beautiful boxes which were sold in the market place at Florence, and how his great wish to go to art school was realized. The second tells of the good times two little Swedish girls had in their home on the farm and is a translation by Siri Andrews. Both books are attractively illustrated.

Nations' League at Ten Writes Its Biography

The league of nations has celebrated its tenth birthday by producing a one volume official autobiography. There have been some excellent books about the league by outside observers, but the official story has been heretofore available only in slender introductory pamphlets and in formal documentation. "The League of Nations: Ten Years of International Coöperation," bridges the gap between. It presents the full scope of the league's work as it appears to those within the league secretariat.

Chaucer's Days Live Again in Story for Girls

"Loud Sing Cuckoo" Is Adventure Yarn.

"Loud Sing Cuckoo," by Emma Gelders Sterne [Duffield].

"Waif Maid," by May McNeer [Macmillan].

Although we have in the last year added many fine titles to our list for older girls, it is not often that we are fortunate enough to have two books unusual in background and equally excellent in characterization and literary value appear at the same time in this field. Such is our good fortune this fall for in Emma Sterne's "Loud Sing Cuckoo" [Duffield] and May McNeer's "Waif Maid" [Macmillan] we have two stories, which all seekers of fine writing for young people should take note of.

The first is a story of England in the days of Geoffrey Chaucer and the genial poet himself plays a part in it. The tale centers about twelve year old Alison, who seeing her father left for dead at the hands of the king's men seeks refuge in the forest with only her pet cuckoo as a companion. Master Hugh du Maury, of famous family, comes upon her beside the nunnery gates, takes a fancy to the bird, and throwing her a gold coin in payment for it, carries it off. The gold was the means of sending the lonely friendless girl into a new life, where disguised as a boy to escape her father's assailants, she joins a band of traveling troupers, and much time passes before her path and that of Hugh du Maury cross again. The story of her adventuring brings in the rich background of 15th century England setting forth the conflicting forces of the time as motifs upon a tapestry.

The good comradeship of the strolling players and the joyous fair crowds which made the countryside ring with cheer at May day present the old merry England of song and story, and offer pleasing contrast to the darker aspects of injustice and greed which are also part of the picture. There is a romance which will please the girl reader and the book is one of substance and value.

The other book, "Waif Maid" by May McNeer [Macmillan], is laid in the Rhineland when belief in witches and witchcraft sent many innocent persons to their deaths. Waif maid is a homeless little lass whose mother has been adjudged a witch and who herself is being persecuted by her mother's accusers. Her rescue by three kindly musicians and her life with the gentle Herr Durer and his good hearted but ill tempered frau make fascinating reading. Fine characterization and excellent description of the country are combined with a wholesome humorous touch in the treatment and unmasking of the pompous soldier and his master the "witch hunter" by the jolly musicians. The story of Albrecht Durer and his apprentices and their work in perfecting the wood cuts adds an interesting bit of historical interest and the fine wood cuts by Lynd Ward make especially suitable illustration. To one looking for something a little different in girls' stories, either book will be eminently satisfactory.

Troubles of Amateur Magician with Luzon's Literal Head Hunters

R. F. Barton, author of "The Half Way Sun" (Brewer & Warren) likes to poke around in far-off parts of the globe. He spent eight years living among the head hunters of northern Luzon. There circumstances impelled him to become a priest among them and even at times to perform feats of magic. He says:

"I am a bit of a magician, and around the campfire at night, in the hill country, used to mystify the wild men with my tricks. But I learned that it did not pay.

"One night a young fellow was sure he had broken a match covered with a handkerchief into several pieces and that I had made it whole again by prayer. Next morning he brought a broken shovel handle and wanted me to pray the pieces together!"

Story of Broadcasting Told in Book by Expert

"This Thing Called Broadcasting" [Holt] is a popular review of many ideas, events, and personalities that have gone into the creation of one of the greatest achievements of modern civilization. The authors are Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, vice president and general engineer of the Radio Corporation of America, and Austin C. Lescarboura, formerly managing editor of Scientific American.

THE NEW BOOKS

BY THE LITERARY EDITOR.

FICTION.

Roman Holiday [Farrar & Rinehart] is a love story told against a background of social satire—America, the modern Rome after the destruction of Carthage—by that polemic satirist, Upton Sinclair.

By Royal Command, by Dornford Yates [Minton Balch], is another gay romantic successor to "Blood Royal," a sort of modern "Prisoner of Zenda." "By Royal Command" still is running serially in THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE.

Venus on Wheels, by Maurice de Kobra [Macaulay], is a dashing French novel about a woman who tried to reform a cocotte and found her own Puritanism reformed in the bargain.

Occupied Territory, by Alice Ritchie [Harcourt Brace], is a novel about the temporary life of the British officers and their families during the occupation of Germany.

Corsair, by Walton Green [Doubleday Doran], is about a gentleman hijacker de luxe.

The Prairie Patrol, by Harold Bindloss [Stokes], is about the Royal Northwest Mounted police in pioneer days on the prairies.

Call Her Fannie, by May Edington [Penn], is fluff about a girl who was both serious and frivolous and how hard it was for her to make up her mind about marriage.

China Seas, by Crosbie Garstin [Stokes], has a swell typhoon in it.

MYSTERY.

The Murderer Invincible, by Philip Wylie [Farrar & Rinehart], is a perfectly swell mystery by the author of three previously unmystifying novels.

The Round Table Murders, by Peter Baron [Macaulay], tells of four brothers who were killers before they were blood kin.

Sphinx, by Florence Converse [Dutton], is a mystery which is primarily a gay novel of museum life in Italy.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Education of a Princess [Viking] is a memoir by Marie, grand duchess of Russia—a somewhat ironic title.

Breaking the Silence, by St. John Gaffney [Liveright], are intimate revelations of personalities and events of the war set down by the man who, as consul general to Munich, was recalled because he was said to be not neutral.

Pulitzer Prize Winners, the Drama, by Oscar Morrill Heath [Holland Press, Chicago], reviews the twelve dramas which thus far have been laurel wreathed.

ABOUT PLACES.

Washington, by George Rothwell Brown [Norman Publishing company, Baltimore], is a "not too serious history" of that city.

NONFICTION.

That Next War, by K. A. Bratt [Harcourt Brace], is the discussion by a Swedish staff officer of what the chances are for war. There are forewords by Wickham Steed and Nicholas Murray Butler.

The Colophon is part four of that incomparable quarterly for book collectors.

Negro, by John Louis Hill [Literary Associates], is a discussion of the much talked of race question.

Maurois Brings Culture Here, Finds It, Too

French Author Tells Plans for New Work.

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—"When some one says to me there is no culture in America, I reply: 'You speak as a fool, because you have not yet met a cultured American.'" André Maurois qualified the word fool with a sturdy English damn; he uses our language with complete mastery, although he pronounces it with an un-American accent.

ANDRE MAUROIS.

Mr. Maurois has been lecturing at Princeton university for the last semester. He now is in New York for a fortnight before sailing for Paris. His Christmas day away from home, he said, was spent sending off cable after cable to the children, two sons, aged nine and ten, and a daughter a little older.

This is Mr. Maurois' second sojourn of several months in the United States. "The only way to get acquainted with a country is to have a job which brings you in normal contact with people. I am impatient," he declared, "with Europeans who write books on America after a visit of a few weeks."

As to the new books we may expect from this Frenchman who has written so brilliantly by Shelley, Byron and Disraeli, in the spring will come a little volume entitled "The Weigher of Souls." "A mad story," he described it, "a fantastic tale. Its purport is serious, even sad, but the fashion in which it is told is bizarre. I cannot say whether others will like it, but I enjoyed writing it."

Next will come a volume of essays, studies of modern life and modern thought. "We who live in this period are adapting ourselves to new situations; we have evolved a new philosophy. What is this philosophy? As yet it has been expressed only in feeling and action. My book will set down what I, groping into what has as yet been unsaid, can discover of what is."

"Will there be a book on America, Mr. Maurois," he was asked.

"Perhaps, but not yet," he said. "There are many schemes in my head. One of them is a history, 'The Origin of Contemporary Europe.' I was in the last war. I am dismayed to think that my sons should ever encounter war. And I am puzzled—what is the duty of a writer and a Frenchman toward the new generation?

"History, you know, is a research, a means to understand the present and to shape the future. My history will be in three volumes; the first, prewar, will center on Edward VII.; the second will be concerned chiefly with Woodrow Wilson; the third, post-war, will study Poincaré and Briand. It is not a work to be done quickly; I cannot say when it will be begun or finished."

In appearance Mr. Maurois is not so tall and of a leanness you associate less with athletics than with mental exercise. He has large, long eyes, long nose, generous mouth, slender hands that constantly emphasize the nuance of his words. You feel in him the sympathy of an open mind,

Tuesday's tea party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Townsend [he's editor of Country Life in America] for Marguerite Kirmse. You know who she is if you like dogs.

We ourselves like them—at a distance of a thousand miles—or in the new book entitled "Marguerite Kirmse's Dogs," which contains reproductions of seventy-five of her etchings, including that first ingratiating Scottie scratched on copper with a Victrola needle, including, too, "The Debutante," which the queen of England has in her collection, and "We," which Rudyard Kipling purchased and which caused him to request that Miss Kirmse illustrate his recent tale, "Thy Servant, a Dog."

Miss Kirmse was well started upon a career as a harpist when she came from England to America in 1910. Victor Herbert arranged for her to become a member of his orchestra, "but you'll have to wait six months before you can join the union," he said. During this wait the Victrola needle etching changed Miss Kirmse's life.

SYNOPSIS.

Richard Chandos and his wife, Leonie, former grand duchess of Riechtenburg, are visited at their estate near Littai, in Austria, by George Hanbury, companion of Chandos in many adventures. Marya Salm, countess of Dresden, an expected guest, wires that she will not come.

Prince Paul, ruler of Riechtenburg, had hoped to marry Leonie and swore revenge. Fearing for Marya's safety because of her friendship for Leonie, Chandos and Hanbury, with their servants, Bell and Rowley, go secretly to Virgil, capital city of Riechtenburg, where Marya resides. A peasant named Ramon, whom they befriended, leads them through a secret border passage.

Marya tells them that she sent no message. Realizing the telegram was a ruse to lure them to Virgil, they are preparing to flee with Marya when the prince appears. They manage and reach the border, but find it is so closely guarded that crossing is impossible. Ramon is sought and he hides Marya and Carol, her trusted servant, in his house, while Chandos and Rowley join a traveling circus. Marya sends Carol to take them to Bariche, across the border, in a car which they recognize as Grieg's, the chief of police. Arrived at the inn in Bariche they receive a message from Marya stating that she is to be pardoned but she must remain in Riechtenburg and not communicate with them. Knowing that Marya, endeavoring to save them, has made some impossible arrangement with Grieg, they return to the border. Hanbury and Rowley pass, but Chandos is captured. He proves to the inspector that Grieg has betrayed his trust. Grieg arrives and leaves with the prisoner for Virgil. Hanbury and Rowley, knowing their friend's plight, hold up and capture the chief's car. They drive to the estate of Baron Sabre, where they find Marya. Grieg they left, tied to a post along the roadside.

Marya tells them that she was married that morning to Grieg—her price for their freedom. Hanbury, who is in love with Marya, is stunned at this news. Chandos sets out to find Grieg and kill him to free Marya, but Grieg has escaped. Chandos returns to Baron Sabre's and overhears the prince, who has arrived, arguing with Grieg. Grieg is forgiven when he tells the prince he has a trap set to catch his prey that evening at the secret border pass, as well as Leonie, who is to meet them there. The prince departs. Chandos narrowly misses a bullet fired by Grieg. He intercepts a telegram to Grieg from Littai—one of many which Lelia, a young peasant girl, has delivered. Lelia leads Chandos to a mill where his friends are hiding. He finds Hanbury sleeping. Marya implores Chandos not to kill Grieg, and while he is bathing in the mill pond Marya disappears. Chandos sends George and Rowley to follow Marya, and he leaves for the border pass. Lelia, who has fallen in love with Chandos, at the risk of her life finds him first at Chandos, but Lelia throws herself in front of him and receives the bullet. Grieg, with Chandos in pursuit. He is trapped at the brink of a gorge and forced to fall to his death below. Chandos then returns to the police and surrenders, and in their company sets out to return the body of Lelia to her home. En route they are seen by the local coroner, who demands the girl's body for inquest. He hears Chandos' story and promises to see that he is brought back the next day to testify. The villagers, friendly to the grand duchess, promise their aid, if needed. In the prison at Virgil, Chandos encounters Prince Paul, who visits his cell. Chandos is given a private hearing before a special court.

INSTALLMENT XLII.

AN UPSET COURT.

The elder judge lifted his head.

"Do you wish to question his royal highness?"

"Yes," I said, and rose to my feet.

I folded my arms and looked the prince in the face.

"Can you describe my pistol?"

"It was like any other pistol," he said.

"Which was it—nickeled or blued?"

"It was nickeled," the prince said hesitantly.

I addressed the court.

"I call for that pistol," I said.

The younger of the judges leaned forward.

"What pistol?" he said, smiling.

"The pistol which I handed to the police."

"But what will that prove?" he purred.

"You will see that it is blued."

"No doubt," said the other, "but the pistol of which we are speaking is the one which you pointed at the prince."

My spirits sank lower than before. I was no match for these men.

"I never had but one," I said wearily.

With a gesture of infinite regret, the fellow leaned back in his seat. To this day I can see his raised hand and pitying smile. The mockery stung me.

"Have you any other questions?" he said.

"What does this mean?"

Then, "Was the Countess Dresden present?" I said.

"Yes," he said roughly. "She was."

"Do you think her account of what happened would tally with yours?"

"D'you suggest I'm lying?" he blurted.

"From beginning to end," I said coolly. "You know it as well as I. Every one present knows it. And now kindly answer my question. Do you think Madame Dresden's account——"

"Do you call the countess?" the younger of the judges said sharply.

"No," said I.

"Then what she would say has nothing to do with the case."

I returned to the prince, whose face was working with rage.

"You say you knocked Hanbury down? Was he the only one you knocked down?"

"Yes."

"Then why did you tell Weber that you had 'laid two of them out'? Yesterday morning . . . when you were at Baron Sabre's . . . waiting for Grieg?"

"Where were you?" he said, starting forward.

"Close enough to hear every word—every single word."

Before the man could reply, the elder of the judges was making some fresh remonstrance with all his might.

A knock fell upon the door by which the two jailers stood.

"What is it?" barked the judge who was not engaged with the prince.

The jailer turned a scared face. Then he drew the curtains and let an inspector come in.

"What does this mean?"

"A coroner's officer, sir, is standing below. He has a witness-summons made out in the prisoner's name."

With a gesture of the utmost impatience the elder judge sat back in his chair.

"Tell him to leave it," he flamed.

"He—he demands to serve it personally, sir."

"'Demands'?" cried the other. "'Demands'? And how does he know that the prisoner is here? Send the man packing. Good God, must he come to us in a matter like this? An inspector of police that cannot deal with a peasant is best returned to the ranks." He smote upon the board with his fist. "Begone."

The inspector withdrew, trembling.

As the door closed behind him—

"Who's dead?" said the prince, frowning.

I did not hear what was said, for their voices were low; but first one spoke, and then the other, and I have no doubt that their talk was of what had happened at Vardar the night before. The detective-sergeant, of course, had reported what had occurred, but it had been intended, I fancy, to keep the facts from the prince.

"A demonstration?" said the prince suddenly. "What do you mean?"

The younger judge spoke very fast, but the prince cut him short.

"He said 'demonstration'", he cried, with a smack of his hand. "A demonstration means treason. It's a devilish curious thing that it should happen last night—just when she'd entered the country . . . Damn it, you're my advisers. Don't you——"

Another knock fell upon the door and a sturdy superintendent entered the room.

"What now?" rasped the elder judge.

"Sir," said the superintendent, "the matter is grave. I have but just come in. The coroner's officer from Vardar is not alone. He has brought six witnesses."

"Witnesses?"

"Witnesses, sir—to see how he is received. They are, all six, men of Vardar. And the man himself is wearing the mourning sash. This makes him conspicuous. There is a crowd of three hundred, and I have closed the gates."

"Disperse them," cried the prince. "If you don't know how to do it, send for the troops."

The superintendent braced himself.

"They are orderly enough, your Royal Highness. But it—it is the impression conveyed. The obstruction of a coroner's officer is a most serious thing."

In evident agitation the elder judge half rose and lifted a hand.

"It is out of order," he began . . .

"Silence!" roared his master, and stamped his foot. The old man fell back, shaking. "What fool said the prisoner was here? Tell him he's wrong."

"It is useless, your Royal Highness. Himself he saw the arrest." The man hesitated. "He—he has a second summons. For her highness, the Grand Duchess Leonie."

The prince leaped to his feet.

"This is treason," he mouthed. "Witness-summons be damned. They want to get her to——"

"By your leave, sir." The younger judge's voice cut through the sentence, as a knife. As the prince turned to rend him. "The grand duchess is at Littai," he added. "At least, she left Virgil for Littai some hours ago."

The superintendent replied.

"I have insisted, sir, that her highness is not here. I think if he were permitted to serve the prisoner, the man would go."

There was a moment's silence. Then—

"The court will adjourn," said the elder judge. "Take the prisoner away."

With his words, the jailers closed about me and carried me off.

Good morning!

Quite a title, isn't it? And I don't think the story's so hot. BUT—wait till you see Walter Huston! Had conscience not sternly assailed me, I fear I would have given this picture four stars on the strength of his impersonation alone. On the other hand, I am reasonably sure that without him "The Virtuous Sin" would have rated as "good" instead of as "excellent." You see, it pays to have a good man around.

Put Mr. Huston where you will and he becomes the character he represents. Was he "Lincoln"? He was. Was he a grand and glorious bandit in a most indifferent movie, "The Bad Man"? Yes! IS he a Russian general that no man will be able to forget and no woman will WANT to? Well, just go see the picture at the Oriental and get an eyeful of my—at the moment of writing—favorite actor.

A hard, ruthless machine of a man is Gen. Gregori Platoff. Striking, magnetic, and forceful, but never, by any chance "pretty" in his gorgeous uniforms. His business is making soldiers and keeping them at slaughter, and he has never an ear for a woman's pleas for mercy for the ones she loves till—Marya Ivanova puts one over on him, and, incidentally, on herself. With hate in her heart she comes to beg for her husband's life, but she finds the gods of things as they be in sporting mood, and is encompassed by the storm she brings about the head of "Old Iron Face"—Gen. Gregori Platoff.

Miss Francis does beautifully [looking the same] in a rôle that certainly stretches the imagination.] Kenneth McKenna as her scientist husband pulled, protesting and resentful, from his laboratory to the field of battle—where he gives the general a piece of his mind, receiving a death sentence in return—is efficient. Jobyna Howland plays a garish, good hearted, hard-boiled Madame in amusingly florid fashion and minor parts are earnestly acted. The finale will please you, I'm sure, if you feel at all the same way I do about Mr. Huston.

The film is rather jerky and sketchy at the start, but improves as it progresses and Gen. Platoff is more and more in evidence. Sound, photography, sets, costumes, etc., are generally pleasing. The picture boasts some laughs and quite a bit of suspense.

"MEN ON CALL."

Produced by Fox.

Directed by John Blystone.

Presented at the Palace theater.

THE CAST.

Chuck ..... Edmund Lowe
"Cap" ..... William Harrigan
Helen ..... Mae Clark
Joe Burke ..... Warren Hymer

This yarn takes Mr. Edmund Lowe as a joyous, lovin' locomotive engineer and makes of him a broken hearted coast guard.

The engineer, you see, had loved a stage dancer. On the eve of his marriage to her he had been given reason to believe that she had done him wrong. He gives her no chance to explain, but goes out into a cold world—and cracks up.

Later he is discovered in a park stealing nuts from a squirrel, by a nice humane coast guard captain who feeds him beefsteak, listens to his tale of woe and persuades him to enter the service of Uncle Sam.

Chuck "comes back." All goes well till he and the captain rescue from drowning—whom do you think . . ?

Well, anyhow, the girl is really just as nice as the engineer had once thought her.

"Men on Call" is a reasonably interesting and well acted program picture with some gorgeous photographic shots. You will like the principal players and be quite a bit excited over several of the situations in which they find themselves.

See you tomorrow.

Rags, War Dog, Adds a Medal to His String

He Squirms a Bit While Public Pets Him.

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Rags, a shaggy, taffy colored mongrel terrier whose picture—autographed with his paw mark—hangs in the British museum among the great heroes of the world war, got another medal today.

It was presented by the American Anti-Vivisection society, amid speeches and lots of applause.

Rags probably won't wear the medal much, since he hates things dangling around his neck. All the fuss incident to its bestowal bored him not a little.

But Rags was a gentleman. Gravely courteous, he permitted small boys and girls with flushed cheeks and shining eyes to crowd round him and pat him, and with tongue lolling out and a gently humorous expression in his wise old eyes he watched grownups grow exalted and very sentimental.

He was a bad dog only twice. When they lifted him up on a table he squirmed a bit. And he almost collapsed from fright when they tried to take his picture by flashlight.

Rags' career with the American army began in Paris in 1918. Private Donovan, signal corps, First division, picked him up one rainy night in Montmartre.

The First division went to Soissons, and Rags learned to drop flat on his belly whenever he heard a certain noise. He learned to wear a gas mask. And then he learned to carry pieces of paper from one olive drab uniform to another.

Three times those pieces of paper Rags carried saved the lives of hundreds of American soldiers. The third time, just as he was to start back with his gas mask on and the paper tied to his collar, that awful noise came again, and when things stopped falling his boss—Sergt. Donovan then—was lying badly hurt on the ground. Rags himself had a torn ear, and one of his front paws was hurt.

"Run, Rags! Run!" whispered his boss.

A few minutes later, tearing along on three paws and gasping from the gas, Rags stumbled blindly into another olive drab uniform.

They took Rags and his boss to the hospital, and there was an order from headquarters which read: "The dog gets attention same as soldier." They were finally invalided back to Fort Sheridan, Ill.

Rags now lives with Maj. and Mrs. Hardenburgh and their little daughter, Helen, on Governor's island in New York harbor.

President F. P. Day of Union College Talks to Alumni

Alumni of Union college, Schnectady, N. Y., attended a dinner last night in honor of President Frank Parker Day, head of that institution. The dinner was held at the Chicago Athletic club. President Day arrived in the city in the morning and in the afternon spoke at the Morgan Park Military academy.

Dr. Day expressed deep interest in the program of President Hutchins for reforming the educational system at the University of Chicago. In time, Dr. Day thinks, only young men and women who seriously desire an education will be found on the campuses.

Some of his other ideas:

The college of the future will be so free that there will be no check on lecture attendance.

Students will study subjects in which they are interested long enough to master them—if it takes two months or four years.

Instead of expressing their interest in athletics by sitting in a grandstand watching eleven fellow collegians battling on the gridiron, every student will develop his own physical powers by daily participation in sports.

MEXICO PLANS FOR PLAY CITY TO WIN MORE U. S. TOURISTS

BY JOHN CORNYN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 9.—Moving picture cameras and a stable complete with fine horses and polo ponies, as well as a complete engineering outfit, have followed President Ortiz Rubio to his bathing place retreat at Acapulco on the Pacific coast.

The president's idea of taking a holiday is to be constantly busy at things that interest him. He is up at 6 o'clock every morning and goes for a ride. President Rubio is fond of bathing and loves to breathe the sea air, and every afternoon he takes his walk along the Pacific coast.

Although an engineer by profession, he likes his soldiers, and he is surrounded by military men of high rank. Among them is Gen. Joaquin Amaro, minister of war, and Gen. Lazaro Cardenas, who made a name for himself on the Pacific coast during the Escobar revolt, and also Gen. Juan Andrea Almazan, minister of communications and public works, as well as half a dozen other high ranking officers.

But the president's greatest interest is in the port of Acapulco, which he aims to make the most popular tourist resort in Mexico and a real terminal for the great highway which will connect Mexico City with Laredo, Tex.

He has given encouragement to the restoration of the port and its buildings. He hopes to make of it a new city in the center of which soon will be built one of the finest hotels in the country, with all modern attractions demanded by the modern tourist and traveler. The new hotel is to be surrounded by an extensive park and gardens, with amusements of all kinds.

The president has given orders to continue the improvement work on the highway connecting Mexico City with Acapulco via Cuernavaca, and special attention is now being given to the innumerable cuts through the mountains to put them in such a condition that they will not be affected by the heavy rains during the rainy season which begins in June and lasts until November.

Science Helps Daniel's Book, Briton Asserts

Says Jewish Captivity in Babylon Is Proved.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Startling discoveries by C. Leonard Wooley, director of a joint expedition of the University of Pennsylvania and the British museum which is excavating the ancient glories of Ur of the Chaldees, give definite confirmation to the Book of Daniel, according to Sir Charles Marston, archaeologist. Sir Charles has financed many expeditions to old biblical sites. He said today Mr. Wooley's discoveries showed the probability of the Book of Daniel having been written at the same time with the events recorded.

"Mr. Wooley has discovered the palace of Princess Bel Shalti Nanna," he said, "and it is possible that this will lead to some interesting developments in our knowledge of Bible history. This princess is believed to have been the sister of King Belshazzar of Babylon, whose great feast was interrupted by the writing on the wall. Their grandfather, Nebuchadnezzar, the conqueror of Jerusalem, took the Jews as captives back to Babylon. Archaeology has proved that the sack of Jerusalem did take place. It is quite feasible that the captive Daniel may have seen Belshazzar's palace.

Daniel's Story, Long Doubted, Gains Some New Support.

"Many biblical archaeologists have doubted the authenticity of the Book of Daniel, but this discovery does much to confirm the historical accuracy of the story of King Belshazzar.

"Cuneiform writings of the sixth century B. C., inscribed on clay tablets nearly 2,500 year ago, already have been deciphered, giving clear cut evidence of the reality of Belshazzar and remarkable confirmation of the subject matter of the fifth chapter of the Book of Daniel. I believe the fifth chapter of the Book of Daniel ranks next to cuneiform literature in accuracy so far as outstanding events are concerned.

"Those who have studied the Bible know that the Book of Daniel does not end with King Belshazzar's dramatic death, but records Daniel's subsequent life in the Medo-Persian period. There seems to be a good deal about when the Persian religion-leader, Zoroaster, actually lived. One is tempted to trace a connection between his faith and that of the prophet Daniel."

Jericho's Walls Built in About 1400 B. C., It's Said.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Researches conducted last year on the walls of Jericho have established that these walls were constructed about 1,400 years before Christ. So declared the British archaeologist, J. Garstang, of the University of Liverpool, today before the French Academy of Inscriptions.

He said the date had been set through comparison of certain ceramics and methods of construction, and he said it was of especial importance as enabling historians more accurately to estimate the date when the Israelites entered the Holy Land.

Cinderella Foot Won't Offset the Wrinkled Face

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Cold days aren't so profitable for the chiropodist, but come a warm one or two in the winter's midst and if you've got a corn hiding behind your shoe leather anywhere, you're going to hear from it.

I always wonder why people go round limping, raising creases in their faces and corns on their disposition when for a couple of dollars at a good foot-doctor's they could find immediate and blessed relief.

With women taking more and more to high heels for street use, the corn crop grows apace. Generally speaking, women are getting saner about feet dressing—but there is still a preponderously large body that wants its feet to look a size they ain't. The high heel and the short vamp gives the illusion of blood kin to Cinderella, but the limping gait and the furrowed brow destroy the myth.

If it's a soft corn between the toes [which is their location habit] it can cause you to want to walk on your head for relief. An application of a fifteen to twenty-five per cent salicylic ointment is suggested by Dr. A. E. Biddinger in a current health publication as often giving results which should be obtained in two or three days. During the treatment, the doctor recommends that the toes be kept well separated by small pads of cotton or wool. It is painful and difficult to attempt the removal of a soft corn with a knife or scissors.

Corns [hard] that appear on the outer part of the little toe, Dr. Biddinger says, seldom ever disappear, due to the fact that they are almost constantly subjected to pressure.

Corns may appear on the bottom of the feet, too, and these often disappear with a treatment of the metatarsal bones which a chiropodist does by raising them and relieving the pressure. Often what is diagnosed as callous on the soles of the feet only is a gnawing corn hidden under a layer of callous.

One treatment may be all that is needed for corn relief if proper footgear is adopted and the tight pressured ones abandoned completely.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

C. L.: BRONZE COLORING IS effective on reddish brown eyebrows. For the pale blonde brows a light brown pencil would be preferable.

K. C.: IT ISN'T POSSIBLE TO decrease the size of the knuckles but by building up the rest of the hands the joints may be made to appear smaller. Massage the hands with pure olive oil.

Twelfth Night Dance Is Late, but It's Merry

BY THALIA

THE Twelfth Night ball last night began late [it might as well have been called the Twelfth Hour ball, because the merry-makers didn't begin to arrive until shortly before midnight], but it gave every indication of being a great success, even without the extensive costuming and decorating efforts expended in recent years.

The decorations were merely red and white paper festoons masking the ornate and old style beauties of the Germania club, where the first Butchers, Bakers and Candlestick Makers balls, predecessors of the present Twelfth Night affairs, were held.

Long tables, bedecked with hardy white tablecloths and salt and pepper shakers had a truly old fashioned rustic appearance, and the one orchestra which did duty for two rooms full of dancers, was garbed in bakers' aprons and caps, reminiscent of the early parties.

The colorful, motley array of costumes included a generous representation of the favorite Spanish señor and señorita onés, an almost equal proportion of Pierrots and Pierrettes, a great many glorified ragamuffin outfits, and the usual quota of original and ingenious getups. The Ballard Moores, dressed as a lady and gentleman of the "Gay Nineties," mustachioed and pompadoured, were the most sensationally and appropriately done up of the early comers, and petite Mrs. Niblack Thorne in black velvet shorts with a satin blouse and round, ruffled collar was one of the prettiest. Mr. Thorne was a cowboy in white chaps and a red shirt, and the Bruce Thornes, who came in with them, were Spanish in black velvet and orange and red blouses, respectively.

Others who trouped in at the beginning were the John Broeksmits, he as a Spaniard and she in a black velvet gown and white wig; the James Forgans, Mr. Forgan in a plum colored velvet suit, silver lace collar and cuffs and red wig as a "Velasquez painting."

Some of the Gayest of Costumes Among the Guests.

Among the other costumes were:

Mrs. Grant Laing in a black and white checkered outfit with a big black tam; Angela Johnston as a French revolution miss in pink stripes; the Wilbur C. Smiths in Madeira peasant costumes that they got on their recent honeymoon; Mrs. Louis Manierre as a Covent Garden flower girl; Mrs. Laurence O. Wilson in short black velvet trousers and a white blouse.

Margaret James as an "Age of Innocence"; Mrs. Robert McCormick Adams as a black and white Pierrette with red pompoms; Eleanor McCormick in a combination lounging pajama-harem costume; Ines de Soriano as a ballet dancer in white ruffled dress and silver wig; Mrs. T. Philip Swift in southern beach regalia.

Jessica Hambleton as a Venetian lady in pyramid hat and gown in blue and yellow.

Peggy Hambleton admitted that she had made her costume, representing Money, with a capital M—out of past Twelfth Nights costumes, and Dick Little wore a resplendent Spanish outfit in black and silver. Shelby Little was in orange, blue, and cerise chiffon and velvet rags.

The Albert Deweys and the William Mitchell Blairs came in looking like denizens of the Latin Quarter or the Bowery, and Eleanor Holden's Bowery outfit was a wonder—short plaid skirt, black blouse, red sash, and high-buttoned shoes. Mrs. John D. C. Towne Jr. was in blue velvet lounging pajamas.

Marshall Fields Due Here Monday; Some Other News.

The Marshall Fields III. are taking the train from New York City on Sunday and will arrive here some time on Monday. . . . Earle H. Reynolds, Charles F. Glore, Col. R. R. McCormick, Laurance H. Armour, and John Hertz Sr. and Jr. are slated to play in some of the polo games at Nautilus field at Miami Beach, although most of them haven't yet made definite plans as to when they will be there. (Games are being played on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday afternoons.) . . . The Junior league's Friday morning lectures interpreting the Symphony have been so successful that they're going to continue them and Peggy Hambleton and Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr. are taking over the publicity.

ERIC DE LAMARTER CONDUCTS BRILLIANT SYMPHONY CONCERT

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Eric DeLamarter took the baton of the Chicago Symphony orchestra yesterday in the absence of Frederick Stock, now on a midseason vacation, and put across a performance comparing favorably with the best ones of his chief. It was firm and authoritative; it was also brilliant.

One of the most interesting items of the program was Mr. DeLamarter's own concerto for organ in which the solo part was played by that eminent specialist of the console, Palmer Christian, once of Chicago, now of the University of Michigan. It is, as it was when first introduced, a first rank work for the combination of organ and orchestra, first rank in its two capacities of concert piece and music. The organ keeps well within its organic functions, yet is developed to an almost unheard of degree of flexibility and colorful shading. It is an admirable work, and it received an admirable performance.

The symphony was Bloch's "Israel," revived after a single hearing five years ago. It is the sort of work that one greatly respects without liking very much.

Delegates of the Civic Music associations were entertained at the opera last night in an extra, or gala, performance of the Chicago Civic Opera company, the program consisting of four scenes from the company's repertoire.

The evening led off with the first act of "Pagliacci," sung by Hilda Burke, Charles Marshall, Cesare Formichi, Giuseppe Cavadore, and Desiré Defrere, with Frank St. Leger conducting. This was followed by the scene of the sextet in "Lucia di Lammermoor," in which Margherita Salvi, Alice d'Hermanoy, Antonio Cortis, Theodore Ritch, Richard Bonelli, and Virgilio Lazzari were the six, and Mr. St. Leger again the conductor. It was Miss Salvi's first appearance of the season, probably the shortest first appearance for a principal singer of which there is any record.

The second act of "L'Amore dei Tre Re" was next, with Claudia Muzio, a great Fiora, Rene Maison, Mr. Formichi, and Mr. Lazzari as the singing participants, and Roberto Moranzoni the conductor. As a final number, the last scene of "Die Meistersinger" was presented by Maria Rajdl, Sonia Sharnova, Theodore Strack, Oscar Colcaire, Rudolph Bockelmann, and Alexander Kipnis; Egon Pollak conducting.

On short notice after her New Year's eve appearance Isa Kremer, who specializes in the ballads and folk songs of all nations, is returning to the Blackstone theater tomorrow afternoon with one of her typical programs.

Woman Calls Men Better as Music Judges

Nearly a thousand delegates to the annual conference of Civic Music associations, the majority of them women, yesterday heard the opinions of Miss Dema E. Harshbarger, national president. She said right out in meeting that men, for all their business-like exterior, are better judges of good music than are women.

"In the first place, men are more honest," Miss Harshbarger declared at the Palmer house. "I don't mean with money. [Heaven knows we women have little enough of that]. I mean they're the kind that don't spend a lot of time talking over whether a woman singer sang with head tones or chest tones."

With that Miss Harshbarger invited delegates of the music associations to tell how they had been successful in getting men interested in civic music. Chief among the testimonals was that of O. O. Young.

He is superintendent of schools at Galesburg, Ill., and he told the men's side of providing the cultural advantages of music.

"Men get the notions it's nothing but dress and a list of patrons and patronesses. You women like to tell us men," Mr. Young accused, "that we're not supposed to enjoy music, and we like to let you believe it. But men are getting honest enough to admit enjoying it. If music sends me out with a better attitude toward life that's enough for me."

Miss Harshbarger then introduced Dr. Louis Anspacher, lecturer of Columbia university, who, she promised, would get the delegates mentally attune with the evening concert last night presented by the Chicago Civic opera.

The musician who appeals to the head and not to the heart, in Dr. Anspacher's opinion, is a "highbrow" and should be avoided "like the plague."

"Great music never was highbrow music," Dr. Anspacher declared. "Music is closely allied with mathematics in the subconscious mind of the creative musician. It is not strange that Einstein is an amazing musician, or that Bertrand Russell, a great mathematician, cares for music."

Mr. Anspacher told of seeing a preview of a moving picture of the actress Nazimova in Oscar Wilde's "Salome," unaccompanied by music.

"It was grotesque, absurd, insane," he said, "but when music was added it was made a beautiful thing. Music in the movies accomplishes miracles. By appealing to the subconscious, it releases emotions and memory and association."

How Hoovers Solve the Problem of Holiday Cards

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—(AP)—It's a presidential custom—but it might solve the problem of many still struggling with unanswered piles of greetings. From the White House, in response to Christmas and New Year felicitations, came greetings, engraved on a card bearing the White House crest and the date, "1930-1931":

"The President and Mrs. Hoover cordially reciprocate your holiday greetings."

The President sends no Christmas cards.

Children Have a Way of Sizing Up Their Elders

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A Mothers' and Fathers' Litany for the New Year, signed by Mrs. Bevans will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"Come on in, Hank. Kept in again?"

"Yeah. Smitty makes me sick, keeping us in all the time. How do you like Miss Jones?"

"O, she's swell, Hank. All the kids like her."

"What the heck are you doing, Red?"

"I'm doing my home work."

"Home work! That's a crazy kind of home work for a guy in 7-B—cutting papers."

"Aw, go sit on a tack. D'you know what it's for? To make paper mashay [papier maché, he meant] to use in modeling ancient masks for our play."

"Come on and play ball—and tell your teacher she's a fathead."

[Whistle of derision from young paper cutter.]

"Yeah, you tell her. Just try it yourself. She'd wrap a lamp post round your neck."

"Huh!"

"Huh! Just because she don't yell at you and blab at you you think she's soft. She knows how to manage kids—and she could manage that bunch of hoodlums in your room, too, I'll tell you. Smitty doesn't know how to manage 'em. She lets 'em upset the class and you can't enjoy anything or read in peace and then when they've gone too far she punishes 'em and talks for about an hour. We can do most anything we want to in school in our class if it's sensible. School's neat this year and you feel as if you're getting somewhere."

This is only one of many conversations I've overheard on the subject of teachers, discipline, and school work. You've probably overheard them, too.

Who says children prefer license to liberty? Who says they prefer the chaos and discord that go with wildness to the order and harmony of work and intelligently used freedom?

Children are shrewd at sizing up people and situations.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Affections Shifted.

"Dear Miss Blake: The fellow I loved formerly went with my best girl friend. She blames me for going with him. Am I in the wrong?

"SEVENTEEN."

There's no reason to criticize you for accepting his attentions. Apparently she failed to hold his interest.

He Feels Hurt.

"Dear Miss Blake: My friend went out with a fellow for the first time. Later she thanked him for a pleasant evening. Now he's hurt because she didn't ask him to call again. Is he right? H. S."

It would have been the gracious thing to extend such an invitation.

Food Talk.

From the roots of a tropical plant called manios or cassava there is extracted a substance known as cassava starch or flour or "Brazilian arrowroot." This starch is used in the textile industry for sizing, for glazing twine and for laundry starch, but its chief interest to the average person is as a product from which tapioca is made.

Tapioca is a valuable farinaceous food. It is used extensively in the preparation of desserts and to thicken soups. Its value to the diet lies in the easily assimilable, simple carbohydrate it furnishes. It makes a nutritious dessert for both children and invalids.

The tapioca is made by heating the cassava starch. Under heat the starch grains burst and are converted into small irregular masses. This product, after thorough baking to remove all the remaining moisture, is what we know as flake tapioca. The pellet like form of pearl tapioca is obtained by forcing the moist starch grains through sieves of various sizes. On the market there are also several sizes of granulated tapioca. This is made by grinding the flake tapioca. The powdered form is also obtainable.

For home cooking, pearl and granulated tapioca are the types used. Their main difference lies in the length of time required for preparation. Granulated tapioca, as its name implies, may be cooked in a few minutes while the pearl must be soaked several hours before it is ready to cook. Less granulated tapioca than pearl is required in a recipe. When following a recipe be certain of what the exact proportions are for the type of tapioca you are using.

Plain tapioca creams are both delicious and wholesome. Pearl tapioca should be soaked and drained and granulated tapioca added to scalded milk. This is cooked in the top of a double boiler until the tapioca becomes translucent. During this time it will increase considerably in size. Sugar and beaten egg yolks are then added and the mixture cooked until it thickens. Last, stiffly beaten egg whites are folded in. Vanilla or any other desired flavoring may be used.

Chill the tapioca before serving. Brown sugar instead of white is often enjoyed. Oranges or pineapple and marshallow folded in make a pleasing addition. Apples, pears or peaches may be combined with tapioca boiled in water or a combination of water and fruit sirup, sprinkled with sugar and then baked until the fruit is soft and the pudding firm.

Pearl tapioca cooked in soup will thicken it and at the same time furnish a garnish.

Pineapple tapioca cream is well liked by almost every one. For it we need 2 cups milk, 3 tablespoons granulated tapioca, 2 eggs, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup sugar, 1-3 cup water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ cup small cubes of canned sliced pineapple, 10 marshmallows cut in small pieces. Scald the milk, add the tapioca and cook until tapioca is translucent. Remove from the fire, add the yolks of the eggs beaten slightly and the salt. Set aside to cool.

Cook the sugar and water until it threads. Pour sirup gradually, while stirring constantly on to the whites of the eggs which have been beaten stiff. Add the lemon juice. Add the pineapple to the tapioca mixture and then fold in half the meringue. To the other half add the marshmallow cubes and spread over the tapioca mixture. Chill.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

And He Had a Wooden Leg.

A young lady, visiting me one evening, said that a young man would call later to escort her home. At that time we had a little dog which was rather vicious and always raised quite a disturbance when strangers called.

Later in the evening the young man called, and the dog made the usual fuss. In order to reassure the man and at the same time make a smart remark, I said, "Don't be afraid. He won't bite you and if he does he'll choose your wooden leg so you won't feel it."

Imagine my embarrassment when a few minutes later, the young lady informed me that the young man had had the misfortune to lose a leg and was at that time wearing an artificial limb. E. E. B.

"William" Loses Cash First, Then His Illusions

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The unemployment situation brings out hitherto unsuspected phases of human character, as "William" would have the world know. "William" lost his job, months and months ago. And he lost his girl soon after. On the brief spurts of employment he has managed to wrest since, he can't take the girl around as he used to. And she is as cool as a subway platform on a raw January day, he tells. There was a relapse to good nature, awhile ago, when William thought he had a "swell job cinched," but the job did not materialize and William was out of funds, as before.

That some girls do not stand up well under adversity is attested by several other young men in the last week or two. It is a tribute to womankind that men are so tragically hurt when the best girl fails them for monetary reasons. It's too bad to have the ideal of woman's loyalty so brutally destroyed, for the period of depression is bound to run its course and the Williams of temporary unemployment will be running along at top speed soon [let us hope], but they will not be quite the same trusting Williams ever again.

However, you can't judge any body of people by the isolated cases. Women the country over are doing pretty well by their sex in their current exhibition of good cheer in the face of pretty distressing money conditions. We've heard no end of stories and enough first hand observation to prove that trouble is more apt to bring out fine qualities than cowardly ones.

Paris Wears the Fitted Suit with Dressy Blouse

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Fitted jackets are going right on being chic next spring. Patou is making a number of short peplum effects. Bruyere is making jackets that are straight and slender to below the hips and then gently flare. Lelong's new coats are subtly fitted under the arms, and while they do not actually flare they give a slender line to the figure.

Fitted jackets are a feature of Worth's new styles, and they are becoming to women with waistlines, being a little more dashing and more dressy than straight coats.

The Worth afternoon suit, sketched above, owes much of its chic to the flare of its skirt and jacket. It is in black velvet. The jacket is collarless and buttons in front with two jet buttons, one at the neck and one at the waist. The skirt is plain circular except for the pointed topped panel set in the front. The sleeves are prettily puffed below the elbow.

The sleeveless décolleté blouse shown on the small figure heightens the dressy effect of this costume, which may be suitably worn to cocktail parties, restaurant dinners, and even the theater. It is in ivory satin which, by the way, will replace pure white for spring, with a yoke of shining, ivory tinted crystal beads embroidered in an Irish lace pattern. It is worn just covering the top of the skirt and the little ivory satin tie belt is a pretty Worth feature.

An ermine tippet and beter give the final finishing touch to this smart outfit.

Bright Sayings of the Children

"I have three grandmothers," said little Evelyn White to her mother.

"How do you make that out?" asked Mrs. White.

"Grandmother Leach, Grandmother White, and you certainly are a grand mother," replied Evelyn. M. B. R.

It was Martha's first day at school. When she came home her mother asked her what she had learned that day.

She replied: "O, nothing. The teacher wrote on the blackboard, 'A dog can run,' and I already knew that." S. B. H.

Now! a Lip Rouge That Lasts All Day!

A French Discovery that Takes the Bother Out of Make-up. No Caking, No Drying, No Unsightly "Lipstick Line" —You Make up But Twice a Day Instead of Every Hour!

AWAY has been found that not only gives a perfect lip make-up quicker and easier than any way known before, but that HOLDS perfectly all day long. Instead of making-up every hour, you make up only once or twice a day!

It's a French idea, of course. And in both France and America it is rapidly changing present ways of make-up.

The creation of Louis Philippe, temperamental colourist, whom all of Paris follows in the art of make-up, it banishes all smearing, all caking and drying and ends completely the unsightly "lipstick line" most women complain of a few minutes after making up.

WHAT IT IS

It is called Angelus Rouge Incarnat and comes as probably the nearest thing to a permanent make-up yet discovered. It is different from any American rouge you have ever seen, though its form is the same.

You can use it, too, on BOTH LIPS AND CHEEKS. And thus gain a color harmony that's amazing in contrast to using separate lipstick and rouge—both, invariably, of different color.

Thus you gain the PERFECT Parisian make-up of today. And—it lasts for hours.

No more annoyance of constant making up. No uneven make-up. No caking, no smearing—and so exquisitely smooth that you cannot even feel it.

COMES IN TWO FORMS

All department and drug stores have it now under the name of Angelus Rouge Incarnat in two forms: Ordinary lipstick form, and in the charming "Little Red Box." Most women prefer the box. 9 different colors. Same price as American rouges.

Angelus

Rouge Incarnat

Louis Philippe, Inc.

Louis Philippe, temperamental French colourist, who has made make-up an art and about whom all Paris is talking.

You make up once a day instead of every hour with the same Angelus shade for both lips and cheeks, and achieve the new natural effect that is so smart.

STADIUM BATTLES GARDEN FOR TITLE BOUT

SETUP UPSETS ENGLISHMAN OF 200 KNOCKOUTS

Vince Dundee Beats Harvey at Garden.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 9.—A long, pallid English prize fighter, with a nose like a fig and a bewildered gape to his mouth, came into the Garden ring this evening claiming to have knocked out nine 200 chaps back home and was tried by a common American journeyman, little more than a nobody.

The English boxer was Len Harvey, who holds the British middleweight championship and the Lonsdale belt, and the American was Vincent Dundee, an Italian from Baltimore, the younger brother of that now misshapen and unfortunate hulk, Joe Dundee, who once held the welterweight championship. Vince Dundee had been chosen as one who would fight just well enough to emphasize the gifts of Len Harvey without subjecting him to any embarrassment in a campaign for the middleweight championship.

Harvey Shows His Muscle.

Harvey stripped tall and slim with exaggerated layers of trained muscle visibly working beneath his shoulders and along his middle under a hot-house complexion so white that he seemed to have dusted himself with that pipe clay face powder some of the ringsides affect nowadays. Dundee was short and swarthy and he had a small jiggling roll of meat hanging over the rim of his tights.

They fought 12 rounds, and the bout went the way of the memorable football game between Harvard and Centre college. The setup upset everything, though he went to the floor twice in the first round and climbed up a mountain each time he arose.

Harvey set out to belt Dundee down with no loss of time or motion. He landed two lefts to the head, pumped several jabs to Dundee's nose bringing a rosy blush, and presently ripped in a left hook square on the chin, which set Dundee on his pants, all unfixed.

Gets Up to Go Down.

The referee hollered "nine" before he got up and he grabbed a neck hold which only brought him in range for a series of painful left smashes in the body. Harvey's red mitt smacked home nine of four times on Dundee's tremendous center, and he sagged to the floor again, self-possessed this time and able to shift about on one knee in an as to face the English youth. There he took a count of 8 and again came up to go down no more in a dozen rounds of uphill fighting.

Harvey lost his authority in the third round, as Dundee came on, and though the score was close at the end a dollar is more than 98 cents, as Dundee won. Harvey's 200 knockouts on his home grounds, therefore, were less a boast for himself than a reproach to the quality of English prize fighters. Dundee improved his bank roll and his rank among American middleweights, but as American middleweights generally run he is only rated as a troublesome fighter with more heart than grace.

Mr. Harvey Is Depressed.

Harvey seemed depressed after Dundee got up twice. After the third round he seldom led, but waited for Dundee to jump on him with unconventional swipes which bruised his prominent nose and cut his lips. He did not know the tricks of infighting, a familiar failing of the English boxer, who still stands like an old sporting gentleman, and was much confused by the rapid play of gloves upon his countenance when, by all his training, the other chap should have been holding off.

It was an entertaining prize fight and 14,000 customers put in the evening at the Garden at a cost of $29,000.

Harvey, though he was inches taller than Dundee, was 5 pounds lighter, 158 pounds to 159 for Dundee.

Shade Stops Joe Anderson.

In the semi-final between Dave Shade and Joe Anderson of Kentucky, Shade, after eight rounds of loose hitting, knocked Anderson flat for a count of eight with a right swing to the head in round nine. Shade finished him off in the tenth when Jack O'Sullivan, the referee, stopped the fight with Anderson lurching loose and weak along the ropes.

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER.

WESLEY E. FESLER of Ohio State university will be presented tonight with THE TRIBUNE'S seventh annual trophy—a sterling silver football, actual size—for the Big Ten player of greatest value to his team during the season of 1930. The presentation will be made between halves of the Ohio State-Wisconsin basketball game at Columbus. Fesler is a guard on the Ohio five and almost as valuable to his quintet as he was to his eleven.

THE TRIBUNE trophy was inaugurated in 1924 with the idea of rewarding, as he could not otherwise be rewarded, the outstanding player of the season from the viewpoint of ability, leadership, self-sacrifice to the team and sportsmanship. It never was intended to signify the "best" player necessarily, but rather the most useful player. For that reason it is now considered the greatest honor of the Big Ten year for an individual.

Until the selection of Fesler this fall, Ohio State never had been represented by a trophy winner. To Fesler, however, goes the distinction of having secured the award from the board of 23 judges by the widest margin in the trophy's history. He was the first choice of 17 judges and second choice of three others.

Fesler is characterized by Buckeye supporters as the greatest natural athlete ever to enter Ohio State. He has been All-American end for three seasons, although his original high school position was center. He played every minute of every game in his sophomore and junior years and was taken out for injury only once this last fall, in the contest against Wisconsin.

What in part, no doubt, earned Fesler his trophy honors was that this fall Ohio's offense was not functioning. Therefore Fesler was called to full back on offense. There he acted as team captain, called the signals, did the punting, and tossed the forward passes. Ohio State was a winner thereafter.

Aside from being a capable and steady basketball guard, Fesler has twice won a cup for making and driving in the most runs on the baseball team where he plays in the outfield or at first base if required. He could have earned letters in track as a sprinter or in tennis, but did not elect to try for those teams.

This remarkable athlete is also a good student, member of the honorary scholastic fraternity of the commerce school. He was president of his class as a junior, but declined the honor this season. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. Because of his transfer from engineering to commerce he will spend another year at Ohio State, but will have ended his three year period of athletic eligibility. Fesler weighs about 175 pounds and is just short of 6 feet in height.

HOW THAT FIRST SILVER SKATES RACE HAS GROWN!

From One Derby in 1917 to Seven in 1931.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Fifteen years ago Art Staff won the first TRIBUNE Silver Skates Derby. It's a long journey from Jan. 28, 1917 when 128 young men skated the two mile course at Humboldt park, to Jan. 25, 1931. When Staff won the first pair of silver skates, that was the only event. This year the annual tournament will include seven divisions.

From the first race, when 30,000 watched Staff race to victory, the event has held popular interest. Entries, on at least one occasion, passed the 4,000 mark. Last year 3,300 competed.

Association Members Eligible.

From the beginning the Western Skating association coöperated and now that the Western and the Illinois Skating association have consolidated under the name of the Illinois Western Skating association, the members of each are eligible to compete.

Heretofore, the entries have come largely from Chicago and the immediate vicinity. This year it is anticipated that many cities will send teams to THE TRIBUNE derbies. Letters have been received from Toronto, Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Madison, Wausau, Milwaukee, Kenosha, Springfield, and Peoria, indicating that these cities will be represented. All are affiliated with the A. A. U.

Senior Division Popular.

The majority of these out of town contestants will compete in the men's senior and girls' senior derbies. The bulk of the entries for the other five races will continue to come from Chicago's clubs, playgrounds, and parks.

The Pepplers Athletic club yesterday entered 12 of its members in the races Jan. 24 and 25. Joe Stepp filed the list with the officials. Frank Razek reported that five members of the Villa Park Aces will seek the prize in the boys' intermediate division.

Among the many individual entries was that of John V. Clinnin, 11 year old nephew of Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois Athletic commission. He will compete in the boys' midget division. For many years Gen. Clinnin has been the referee of the Silver Skates Derbies. He will act in that capacity again this year.

Schoolboys Skate Today.

Two hundred and fifty-six boys will skate today in the finals of the board of education playground meet at Garfield park. The first event starts at 2 o'clock. These boys qualified in eight sectional meets from an original entry list of 2,294.

The board of education meet, organized by Herman Fischer, director of the bureau of recreation, is second only to THE TRIBUNE'S Silver Skates Derbies in number of contestants.

The municipal playgrounds, under the direction of Walter Wright, will hold their sectional skating meets this afternoon at four centers. Each section comprises eight playgrounds. The finals will be held Jan. 17.

NEW SOX OUTFIELDER

Dempsey Shows Wrestler He Still Carries a Wallop

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Almost 10,000 sport fans tonight had visual proof Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, although out of the ring more than three years, has retained his punch.

Jack, making his first official appearance in Dallas as referee of a wrestling match between Billy Edwards, Kansas City, Mo., and Jim O'Dowd, Chicago, resented being hit in the jaw by Edwards and retaliated with a sharp right hand wallop to the chin that sent Edwards for a double flip.

Edwards had refused to break a headlock he had clamped on O'Dowd, scissors artist, after being patted in token of victory in the third and deciding fall. Dempsey snatched him off his opponent and Edwards took a swing that grazed Jack's right cheek.

In a flash Dempsey stepped in with a left lead and, snapped a short right to Billy's chin, lifting him off the floor and sending him head first to the canvas while the crowd roared its approval.

CARIDEO ACCEPTS TERMS TO BECOME COACH AT PURDUE

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Frank Carideo, Notre Dame quarter back, will join the Purdue football coaching staff next fall on an all year basis. This was announced today by Director of Athletics N. A. Kellogg. Official announcement that Carideo had signed as an assistant on the Boilermaker staff followed a long distance telephone conversation between Carideo and Noble Kizer, Purdue head coach.

Carideo will become the third Notre Dame man on the Boilermaker coaching staff, for Noble Kizer and Mal Elward, assistant coach, are former Irish stars.

While his contract duties do not begin until next fall, Carideo plans to spend his spring vacation here working with the Purdue squad to become familiar with the situation and the players.

"Carideo's all around ability will make him an invaluable addition to our coaching staff," Kizer said. "I consider him to be one of the greatest all around players in years and Purdue is fortunate to secure his services."

Campbell's Not Frugal When It Comes to Hits

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

There need be no doubt about the Scotch ancestry of Bruce Douglas Campbell. His name is the answer. As for his baseball ability, that's something else again and still must be proven. But the White Sox have already given him one year of tutoring and are prepared to give him one or two more with the hope that at some future date he will hoist himself into stardom in his own home town.

Campbell slipped into a big league uniform when nobody was looking. At least the experts who follow the Sox through thick or thin were looking the other way when the young man walked through the gate for his first rehearsal. That was early last spring and the baseball season had almost run its course before he was discovered going through the routine of a possible future great.

Puzzles Press Coop.

One day late in the campaign it was announced during a game at Comiskey park that Campbell was batting for some gent whose identity now is of no importance.

"Where did that bird come from?" was what all the hands in the press coop asked. Investigation revealed that he had been around all the time, barring an excursion on a ten day ticket into the Three Eye league territory.

Between the time of his arrival and the discovery of him as a fit subject for mention in the prints Campbell had been undergoing some intensive training under Manager Bush. Having done nothing more than play high school ball at La Grange and later with the Fernwood semi-pros the kid had much to learn. But he learned swiftly and by the end of the season not only had improved greatly as an outfielder but had made a big impression on Bush as a possible hitter.

May Be Farmed Out.

Because of the presence of a number of other outfielding rookies who are further along in their development Campbell probably will be farmed out for the coming year. He's only 21, so he doesn't have to worry about being pressed for time.

During his brief visit to the Three Eye league last year he thumped the ball to a .369 tune in eleven games. He was in five games with the Sox and exploded five hits in ten attempts. He throws right handed but bats the other way.

MICHIGAN FIVE INVADES N. U. FLOOR TONIGHT

Game Tops 5 Conference Court Battles.

Games Tonight

Minnesota at Iowa.
Chicago at Indiana.
Illinois at Purdue.
Michigan at Northwestern.
Wisconsin at Ohio State.

Northwestern university's basketball team, which breezed through its practice schedule with five consecutive victories, opens the Big Ten season at Patten gym tonight against Michigan, touted as one of the strongest fives of the conference.

A capacity crowd is expected to witness the game. The last contest between the two teams was played two years ago when the Wildcats won, 28 to 27, on a field goal by Rus Bergherm in the last 15 seconds of play. It is remembered as the hardest and most brilliantly fought game ever played at Patten gym.

Wolverines Also Unbeaten.

The Wolverines, like Northwestern, have been undefeated this year, which is the more surprising, since they started the season with a first string lineup of three sophomores and two juniors. Each of the new men, Eveland, Altenhof and Williamson, has fitted into Coach George Veenker's system perfectly. They have transformed the Wolverines from an ordinary outfit into a strong challenger for the title.

Michigan will concede considerable height advantage to the Wildcats, but will endeavor to make up this handicap in speed, a factor which has been a dominant note in its successes. All of the players are stocky and strong.

Interest in Coach Veenker's team will be focused on Raymond Altenhof, the sophomore guard from Gary, who contributed in a large measure to the victory over Purdue. He not only stopped Wooden successfully, but also scored four field goals.

N. U. Lineup Same.

Coach Dutch Lonborg will stand pat on the lineup which he has used in the last three games. This includes Riel and Reiff, forwards; McCarnes, center, and Marshall and Smith, guards. The latter is subbing for Bob Lockhart, star guard, who is out with an injured knee.

This combination has played brilliant ball at times this year, but has also performed in a jackadaisical manner. If Coach Lonborg can keep his men clicking they should be strong enough for the inexperienced Wolverines.

DRILL FOR MAROONS

Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—The undefeated Indiana university five went through a goal shooting practice this afternoon as a final preparation for its opening western conference game here tomorrow night with Chicago.

Although the Hoosiers have been successful in one of the hardest preconference schedules in years in which De Pauw, Washington of St. Louis, Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh were defeated, Coach Everett Dean is expecting the game with the Maroons to be the toughest this season.

Big Munn, Former Mat Champ and Gridiron Star, Dies

WAYNE MUNN.

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Wayne H. [Big] Munn, the wrestler who crashed his way to a brief reign in 1925 as claimant of the world's heavyweight mat title, died here today.

Bright's disease ended the career of the 35 year old former University of Nebraska athlete. Six years ago in Convention hall at Kansas City Munn tossed Ed [Strangler] Lewis out of the ring, won the match before 15,000 spectators, and was acclaimed the leading heavyweight grappler of the world.

It was Jan. 3, 1925, when Munn dethroned Lewis, then generally rated champion. On April 15 Munn lost to Stanislaus Zbyszko in Philadelphia and never again reached the top.

Munn, commissioned a lieutenant while serving in the world war, died at the Fort Sam Houston base hospital. He came here a year ago for treatment, became seriously ill about ten days ago, and for several days before his death physicians despaired of saving his life. He had engaged in the oil business in recent years.

Before and after his rise to wrestling heights Munn tried boxing, without success.

Munn was born in Colby, a western Kansas town, Feb. 18, 1895, but moved with his parents to Nebraska when about 3 years old. He attended the University of Nebraska and in 1917 won letters in football, wrestling, and track. Previous to entering the university, after graduation from Fairbury [Neb.] High school, Munn taught school.

Munn was one of four athletic brothers, all of whom attended Nebraska university. Wayne was the first to battle for the Cornhuskers. Then came Wade, Monte, and Glenn.

Surviving Munn are his widow and a daughter, Mary Ann, 5 years old.

The funeral will be conducted by Dr. Ilion T. Jones, pastor of the Madison Square Presbyterian church, here tomorrow at 4 p. m. The body will be accompanied to Fairbury, Neb., by Mrs. Munn, who is here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Philp.

Injuries Hit Both Chicago Hockey Teams

Chicago's hockey representatives, the Blackhawks and Shamrocks, were reduced to a minimum of strength yesterday by injuries. Both face important games tomorrow night.

The Hawks, scheduled against the Rangers in New York, were deprived of their chief scorer, Johnny Gottselig, when physicians announced injuries he sustained at Philadelphia Thursday night were too serious to permit his playing for a week.

Three Hawks Out.

This placed three of the Hawks' most valuable men on the hospital list. Art Sommers, whose leg was injured against Detroit in the Stadium on Dec. 7, will not be able to play for another fortnight. Taffy Abel, hurt on the present road trip, has been under the care of the club physician, Dr. L. K. Eastman, here for the last three days and will not be able to return to the ice before the Boston Bruins game here next Thursday.

The Shamrock contingent was reduced to eleven men yesterday when an x-ray showed Corbett Dennenay had been playing the last five games with a fractured toe. Earlier Bouncer Taylor had been taken to the West Suburban hospital to undergo special treatment for a fractured leg, which for a week was believed to have been nothing more than a sprained ankle.

Taylor and Dennenay Lost.

Taylor and Dennenay are two of the Shamrocks' most valuable performers. Dennenay's place will be taken by Jack Riley, newly acquired center, when the Green tackle the Buffalo Americans at the Stadium tomorrow night. Riley was obtained in a trade with Minneapolis and will report to Coach Tom Shaunessey today.

CHICAGO GROUP PLANS TO REPEL N. Y. INVASION

Still Hopes to Land Big Match.

BY ARCH WARD.

Sidney Strotz, president of Chicago Stadium corporation, returned yesterday from New York ready to declare war on Madison Square Garden.

While Stadium officials have not abandoned hope of promoting a world's heavyweight championship fight at Soldiers' field between Max Schmeling and Young Stribling, Strotz last night admitted the prospect of success was far from bright.

Madison Square Garden, in coöperation with the New York Milk Fund, is arranging to invade Chicago Stadium's territory to put on the fight, according to Strotz. There is a working agreement between the two New York organizations, and Strotz concedes they have the inside track to the big match.

Can Block New Yorkers.

"I have been advised that we can block the promotion of the match in Chicago by New Yorkers," he said, "and we shall spare no expense nor effort to do it.

"The Garden coming into Chicago to promote this fight would be like the Stadium going to New York. Naturally there would be friction, and persons interested in keeping business in Chicago would not be inclined to help outsiders.

"The stadium represents an investment of $7,000,000. We pay 90 per cent of the taxes Illinois collects from boxing, and we certainly are not going to remain inactive if the New York Garden attempts to invade our territory.

"Both Stribling and Schmeling are willing to fight for us. We hold a contract with Stribling binding him to make his first 1931 appearance under our direction.

Verbal Agreement Is Drawback.

"The stumbling block is a verbal agreement between Schmeling and the New York Milk Fund. It was under the auspices of the New York charity that the German won the championship from Jack Sharkey on a foul last summer. After the bout, he promised the Milk Fund promoter that he would first defend his title for the Milk Fund.

"We are willing to buy out the Milk Fund's interest in Schmeling or share in the promotion of a title fight. But the New Yorkers prefer to go along with the Garden. The reasons are obvious.

"The Garden made a rich haul in its last invasion of Chicago [the second Tunney-Dempsey bout], but conditions now are changed. There was no stadium in the field then. I don't think Chicago will sit back and let the biggest prize in pugilism, a heavyweight title fight, be staged here under New York auspices.

Sees South Park Aid.

"There is the matter of an arena to be considered. I doubt whether the south park board would be willing to rent Soldiers' field to New York interests while a Chicago organization was bidding for the match," Strotz concluded.

The Illinois boxing code provides that a promoter must be a resident of Illinois and a taxpaying citizen for at least three years. The same regulations prevail in the case of a corporation. This technicality was circumvented in 1927 when Tunney whipped Dempsey at Soldiers' field under the Garden's auspices by having George Getz of Chicago serve as promoter.

It is reported that the Garden plans to incorporate in Illinois and establish a Chicago board made up of citizens of this state.

READY TO SIGN

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The New York Times says Pa Stribling is ready to sign contracts for his son, W. L., to fight Max Schmeling for the Milk Fund, and that under no conditions will he consider a match in New York with Jack Sharkey.

The Times quotes the elder Stribling as saying, "I will not even consider a match between my boy and Jack Sharkey in New York. My boy's ambition is to win the world's heavyweight title, or at least boast the distinction of having fought for the crown.

"Schmeling is the champion because you can't legislate a title away from any man, and, as between fighting Sharkey in a bout which New York would recognize as a championship and fighting Schmeling, who is the champion, I have only one choice. He'll be signed to fight Schmeling just as soon as details can be arranged."

SHANGHAI CLOSES DOG RACES; CRIME WAVE IS REASON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 9.—The municipal council of the international settlement in Shanghai ruled today that the local British greyhound tracks must close next March. These gambling grounds are considered to be a public nuisance and are held responsible for demoralizing the Chinese and are accountable for the crime wave.

The action of the municipal council affects two tracks which opened here in 1927, both of which have been profitable, due to the Chinese penchant for gambling.

PREP QUINTETS BEGIN PLAY IN CATHOLIC LOOP

St. Ignatius Wins Two Games from Leo.

Opening of play in the Catholic league featured yesterday's action among Chicago's high school basketball teams. Meanwhile the City league and suburban quintets continued their schedules.

St. Ignatius began its campaign in the parochial circuit with a double victory over Leo on the home floor, the heavies winning, 28 to 18, and the lights, 32 to 22. Liska contributed 14 points for the heavies and Lang 16 for the lights.

Loyola and St. Patrick divided a double header, Hayes leading the former's heavies to a 13 to 10 decision, while Looney featured in the Loyola lights' 21 to 11 victory. Weber heavies took a 12 to 9 game from St. Michael, while their lights lost an overtime battle, 19 to 16. St. Mel handed De Paul a double defeat on the former's floor, the heavies winning, 31 to 22, while Crowley's basket in the last five seconds brought the lights a 23 to 21 win. Rigner featured for the heavies with 15 points.

St. George, St. Philip Split.

St. George and St. Philip split a pair of openers on the west siders' floor, the home heavies winning, 36 to 18, while the invading lights defeated St. Philip in an overtime, 19 to 15.

In the City league Lane Tech scored a twin victory over Schurz, the heavies by a 28 to 12 score, and the lights by 23 to 7. Reckzeh, Powell, Novak and V. Danakas starred for the winners. Werner's basket and Kowalski's free throw brought Lake View heavies a 23 to 22 decision over Roosevelt, but the latter's lights evened it by trimming Lake View, 23 to 12.

Englewood and Tuley also scored double wins yesterday, Englewood defeating Hyde Park, 24 to 21 and 28 to 17. Tuley had more difficulty with Austin, the heavies taking a 19 to 17 game, while the lights won on Jack Salzman's basket, 15 to 14. Senn and Waller divided a pair, the former's lights winning, 24 to 18, while the Waller heavies won, 24 to 18.

Oak Park Rallies to Win.

Oak Park heavyweights, after lagging, 19 to 3, at the third quarter, rallied to whip Morton on the latter's floor, 23 to 21. Holmquist counted four successive baskets in the last period, including the winning one. Morton lights whipped the Villagers, 30 to 16.

Klunder led the New Trier heavyweights to a 33 to 13 triumph over Deerfield, while Emery starred for the Deerfield lights in their 25 to 21 victory. Evanston handed Proviso a double defeat, the heavies winning, 27 to 15, and the lights, 27 to 14.

Thornton and Bloom split a pair of South Suburban games, the former's heavies taking a 13 to 11 game, while Bloom's lights won, 17 to 9. University High lights invaded Calumet City for a 19 to 14 victory, but the home heavies evened the program by winning, 17 to 14. Glenbard and Maine divided a double header on the former's floor, the home heavies losing, 24 to 14, while the lights won, 24 to 14.

De La Salle Loses, 23 to 10.

Mount Carmel turned back De La Salle's national championship team, 23 to 10, on the Mount Carmel court, while the De La Salle lights took a 17 to 15 decision.

LONDOS TO GIVE AWAY 25 POUNDS IN BOUT MONDAY

Jim Londos, claimant to the heavyweight wrestling championship, will spot 25 pounds to Matros Kirilenko, his rival in the windup of Doc Krone's mat show at the 202d Coast Artillery armory, Broadway and Thorndale, Monday evening.

Kirilenko is a Russian who weighs in at 225 pounds. He met Londos once before, but was forced to default after the first fall because of an injured shoulder.

Eight other grapplers will appear on the card. The semi-windup features Hans Steinke, giant German, and Jack Sampson, of Minnesota.

Renato Gardini, who asked for a match with Londos, will have to be content with Charley Fox of Cleveland as far as the Monday night card is concerned.

Champions Clash Today in Ice Derby

The Amphion Athletic club will stage its annual Derby at Humboldt park at 2 p. m. today.

Two champions wearing the green and white colors of the Amphions will be in the spotlight this afternoon. One is Frank Stack, Chicago, winner of the 1930 Gold Skate state championship trophy and champion of western Canada. The other is Ra. Wondra, winner of the Wisconsin-Illinois title at Kenosha last year and runnerup to Stack in the 1930 Illinois Skating association standings. Wondra finished third in the 1929 TRIBUNE Silver Skates Derby.

These stars will be pitted against more than 25 other class A speed merchants, including Wally Mitchell of the Majestic Skating club and Eddie Schroeder of the Walton Arrow A. C., who qualified for the national Olympic tryouts last Sunday; Bill Minster of the Norwegian-American A. A., 1930 TRIBUNE Silver Skate winner; Art Peters of the Northwest S. C., and Eddie Murphy of the Barrett A. C., member of the 1928 Olympic team and 1929 Silver Skates winner.

Walton Arrows Favored.

Stack and Wondra are expected to put their team in the running for the team trophy to be awarded today, which the Walton Arrows, who have won four straight derbies, are favorites to win.

Interest of the fans will again be centered in the meeting of Frank Stack and Eddie Schroeder, whose dead heat race of two weeks ago still is a matter of discussion. Stack is 30 points ahead of Schroeder in the class A standings, but should the ice be soft the latter is picked to defeat him.

The Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company will stage two races for employés as part of the Amphion Derby. A half mile race for men and a quarter mile sprint for girls are the events carded. Two silver cups and silver and bronze medals are prizes offered.

Miss Du Bois Goes to St. Louis.

Elizabeth Du Bois of the Majestic Skating club and Frank Stack will leave for St. Louis tonight to compete in the Southwestern championships at St. Louis tomorrow. Miss Du Bois will meet Faith Schoen of the Norwegian-American A. A. and Helen Bina, Priscilla Richey, and Marie Fierce of the Barrett A. C. in the class A ladies' race today.

The Northwest Skating club will stage its annual Derby tomorrow at Humboldt park at 1 p. m. Olympic tryouts at the 1,500 meter and 10,000 meter distances will be skated at 10 a. m.

Fifty thousand fans are expected to witness the Derbies today and tomorrow.

SLATTERY SIGNS McFARLAND AS SPARRING MATE

Jimmy Slattery signed a new sparring partner yesterday when Mickey McFarland joined his training camp. McFarland, formerly a stablemate of King Levinsky, boxed four rounds with the former light heavyweight champion, after which Slattery wound up his day's training by punching the bag and skipping the rope. Levinsky and Slattery meet in the Chicago Stadium's first show of the 1931 season Wednesday.

Levinsky has been boxing daily with Roy Williams, but yesterday asked that he be sent against a better boxer. Plans are being made to pit him against Gary Leach during the remainder of his training. Leach meets McFarland in one of the preliminary bouts. In his most recent bout Leach knocked out Young Jack Dillon of Indianapolis in three rounds.

Becker Lists Undesirables Among Birds

BY BOB BECKER.

With the hunting seasons for game birds and animals practically closed for the year, state game protectors of New York [still called game wardens here] are setting an example which might well be followed in Illinois and other states. The protectors have turned hunters and their activity has the enthusiastic approval of all song birds and game because the quarry of these state men consists only of those birds and animals which prey upon the more desirable species.

In this "raise a game bird crop on your farm" promotion which sportsmen are hearing about these days, a war against predatory animals and birds such as the New York state boys are conducting has a vital part in the program.

Must Be Careful Battle.

But it must be a carefully supervised battle so that certain hawks and owls which are beneficial do not get killed. There are a number of these mice catchers which are a distinct help to the farmer. On the other hand it doesn't do much good to set aside farms or acres of ground, put up "game refuge" signs and give the game birds and animals no help in their fight against the crows, weasels, great horned owls, bob cats, foxes or other predators.

We were interested in reading over the list of birds and animals which New York state has on the open or unprotected list. That is, the group which is on the books as "undesirables."

Here it is:

Lynx, bobcat, red fox, gray fox, weasel, house cat, predatory cats only when found hunting, porcupine, woodchuck, English sparrow, starling, sharp shinned hawk, Cooper's hawk, goshawk, great horned owl, great grey owl, and snowy owl. None of these is protected in New York state.

Lists Illinois Undesirables.

Here is the unprotected or undesirable list as given in the Illinois game code:

English sparrow, crow, blackbird, bluejay, Cooper's hawk, sharp shinned hawk, goshawk, duck hawk, pigeon hawk, great horned owl and cormorant.

It is interesting to note that the conservation department of New York as well as Illinois recognize that all owls and all hawks are not killers of song birds, quail and other valuable bird life. The screech owl, barn owl and long eared owl represent a trio of hunters that should not be included in a vermin campaign because they are in the beneficial class.

ADMIRAL USHER OF SPANISH WAR FAME IS DEAD

Captured First Prize Ship in 1898.

Potsdam, N. Y., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Rear Admiral Nathaniel Reilly Usher, U. S. N., retired veteran of two wars and for more than a third of a century one of the outstanding figures of the navy, died here today at the age of 75. He had been in ill health for years.

Admiral Usher distinguished himself during the Spanish-American war when as commander of the torpedo boat Ericsson he captured a Spanish sailing schooner, the first war prize of the conflict.

Fourteen years earlier he had served on the expedition headed by Commodore Schley, sent to rescue Adolphus W. Greeley, the arctic explorer. Seven survivors of the party were found by the Schley expedition in June, 1884, on Cape Sabine.

Commanded Fleet Division.

Among the various ships which the admiral had commanded in the course of his long career were the battleship Michigan and the cruiser St. Louis. For a time he was in command of the fourth division of the Atlantic fleet.

Many years of his service were spent on posts ashore. He served as commandant of the Norfolk Navy Yard in Brooklyn, and as a member of the general board of the navy and the bureau of navigation.

During the world war as commandant of the Brooklyn yard he was active in shaping plans that resulted in the successful transportation of thousands of American troops in France. He also played a prominent part in organizing and training the naval reserve corps which manned cargo ships, transports and even ships of the line during the war.

Born in Indiana.

The future admiral was born in Vincennes, Ind., April 7, 1855. At the age of sixteen he was admitted to the United States Naval academy. He was graduated in 1875 and was assigned to the U. S. S. Tennessee, then flagship of the Asiatic fleet.

He was in naval uniform from that time on till the day of his retirement in April, 1919—a total of some 48 years.

AUTO DEATH RATE IN LAKE COUNTY DOUBLE COOK'S

Lake county highways and streets are more perilous than those of Cook county, according to a survey completed last night by Coroner John L. Taylor of Lake county.

In 1930, his figures show, Cook county, with a population of 3,972,000, recorded 1,136 automobile fatalities, or 28.6 for each 100,000. In the same year Lake county, with a population of 103,000, reported 58 deaths for a ratio of 58 per 100,000 population.

"To decrease these deaths, wider roads are necessary," said the coroner. "Wider roads, sunken grade crossings, better signal lights, and other improvements are needed. Cook county is taking the principal safety step—wider highways. So far in 1931 Lake county has had four deaths. At this rate the 1931 record will be larger than those of last year and 1929."

FALL IN SILVER IS PARALYZING CHINESE TRADE

Both Export and Import Business Suffers.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The fall of the value of the Mexican silver dollar in China to the lowest on record has almost paralyzed foreign business and commercial houses face a crisis.

With the silver dollar worth only 22.12 cents in gold, many importers say their customers cannot pay four silver dollars for foreign goods worth one dollar in gold.

Many Chinese buyers refuse to accept contracted goods from importers, saying the declining price of silver made it impossible to sell the articles without heavy losses.

Domestic trade as well as import and export business suffered acutely. Banks, piled high with silver dollars, report transactions near stagnation, no one being willing to risk buying or selling with the fluctuating and depreciating currency. Few buyers possessed enough silver to meet prices exclusively on a gold basis.

Considerable Slump.

Steamship lines reported considerable decreases in cargoes arriving and leaving China. Passenger traffic was much affected. The new tariff effective Jan. 1 added to the difficulty by raising duties, which are payable in gold.

With the settlement of the civil war, which had much to do with the piling of silver surpluses, foreigners in China hope for an international silver loan to China. But the Chinese government declines to express itself concerning Washington reports the United States senate would recommend to President Hoover the inauguration of negotiations with other countries to aid China.

PRICE SINKS LOWER.

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—While banking circles were keenly interested in reports from Washington and Ottawa of discussions of plans to extend an international silver loan to China, the price of the metal continued to sink to still lower levels today.

Bar silver in New York was quoted at 28½ cents an ounce. Off ¼ of a cent since yesterday, making a two day drop of 1½ cents. This extends the decline from 1929 levels to nearly 47 per cent.

Wall street was particularly interested in a report by H. N. Lawrie, Washington economist, urging the federal government to take the initiative in international action to support silver and restore the purchasing power of the far east, which uses that metal for monetary purposes.

Report Due Shortly.

It is understood that Mr. Lawrie's conclusions are generally in accord with the report which the Pitman subcommittee will shortly submit to the senate committee on foreign relations.

It is felt in banking circles that restoration of far eastern purchasing power would go far toward bringing world consumption of such commodities as cotton and wheat into balance with production, and prove an important step in the restoration of world prosperity.

Bankers doubht, however, that a public loan to China could be floated in the investment market at this time, and express the belief that the loan would have to take the form of an international governmental credit.

United States Pipe and Foundry.

Kindly give me your rating on United States Pipe and Foundry, listed on the New York stock exchange—M. E.

United States Pipe and Foundry company is a leading manufacturer of cast iron pipe, its products being used chiefly for water and gas mains.

Although a report for the full year is not yet available it will show that the company earned more money last year than in 1929. This was due to more satisfactory conditions in the marketing of pipe rather than to any great increase in demand for cast iron pipe. Credit conditions more favorable for municipal financing were a decided help in 1930, whereas in 1929 many pipe projects were held back because of the difficulty of financing at the high interest rates then prevailing.

Dow, Jones & Co. estimated in December that net profit for the last six months in 1930 would exceed $1,700,000, bringing the year's results above share, after provision for preferred dividends.

In 1929 net profit was $2,581,230, or $2.74 per common share. In the first half of 1930 net profit was $1,525,932, which was 4.23 times first preferred dividend requirements and was equal to $1.76 per share on the 600,000 common shares [par $20] outstanding, against $826,318 in the first half of 1929.

The position of the common was improved somewhat in July, 1930, when the 180,000 shares of second preferred stock were called.

At the close of 1929 current assets were $20,308,873 and current liabilities were $1,605,674. Surplus was $14,722,717. Common dividends are 50 cents quarterly.

The common is medium grade.

Small Municipal Bond Issue.

We will soon vote on a $25,000 public school bond issue. About how much should a 4¼ per cent bond bring at present bond prices? A 4½ per cent bond? A 5 per cent bond? Bonds maturing 5 years, 10 years, 15 years and 20 years after date of issue.—S.L.

Your inquiry fails to include several important facts which have to be taken into consideration, principally the population, assessed valuation and the total debt of the borrowing municipality.

For a relatively small municipality, with a population of 2,000 people or less and an assessed valuation of not much more than $1,000,000, it might be well to have a coupon rate of 5 per cent and arrange the bonds to mature serially over a period of one to twenty years.

If the bond issue could be arranged so that none of the principal would mature for the first four or five years, the remaining principal to be divided equally into annual installments, it might be possible to sell 5 per cent bonds at par or slightly above.

EARLY CHICAGO STOCK GAINS ARE WIPED OUT

Realizing Results in Lower Prices.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Stock prices sloughed off moderately on the Chicago exchange yesterday as speculative activity on the long side ebbed. The last half hour of trading was ushered in with a wave of realizing which erased earlier gains and resulted in net losses of a fraction or so throughout the list.

The liquidation was induced by a similar movement on the New York market which reached its height in the last few minutes of trading.

The bulk of the 156,000 odd shares which changed hands represented transactions in the issues of the various Insull public utility enterprises. The volume leader, Middle West Utilities, ended up the day with a minor loss. Trailing in turnover, Insull Utility closed the day with a loss of a fraction after selling above 35 early in the session.

Several Finish Higher.

Several miscellaneous shares finished the day with moderate gains. Included in this group were National Family Stores, Fitz Simmons & Connell, North American Car, and Marshall Field. Heretofore the trading in National Family Stores' shares has centered on the New York curb exchange, but efforts are being made to create a market in the stock here. Up until a few days ago the trading in the issue here was negligible. Yesterday's turnover slightly exceeded 2,000 shares.

There has been little market action in Swift & Co. shares since the release of the company's annual statement. The report was generally interpreted as favorable, with earnings slightly in excess of common dividends. The stock now pays $2 yearly, while profit last year was equivalent to $2.08 a share on common.

The net earnings of Noblitt-Sparks Industries for 1930 approximated $560,000 after charges and taxes, which is equivalent to $7 a share on the 80,000 shares outstanding. The estimated earnings for 1930 compare with 1929 profit of $675,700, or $9.01 a share.

Indicated Profit.

In the last three months of the year the company showed an indicated profit of $157,000, or $1.95 a share, as compared with an actual profit of $186,028, or $2.48, in the final quarter of 1929.

The new electric generating plant of the Northern Indiana Public Service company at Michigan City began operation yesterday. The station, which represents an initial investment of approximately $11,600,000, was built to supply electricity to the surrounding territory, which has developed rapidly in recent years.

BULK OF TRADE IN CORN IS LOCAL AS PRICES REACT

Foreign Shorts Buyers of May Wheat.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Some new incentive is regarded as necessary to get the grain markets out of the rut and promote more interest. While little is to be expected of the wheat market under existing conditions, there have been hopes of improvement based on the strong statistical position. However, the latter's prices have reacted rather sharply from recent highs and shows a tendency to quickly pass from an oversold to an overbought condition.

Bulk of the trade in corn yesterday was of a local character, with commission houses sellers early. While there was a sharp rally at one time which carried prices fractionally above the finish of Thursday the close was at the bottom with net losses of ¾@1c, with March 70¼c, May 71⅝@71⅝c, and July 72⅞c.

Feeders After Corn.

Further reports of feeders paying well above a terminal market price for cash corn are being received from Nebraska, with 62c paid in the section of the state where the largest crop was raised. Owing to the decreased movement the basis for cash grain at Omaha advanced ½c relative to the May yesterday. Country offerings to arrive were small, local handlers securing 35,000 bu. The latter, however, was offset as a market influence by the slow eastern demand which took 44,000 bu.

The disparity in price between July corn and July wheat, the former being at a premium of nearly 7c at the last, had some effect on the corn market, as it suggests that a readjustment might occur between the two grains later in the season. There is a feeling in some quarters that the reports of wheat feeding are being overdrawn. In 1894-'95 it was estimated that feeding of wheat to Jan. 1 had been around 45,000,000 bu, while statisticians at the end of the crop year could only account for 30,000,000 bu.

Shorts Buy May Wheat.

Foreign shorts were buyers of old and new May wheat yesterday and, with some removal of hedges, the market acted a little tight with the old style advancing ⅝c to 82½c where it closed, the best figure since Dec. 24. With that exception the price was the highest since Nov. 3. March was ⅜c higher at 81c.

July wheat in Chicago had a range of 1⅛c, touching 65¾c early, with a rally to 66¾c later, while the close was the same as the previous day at 66c. The market was easily influenced. A weakness in Liverpool and in Argentina had some effect early, but all bearish influences were ignored later, with a rally toward the last on short covering. Winnipeg was ⅞c lower for the day on scattered selling, while Liverpool was off ⅝@¾d. Buenos Aires, after being weak early, rallied sharply toward the last and closed ¼c higher. Export sales of Canadian wheat in all positions were finally estimated at 500,000 bu.

There is every indication of much larger takings of wheat during the latter part of present crop year on the part of foreigners. An analysis of the situation made by the department of agriculture suggests that European countries will take at least 300,000,000 bu and possibly as much as 363,000,000 bu, compared with net imports of 242,000,000 bu during the same period in 1929-'30.

From Aug. 1 to Dec. 27 European countries imported 265,000,000 bu wheat or 62,000,000 bu more than during the five months in 1929. The numerous and drastic agricultural relief measures abroad in most instances appear largely to have had the effect of hastening utilization of domestic crops.

FAIR DECLINE IN LARD

Provision traders sold lard yesterday, owing to continued large receipts of hogs, with indications they are to continue liberal for the balance of the month. Liverpool was 3d higher, but it had no effect, neither did the export clearances of 2,070,000 lbs of lard. The close was at net losses of 10@15c. Bellies were hard to buy owing to limited offerings. January advanced 5c and other deliveries were unchanged. Prices follow:

BUTTER AND EGGS

Butter futures had an early gain on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, but lost ground at the close, ending with decline of ½c. January egg futures climbed to the highest point since early December, but likewise gave way at the last, ending ½c lower. Sales—Butter, 117 cars: eggs, 42 cars. TRADE OFF TO GOOD START IN FIRST 1931 WEEK

Further Expansion Seen on the Way.

BY O. A. MATHER.

With the end of the first full week of the new year ending today, it may be said that 1931 has started off well for trade, industry and finance. This is the testimony of the American Bankers' Association Journal and the weekly mercantile reviews and it is coupled with predictions of further improvement.

"Assurances of expansion during 1931 are already evident in the key industries of steel, automobiles and building," the bankers' publication says. "Whether the last year and a half of curtailment has not only prepared the way but led up to the threshold of recovery can be answered best when the time for normal seasonal expansion in the spring arrives, although signs of improvement in certain individual lines may appear before then.

"Yet we know that the rocky road traversed last year has brought us just that much nearer to the point of recovery, wherever that point may be. One year ago business sentiment was favorable but basic conditions in numerous industries were unfavorable; today it is just the reverse. The more completely losses in 1929-'30 are written off the books, the more marked should be the improvement when it does start."

In Similar Vein.

The current reviews of Dun and Bradstreet are in similar vein.

"The first week of 1931 has been marked by some encouraging signs," Dun's review says. "Prominent among these are the reports of a large employment of industrial workers since the turn of the year. Any gain in that direction, however, extensive idleness still may be, is stimulating, for it enchances the actual and prospective purchasing power. One of the most sensitive barometers of trade, commodity prices, recently has reflected more steadiness.

"On the whole, it seems possible at this writing to take fully as cheerful a view of the future as the oversanguine observers did a year ago," Bradstreet's review says, "always bearing in mind that our country is tied in with the rest of the world and must continue to be affected by world conditions."

Bank clearings this week are estimated at $10,972,923,000, a decline of 9.4 per cent from a year ago. Commercial failures are placed at 927, compared with 732 for the corresponding week in 1930.

Cut Chicago Rediscount Rate.

Another cheerful sign yesterday was the spread of easy money rates throughout the country. The Chicago federal reserve bank reduced its rediscount rate from 3½ to 3 per cent.

The directors' meeting at which the action was taken was attended by Eugene Meyer, chairman of the federal reserve board, but he took no part in the discussion. It was said that the reduction resulted from the directors' belief that there was too great a difference between the former 3½ per cent rate and the New York reserve bank's rate of 2 per cent, which was put into effect late last month.

The Atlanta federal reserve bank also reduced its rediscount rate from 3½ to 3 per cent and on Thursday the San Francisco reserve bank took similar action. The only reserve institutions now maintaining the 3½ per cent rate are at Philadelphia, Kansas City, Minneapolis and Dallas.

ASK RETURN OF $36,000,000 IN STEEL BONUSES

Bethlehem Officials Hit by Demand.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 9.—Demands that the Bethlehem Steel corporation's directors make restitution of bonuses estimated at $36,000,000 paid to officers of the company since 1917 will be made by a group of stockholders known as the Midvale committee.

EUGENE G. GRACE.

The group consists of stockholders of the Midvale Steel company who received Bethlehem Steel stock when the Midvale was absorbed by the Bethlehem several years ago. The committee states that it is ready to make is representation general for all stockholders and has received authority from other stockholders to act on their behalf.

Announcement of the purpose of the Midvale group to demand restitution was made by Henry B. H. Ripley, Samuel D. Hopkins, Edwin D. Levinson, and Benjamin M. Robinson, organized as a "protective committee for Bethlehem stockholders" on Nov. 12.

Probes Payments.

"The committee with the assistance of its counsel has been investigating and considering the question of the rights of the Bethlehem stockholders arising out of the payment of very large bonuses aggregating in excess of $36,000,000," says the committee's 'announcement.' It has been disclosed that these bonuses were paid chiefly to the officers of the corporation who were also directors.

"The committee has until now confined its representation to the original group of stockholders represented by it. It is now advised that the Bethlehem common stockholders have a meritorious claim for redress and has decided, therefore, to make its representation general for all the common stock holders, and is ready to receive authority from any other common stock holders of Bethlehem to act on their behalf."

The facts about the bonuses the Bethlehem Steel corporation has paid certain officers of the company were brought out at the recent hearing in Youngstown, O., on the application of certain stockholders of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company for an injunction against the proposed merger of the Sheet and Tube with Bethlehem. The application was granted on Dec. 29. At the hearing Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, testified that he had received a bonus of $1,623,753 in 1929.

Lack Confirmation.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Reports here of the proposed formation of a two billion dollar rival to United States Steel failed tonight to gain confirmation in Wall street and steel mill regions.

The Cleveland News said today that formation of the giant rival was being considered by several prominent steel men and financiers, adding that consolidation of Bethlehem Steel, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Jones & Laughlin, Corrigan-McKinney, and Otis Steel has been mentioned as a possibility.

Terms of the consolidation, the News said, were reported to have been discussed in New York yesterday by Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier; James A. Campbell, Sheet and Tube chairman, and Eugene G. Grace, Bethlehem president.

See Rival for U. S. Steel.

The News said that parties to the proposed Bethlehem-Sheet and Tube merger, which was invalidated by a Youngstown judge, are determined to create a rival for United States Steel.

Talk of the consolidation was greeted coldly in financial circles in New York, and official comment was not available there.

At Pittsburgh, Jones & Laughlin officials said their company was not involved in any merger plans.

Remains Silent.

Youngstown, O., Jan. 9.—(AP)—James A. Campbell, chairman of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, returning today from New York, declined to discuss a conference which he had yesterday with Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel corporation, presumably concerning the future of merger negotiations between the two companies.

Financial circles here speculated today on the rise in Republic Steel corporation stock yesterday coincident with the presence in New York of Campbell, Grace, and Cyrus S. Eaton of Cleveland, promoter of Republic and the chief force behind the suit which blocked the Bethlehem-Youngstown merger.

GENERAL BAKING REORGANIZATION BELIEVED NEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 9.—A reorganization of the General Baking corporation is under consideration, it was reported in Wall street today.

The General Baking corporation, the holding company, will wind up its affairs and make an exchange of shares with stockholders, it was said.

The holding corporation is a Maryland concern controlling the General Baking company, of New York. It has outstanding approximately 90,775 shares of $8 cumulative preferred stock, 992,980 shares of $6 cumulative preferred and 3,472,361 shares of common.

Ontario Paper Co. to Spend $500,000 on Improvements

BY SCRUTATOR.

Overproductive capacity, in a manner of speaking, exists in the paper making industry as it does in a great many other industries. Many plants are being shut down or discontinued and their contracts are being transferred to others that produce better finished material at lower prices.

In this industry, as in others, there is a continual improvement of method. Equipment of only a few years ago, if left without change, rapidly becomes obsolete. It will do the work it was designed to do, but it will not do work that is good enough to justify competition with up to date rivals.

Some of the old established mills have taken steps even during the present depression to continue their betterment. Instead of accepting the dictum that it's no use trying to fly against general conditions, they have taken the stand that there is still a vast quantity of paper needed to supply the world with its information and that the way to deserve a part of that supply business is to make the best possible at the lowest price. The Ontario Paper company, subsidiary of THE TRIBUNE, with its mill at Thorold on the Welland canal, is one of these.

Will Proceed at Once.

Its management has been given full authority by the parent company to proceed at once, using its judgment without further consultation, on a program that will result in a capital expenditure of more than $500,000 during 1931. It is indicated that a part of this work will begin at the end of the present month and that within a year this expenditure may be extended to take in another $150,000.

The low costs of materials and the plentiful supply of skilled labor now available, together with the concentrated attention machinery manufacturers are able to give their customers now, were factors entering into the decision to go ahead immediately.

Figures furnished by Arthur Schmon, in charge of the mill, show that $271,000 is to be spent for increasing capacity and reducing costs. They show also that an annual saving of $145,000 will result from the expenditure. Improvements in operation, designed directly to make the product better rather than to save money, are to require $141,000 of capital, and maintenance and construction of buildings and safety measures are to take nearly $92,000 more.

Additionally there is in prospect an expenditure ranging up to $120,000 for additional equipment to grind pulp and an unnamed amount to be spent for revamping of the screening process. More grinders will permit somewhat slower work in ripping logs to pulp and will make a better printing sheet. This, after all, is the governing concept to give the reader of THE TRIBUNE the clearest, most closely knit sheet of white paper that can be made; to see that his pleasure in reading will not be lessened by imperfections in manufacture.

Lowers Cost, Betters Product.

The Thorold mill is no new thing. It was started in 1913. It could still make paper of 1913 quality with original equipment. That quality would not be acceptable and hardly usable in 1931. Even during depressed 1930 new winders to tighten the rolls that go on the presses and new electric drives were added in the mill.

The Ontario Paper company will lower its costs while improving the quality of the product. It will, here and there, give work to some hundreds of workmen in 1931, to a considerable number during the present winter. It is, moreover, furnishing an example which goes to prove that what some call overproductive capacity could be changed to real capacity by looking ahead and making it better.

LOOKING AHEAD WITH BUSINESS

It was reported in Wall street yesterday that on Monday the United States Steel corporation is expected to announce the reopening of some of its mills, which will boost the rate of production possibly as much as 7 per cent. The corporation will make its monthly unfilled tonnage report today and current unofficial Wall street estim tes indica' a gain in orders of somewhat between 200,000 and 2[illegible],000 tons.

Deceptive sales of new Lincoln automobiles totaled 486, the largest month since April, 1929. Present output is 20 cars daily and plans are being made for increased production.

The Milwaukee assembly plant of the Ford Motor company has been opened on a restricted basis with 600 men at work, after being closed for inventory.

Six thousand employés of the Singer Manufacturing company at Elizabeth, N. J., have resumed work on a 4 day week basis.

Operations of tire factories in the Akron, O., district are being stepped up to meet the demands of the spring shipping season, the Rubber Exchange of New York reports. The Goodyear Tire and Rubber company will this week produce 240,000 casings, which compares with a schedule of approximately 120,000 casings weekly in effect at the close of 1930. Operating schedules in the district also have been expanded by several smaller manufacturers.

Wall street reports state that the Firestone Tire and Rubber company has prepared a new price list, not yet in the hands of the dealers, with reductions ranging from 7½ to 11 per cent for first line passenger balloon tires and from 6¼ to 12 per cent for so-called secondary line tires.

Mill buying at Pittsburgh and Chicago has hardened prices for heavy melting steel scrap in those centers. The average level at the former city is about $13.25 a ton, an increase of 50 cents, while the Chicago quotation of $10.25 represents a 25 cent rise.

Albert H. Morrill, president of the Kroger Grocery and Baking company, said $2,000,000 would be expended in a program of improvements in stores and plants of his firm's chain system. The program will provide work for many men in many communities, he said.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 9.—Advances in the railroad list were the feature of today's share market. The gains ranged from 1 to 33 points, the extreme upturn coming in the high priced and generally sleepy Central Railroad of New Jersey. Pittsburgh and West Virginia, one of the merger carriers, was particularly buoyant, jumping some 16 points over last night's final figure, and several of the more dignified members of the group like New York Central, New Haven, Southern Railway and Chicago and North Western moved up from a fraction to 2 points or so.

To all appearances, however, much of the buying in this quarter was to be set down as urgent covering by a badly trapped short interest rather than any sudden burst of enthusiasm for the chief beneficiaries. Investors do not usually buy in any such feverish way. Carrier stocks some weeks ago had been the outstanding targets of the bear crowd coincident with the publication of a series of disconcerting statements from executives of several of the leading roads.

Cools Off.

But whatever the impulse of the flurry, it cooled off perceptibly following a statement by President Atterbury of the Pennsylvania expressing the opinion that consolidation of the eastern trunk lines would not be realized for four or five years. Most of the pacemakers of the advance held firmly, although final prices in many instances showed slight recessions from the highs of the day.

Outside of the rails the market was featureless and prices were generally irregular. Pivotal issues were mostly lower at the close.

What interest there was in the industrial group centered chiefly in the specialties, Worthington Pump, Wilson & Co. preferred, Eastman Kodak, and a few others being put over the hurdles, but they experienced difficulty in holding their gains in the late dealings.

Try to Boost Motors.

An attempt was made to boost the motors in the early trading, but there appeared to be no following for this group. The boosters finally turned their attention to other theaters of endeavor. Left to themselves, the motors eased fractionally.

Acute weakness developed in Allied Chemical, which has been under more or less persistent pressure over the last few days. That stock broke sharply for a net loss of some 9 points to new low levels for the bear movement. Other chemical company shares also were distinctly reactionary. The selling in the group was reputedly influenced by talk of increasingly keen competition which the chemical industry is experiencing. Reports have been current lately of considerable price cutting by the various factors in the business, with Allied Chemical subsidiaries, so the story goes, being active in that direction.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 500 cattle, 24,000 hogs, and 5,000 sheep.

The range of hog prices widened sharply on yesterday's erratic trade. Light weights sold freely at stronger prices soon after a steady to 10c lower opening, while medium and weighty stock dragged to a 10@20c lower close, some of the heaviest scraping the season's bottom, established the middle of last week.

Receipts were estimated early at 85,000 and later at 50,000, including 21,000 directs to packers. Armour, Swift, and Wilson, despite the large number of directs, bought 8,000 good butchers, averaging 235@260 lbs at $7.45@7.60. Only 4,000 were left at the close.

Hog Futures Steady.

Bids for hogs for future delivery were steady yesterday. Light weights of delivery during the last half of March and all of April were bid $9.00, while bids on light for the last half February ranged upwards to $8.80. January lights were sold at $8.20. March mediums were bid $8.30 and April mediums for the first half of the month were bid $8.80. On the "to arrive" market light weights for today were bid $7.90.

Yesterday 3,000 plain quality cattle sold at weak to 25c lower prices. Choice steers, eligible to $13.00 and above, were absent, the best available selling at $11.00, with the bulk of sales at $8.00@9.50. Some were held over on unsatisfactory bids late.

Cows and heifers were slow sellers and registered a 25c price cut. A few young yearling heifers were on the market and showed losses of 25@40c. Calves tumbled 50c more, showing $2.00 loss for the week. Stockers and feeders were scarce and steady.

Best Lambs in Demand.

Good grades of fat lambs were in demand at steady prices yesterday, while some other grades showed additional slight price cuts. Good to choice kinds sold at $8.50@8.75, with top to shippers stopping at $8.85 in the absence of fancy light weights. Aged sheep were firm at Thursday's late $3@40c advance, light ewes bringing $4.25@4.40. Yearlings sold steady. Feeding lambs were steady at the week's 50c advance.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 500 cattle, 24,000 hogs and 5,000 sheep, against 204 cattle, 5,811 hogs and 6,390 sheep on the previous Saturday and 697 cattle, 20,942 hogs and 3,050 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 60,000 to 62,000. A. Munson marked $2,000, S. Lund and W. T. Renaker, $3,000; W. C. White, 77,000; J. M. Waters, C. Southwick and J. T. Brown, 78,000; E. S. Waterbury, 74,000; J. T. Arar and F. M. Sherwood, 72,000; W. G. Agar, 71,000; G. W. Chandler, R. B. Ellis and M. J. Berkery, 70,000; H. Pattison, 65,000; G. McLain, 62,000, and G. Daley, 60,000.
